tempted this year. She begged the cooperation of all the clubs in the seventh district for their help in the alleviation of this arch enemy—tuberculosis.

Vance County Community Clubs
Mrs. O'Neal told of her work in organizing of five clubs in Vance county, and said that her effort would be directed in bringing these clubs into the Federation. Domestic Science and Home Economics are an important feature of all these community clubs.

Miss Jamison Talks
Miss Jamison of the A. & M. College, being present, was allowed a five minute talk which was most helpful as she told of demonstrations in the iceless refrigerator and her own recipes. She told of why housewives should be experts; combinations of the proper food stuffs for growing children; the necessity for inspecting the conditions of the markets, fruits and grocery stores.

Endowment Fund
Mrs. Sidney Cooper, State chairman Finance, Henderson, reported the Endowment Fund. She said this fund had grown to the sum of one thousand dollars, and predicted that it would soon reach five thousand dollars, which was necessary to the good of the Federation.

Sallie Southall Cotton Loan Fund
Mrs. D. Y. Cooper of Henderson, presented "The Sallie Southall Cotton Loan Fund," which she says is steadily growing, as well as the good resulting from its loans.

Red Cross Seals
Mrs. A. H. Powell, sub-chairman of Health Department has been assigned the work of the Red Cross Seals. She made a plea for greater interest in the sale of these seals, and urged each member of the Federation to help in this work. Each Club is asked to set aside a portion of the funds for the use either in a loan fund, or an equipment fund.

Mrs. Holwell of Goldsboro requested the privilege of speaking to the district on Fire Prevention, but because of a crowded programme, the chair was forced to give her a period of ten minutes during lunch hour.

Lunch was served at one o'clock.

AFTERNOON SESSION
The afternoon session convened at 2:30. Mrs. John Webb, Vice President of the Woman's Civic Club of Oxford presiding.

Miss Hankins, Director of Music at the Oxford College gave a Piano selection.

Mrs. H. G. Cooper in a very happy manner introduced Mrs. Thomas W. Lingle, President of State Federation Woman's Club, Davison College.

Mrs. Lingle gave a most helpful address of an hour. Her most important themes were, Simple and proper dress. The necessity of the training in Domestic Science in the schools and Clubs. The Moonlight School, which is the all important work of the State at present. She urged the help that the Club women might give in this as well as other times of Social service. Her talk was full of inspiration and enthusiasm to the delegates assembled.

Mrs. A. H. Powell, State chm. Library Extension gave a short talk in the work of her department. The time was short but she reported great interest in the work of the districts. Several additions to the Libraries, and general growth in this department. She added the clubs would soon have some communications from her pertaining to this work.

Mrs. Webb, introduced Mrs. E. K. Graham State Secretary of the Federation, who gave a most interesting address on the work of the General Federation. The wisdom of the individual Clubs joining the National body. She made the point that the Clubs were in a way represented by the State organization, with their quota of representatives; but that the connection was stronger and the influence greater if each Club was personally represented.

Chorus—Blives of the Wildwood—Wanderers Night Song—The Ladies of the Thursday Evening Choral Club.
Accompanist—Miss Mary Webb, chm. Music Department Women's Civic Club, Oxford.

On a motion a rising vote of thanks was tendered to the Oxford Club for its bountiful hospitality.

MOVIES FOR COLORED PEOPLE

John Young is Operating a Clean Orderly House

Some days ago an evil tongue started a report to the effect that John Young, proprietor of the Casino, was charging the colored people 25 cents admission to see the very same pictures that are exhibited at the Orpheum Theatre. Upon investigation we find that such is not the case. The prices at the Casino range lower than at the Orpheum. We made a visit to the Casino and find that John Young is running a clean, moral show. The behavior is as good as the Casino as found elsewhere, and the town of Oxford is to be congratulated on having one of John Young's stamp to manage a picture show for colored people. He gives them good pictures at a moderate price and he requires them to walk the chalk line or they cannot enter his place.

Pierian Literary Society

The Pierian Literary Society held its weekly meeting last Friday. The program for the afternoon was a recitation contest. The reciters were: Ruth Parham, Ruth Pitchford, Hallie Fuller, Beulah Fargis, Daisy Smith. The recitations were well prepared. Lucille Hunt and Helen Clement played a duet which was greatly enjoyed.

TOBACCO GROWERS

Should Adopt a Well Planned Rotation of Crops to Control Two Serious Diseases.

Bacterial Wilt

Leaves wilt one by one. Stems have black streaks in wood or rind. A dirty milky liquid can be squeezed from these streaks. A few of the roots may be rotted, the rest are normal. There are no swellings on the roots.

This disease is caused by bacteria that enter the roots and multiply in affected plants, are released by millions in the soil on their decay, persist in the soil for three or more years, and cause increasing loss year by year unless controlled. Plants liable to infection are tobacco, Irish potato, peanut, tomato, pepper, eggplant, ragweed, horse nettle, jimson weed and certain other weeds.

Control. 1. Recognize the disease promptly and at once adopt a rotation to keep susceptible plants off the land for three to five years. Wheat, oats, rye, grasses, cowpeas, clovers, alfalfa, soy beans, corn, cotton, sweet potatoes, may be used. Keep the land too busy for weeds to grow.

2. Prevent transfer of infected soil by surface water, on farm implements, or on the feet of men or stock.

3. Grow plants in a well burned plant bed on new ground, and do not let any water from contaminated sources reach it.

Root-Knot or Nematode Galls
Leaves become yellow and dry at the same time over whole plant. There are no blackened streaks in stems and no milky liquid. The roots show numerous irregular swellings, and the worst affected may be dead and rotten.

This disease is caused by microscopic worms that enter the roots and cause the swellings. Five hundred eggs may be laid by one female, and there are several generations a season. The worms persist in the soil about two years. A large number of kinds of plants are liable to infection, including many of the most useful crop plants and many common weeds.

Control. 1. Adopt a rotation to keep the land for two years in crops not liable to infection. The following crops are safe: Wheat, oats, rye, grasses, cowpeas of the Iron and Brabham varieties only, corn, and peanuts.

2. Avoid any transfer of infected soil.

3. Be sure that plants used for setting are absolutely free from the disease.

Prompt recognition of these troubles, a clear understanding of their nature, and careful, persistent carrying out of the suggested measures are necessary for successful control.
