LOYALTY TO OUR HOME TOWN

The columns of the last issue of the Public Ledger contained for the first time in several years the announcement of the organization of an industrial enterprise in Oxford. It was an unusual announcement. It ought not to be so, but it is. We hope now that the ice is broken, and forces operating for the development of our town have gotten down to a working basis, the time is not far distant when we shall have the pleasure of making other like announcements. There will have to be many such before provision shall have been made for our surplus population, as well as to afford occupation for the others on the outside who are clamoring for homes in our beautiful town.

LANGE'S MODEL SHOWS

Large Crowds Are Enjoying Novel Features.

Lange's Model Shows pitched their tents Monday on New College street and are holding forth every night this week. Large crowds enjoy the novel features, and there are several of them. The "Spider Girl" is a most wonderful illusion and the Silo Motor-Dome causes a genuine thrill.

Mr. Lange, a most pleasant gentleman, is always on the ground to insure the best of order. It is doubtless the cleanest and best carnival on the road. The big cake-walk this Friday night will be an interesting feature. See the announcement elsewhere in this paper.

Major D. F. Clark Dead

Early Wednesday friends in Oxford received the sad and startling news of the sudden death of Major D. F. Clarke, of Winnsboro, S. C. He died Monday, August 21 from apoplexy. At the time of his death he was out with a party of friends and was in apparently the best of health.

Major Clarke is remembered in Oxford as the popular and intelligent major at Horner's school during its last session here. The many friends he made while here will be much surprised and grieved to hear of his death.

THANKS TO THE BUSINESS MEN OF OXFORD FOR MAKING IT POSSIBLE AT THIS TIME

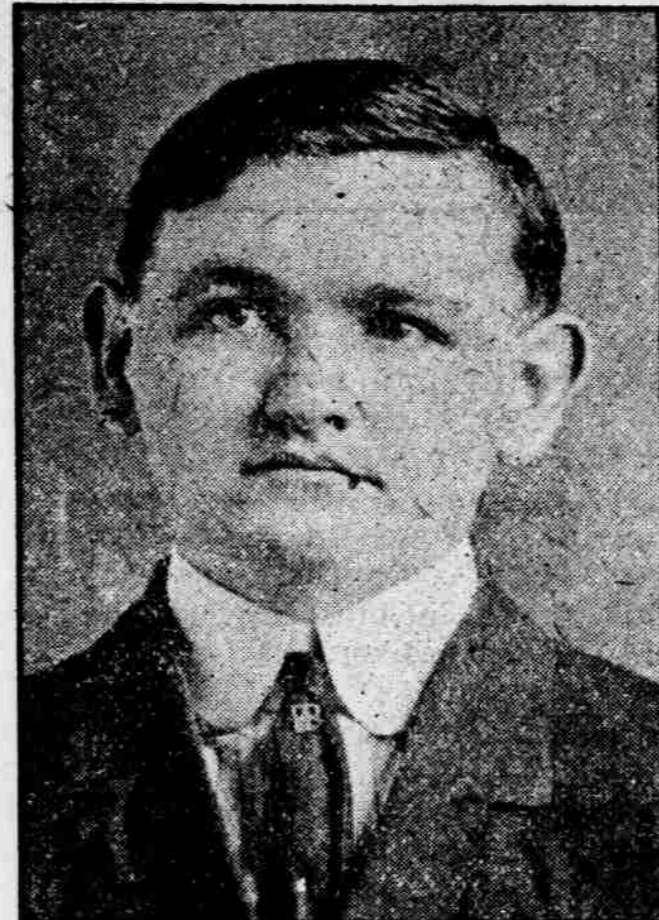

The four cuts to the right and left of this column are the pictures of those who made the Special Edition of the Public Ledger possible. In addition to these we are indebted to Mr. J. D. Brinkley, the photographer, for the many pictures throughout the edition, and to the Maurice Joyce Engraving Company, Washington City, for the cuts.

On account of the heavy foliage at this season of the year, Mr. Brinkley was unable to photograph some of our handsome residence. This was practically so as regards the residences of Dr. E. T. White, Col. Ballou and several other beautiful homes obscured by foliage.

