Design 799, by Glenn L. Saxton, Architect, Minneapolis, Minn.

PERSPECTIVE VIEW—FROM A PHOTOGRAPH.

WARDROBE CLOSET INTERIOR.

When the door of this closet is opened the light inside is turned on automatically, and when the door is closed the light is turned off. There is a place for all manner of wearing apparel—built-in hat boxes, rod for coat hangers underneath and drawers for shirt waists, skirts and gowns. Such completely designed closets for every chamber are a guarantee of the completeness of the remainder of the interior of this home. Size of the house 26 feet wide and 28 feet deep over main part. Full basement. Finish throughout red gum, Washington fir or red oak. Second story pine to paint. Cost to build, exclusive of heating and plumbing, $3,200.

Upon receipt of $1 the publisher of this paper will furnish a copy of Saxton's new 1914 book of plans, "American Dwellings." It contains 310 designs of residences costing from $1,000 to $6,000; also book of interiors for $1.50.

ANCIENT STORY RECEIVED

A correspondent in the Richmond Times-Dispatch, in the face of recent happenings in Virginia, throws some light on the agitation some thirty odd years ago to change the North Carolina-Virginia State line all the way down from Danville to Norfolk, thereby bequeathing to Granville county about 30,000 acres of land. The correspondent says:

"I remember that Mr. John R. Pace of Danville, brought out some facts and figures which proved very conclusively that Danville and Norfolk and a whole lot of other Virginia territory really belonged to North Carolina, and in that connection he brought to light some unwritten history about how there was a good deal of fraud in the making of the line that separated Virginia from North Carolina. As well as I recollect, he demonstrated that in all honesty Danville and Norfolk really belonged to North Carolina, and, instead of being three miles over the Virginia line they should be two and a half miles over the North Carolina line. I am sure I do not know just how accurate were Mr. Pace's figures, but I do know that if any man with an eye that is straight will study the State line between the two States, he will find that it has a very suspicious curve. Mr. Pace explained this curve in a way that was at the time perfectly satisfactory to me. He said that when the original surveyors came along to make the State line they found a lot of large land owners, who, for reasons that were natural enough, wanted all of their holdings to be in one State, and it so happened that at the time Virginia was the State they preferred to be in. Accordingly, they "manipulated" the surveyors, and had the line run to suit themselves. Be Mr. Pace's argument as it may, the fact remains that there is a kind of curve or crookedness in the line that separates Virginia and North Carolina, and for all that I know, it may be true that Danville and Norfolk really belong to North Carolina.

OAK HILL ORACLES

Since the rain set in our corn crop is looking fine.

Owing to the long drought the tobacco crops in this section is short.

All are urged to attend our regular meetings: each fourth Sunday, except the next fourth Sunday in August, at which time our pastor will be absent on a visit to his parents in the mountains.

Our protracted meeting started on the 25th and closed on the 30th, and we are glad to say it was the best ever held at this place. Rev. J. S. Kennerson, of Stovall, conducted the meeting, and the church was crowded from day to day with people from many parts of the country. About 17 or 18 made profession of religion and joined our church.

SALE OF LAND.

By virtue of the authority contained in the last will and testament of Margaret I. Hockaday, deceased, late of Granville county, I shall on SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 5TH, 1914, at 12 o'clock m., offer for sale to the highest bidder by public auction, for cash, at the Court House door in Oxford, said county of Granville the following lands:

First Tract: Lying and being situate in Brassfield township, Granville county, adjoining the lands of Mrs. Sallie Turner, Mrs. O. A. Mangum and others, containing 73 acres, more or less, and being "The Home Place" of the late Mrs. Margaret I. Hockaday.

Second Tract: Lying and being situate near Creedmoor, in said county of Granville, adjoining the lands of John H. Perry, J. D. Brogden and others, containing 333 1/3 acres, more or less, and known as "Garner Place."

This last tract will be divided into several smaller tracts and offered in separate tracts on the day of sale and then the tract will be offered as a whole. I shall be glad to show these lands to parties wishing to purchase valuable farming lands. This August 4th, 1914.

J. F. SANDERFORD, Executor of Margaret I. Hockaday, deceased. B. S. ROYSTER, Attorney.

SHORT LEDGER LOCALS

Good Meeting—As a result of revival meetings held last week at the New Island Creek Baptist church, 42 joined the church.

Listen to Brinkley—We call your attention to the advertisement of J.D. Brinkley, the excellent photographer in another column.

Able to be Out—County Commissioner Zack Allen, who has been sick for a week, was able to attend the meeting of the Board on Monday.

In Hobgood House—Mr. and Mrs. Hershey have moved into the Sam Hobgood dwelling on College street and are again comfortably fixed up.

Call at New Home—The Granville Real Estate and Trust Co. has moved into the large room in the rear of the Bank, where Mr. Powell will be glad to see you.

Will Enlarge Stage—Messrs. Harris & Crews, the hustling proprietors of the Orpheum Theatre, are preparing to enlarge the stage of their nice play house.

In Midst of War—Mr. John Tyer, son of Rev. and Mrs. A. P. Tyer, who represents the Export Tobacco Co., is in Finland in the midst of the war cloud.

He's All Right—We were much pleased to meet in Oxford Monday, our old friend, Dorsey Mangum, of Creedmoor section, found him in good health and spirits.

Run Warehouse—Messrs. George and A. W. Cannady, who have decided to run a warehouse at Dunn, were among the Oxford visitors Monday. We wish them much success.

DIED SUDDENLY

Mrs. Sarah N. Adcock, one of the good old ladies of Tar River section, died suddenly at the home of her son on July 29th in the 64th year of her age. She was a follower of the meek and lowly Jesus, and ever ready to perform a good deed, and was a kind neighbor and affectionate mother.

The funeral services were conducted by Rev. George Tunstall and the interment was in the family grave yard in the presence of a large number of friends and relatives.

The pallbearers were: G. N. Daniel, L. Y. Gordon, Walter Moss, E. B. Mangum, B. F. Currin, and Graham Daniel.

CORN AND TOBACCO CROP

Col. John S. Cunningham advises the farmers to be careful in cutting and curing their tobacco and to cut it ripe, and to cut it bright. He looks for good prices for this year's crop. The Durham Sun quotes the colonel as saying: Farmers should have good and tight storage houses, to pack their tobacco in case of a long damp and wet season; much of the tobacco will mold and change its color unless this is attended to, and it should be looked after at once.

The farmers, too, should sow turnips and seed all of the wheat and other crops possible this fall. Many farmers have good crops this year who broke their land early and broke their land deep. One man told me of a farmer who plowed his land with four big mules and worked five to his harrow, and although we have had a severe drought he has a big crop of corn.

The farmers in Eastern North Carolina who ploughed their tobacco and a mold, with a two horse plow and watered and set out their crops early in the season have fine crops of tobacco.

FINE ROAD

Automobile parties are now passing through the gap at Chimney Rock on the Charlotte-Asheville Highway. For three weeks past three squads of laborers have been employed in the construction of the uncompleted section and the road has been blasted, graded and surfaced, though the finishing work is yet in progress. The automobile people report that the road is now in good weather shape and can be traveled in comfort. It will be in permanent condition by the middle of August. This will open to tourists one of the prettiest sections of Western North Carolina and will make travel between Charlotte and Asheville a delight. Both sections of the road east and west of Chimney Rock are considered the best stretches of highway in the State, and with the completion of the work on the gap the entire road will be an invitation for all classes of traffic. This highway will no doubt prove one of the most popular of the roads in the mountain country.—Charlotte Observer.