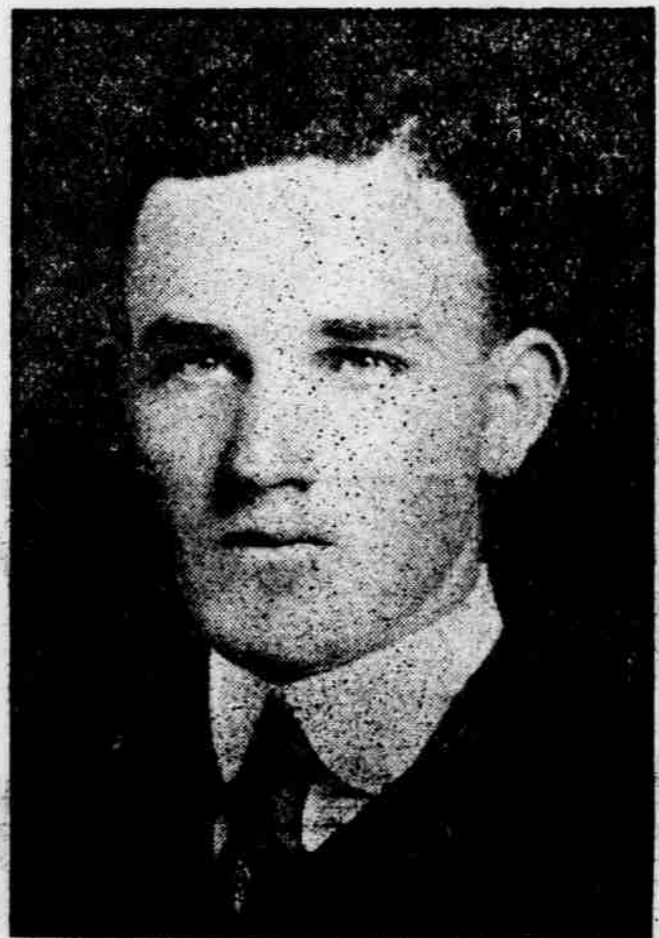

And then, too, there were several business and professional men whose picture should adorn the pages of the Public Ledger, but they did not have the nerve to face the camera in open daylight.

We are indeed very thankful to the business men of Oxford for making it possible to issue a special edition of the Public Ledger at this time. That it will be the means of drawing attention to Oxford and stimulating business there can be no doubt.

Copies of the Special Edition can be had at the Public Ledger office at Five Cents the copy.

Initial Services Will Be Held Next Sunday.

As has been announced, revival services will begin in the Methodist Church of Oxford next Sunday. At night the union service will be held in the Methodist Church, the sermon to be preached by Dr. Phillips.

On Monday there will be preaching at night only, but after Monday there will be preaching at ten o'clock in the morning and at night. Rev. A. L. Stanford, who is to assist in the meeting will arrive on Tuesday, and will preach his first sermon Tuesday night. This will be Mr. Stanford's first visit to Oxford, but he will not be a stranger long after he arrives. He is a member of the Western North Carolina Conference and is now Pas-

THE LOUISBURG MARKET.

The High Prices of the Famous Season of 1913 Duplicated.

Local tobaccoists and business men who attended the opening of the tobacco market at Louisburg Wednesday brought back reports of the highest prices prevailing on the market there of any season for the past ten years, the opinion of some being that the high prices of the famous 1913 season were surpassed by a considerable margin. Mr. W. H. Hunt representing the First National Bank, said that the average was about 17c. At the time Mr. Hunt left Louisburg the sale had just been finished, and the warehousemen had not had time to figure their averages.

The break for the opening day was approximately 30,000 pounds, it was said, and competition was reported to be very keen indeed. The lower grades of the weed sold especially well, and the general average was estimated by some to exceed last year's opening prices by possibly one hundred percent.

KILLED BY LIGHTNING

Mr. Tom Oakley Meets Instantaneous Death.

Mr. Tom Oakley, who lived two miles from Virgillina, was killed by lightning last Monday evening about 8 o'clock while passing from the barn to the house.

He was laid to rest Wednesday at Amis Chapel, a large crowd of relatives and friends being present.

He leaves a wife and three children—all girls, a mother and two brothers.

The sad death was a shock to the community. Mr. Oakley was a devout Christian and a loving and tender husband and father. The funeral was conducted by his pastor, Rev. Reeves, of Nelson.

Returned Missionaries

Rev. R. J. Parker and wife and 4 children from Cuba arrived at the home of her grandmother, Mrs. Susan Hunt last Monday. There is a treat in store for all to hear them take some part in the service at Salem next Sunday. The children will sing in Spanish for the people. D. N.H.
