RALEIGH DECLINES TO AID ROAD

The Bullock Link Will Not Be Built.

(Henderson Daily Dispatch)
Raleigh has declined to assist in raising the fund for the completion of the National Highway from the Vance county line to the town of Bullocks. This information was contained in a letter received by Secretary C. W. Robards, of the Chamber of Commerce from the secretary of the Raleigh Chamber. The Raleigh man said that after an unavoidable delay he was able to inform the parties here that it would be impossible for Raleigh to do anything.

The chairman of the good roads committee of the Raleigh organization was quoted by the secretary, in regard to the matter.

Several weeks ago a delegation from the local Chamber of Commerce went to Raleigh to lay this matter before the Chamber there, stressing the benefit that would accrue to Raleigh business interests by diverting traffic to that city over the great highway between the North and the South. It was reported at that time that material aid might be expected, and that Raleigh hotel men has promised to make contributions to the fund.

Although it seems that Raleigh business men have turned the deaf ear to the appeal from the Henderson Chamber hope is still held out that assistance may be had. It was hoped to get $600 or $700 from Raleigh. The total needed was $1,800, of which $1,100 has already been subscribed by citizens in Vance county, and along the proposed route.

TRY GRANDMOTHER'S METHODS OF DRYING VEGETABLES

Producing food is only half the job.

Food which isn't needed now must be saved for the future.

To waste food at any time is indefensible; this year it is little short of criminal.

Most vegetables and fruits are largely water, and it is the water that makes them spoil easily.

Drive off the water by drying and save the real food.

It will keep perfectly in a paper box.

You can draw on your spigot or well bucket for the water when you need it, and make appetizing food.

Your grandmother dried vegetables and fruits before canning was known.

If you can't get cans or pans at reasonable prices, practice the methods Grandmother found good. Send for Farmer's Bullentin 841, which tells how.

FARM AND GADEN CALENDAR

Several Things Can Be Successfully Planted in July.

Editor of Public Ledger:

I wish to state to your readers that some of the finest vegetables grown are planted during the month of July. I herewith hand you an outline:

The Garden

1. Succession planting of sugar corn can be made till the last of the month. Stonwell's Evergreen are best varieties.
2. Transplant Ponedrosa tomato plants or other late varieties.
3. Snap beans for succession; stringless green pod.
4. Sow bush lime beans for fall crop.
5. Plant sufficient butter beans and black eye peas to dry for Winter use.

6 Where the ripe onions, garden peas and other early vegetable crops have been removed plant to other seasonable vegetables.

The Farm

1. With the wet weather we are having, see that all ditches and drains are kept open and free from obstructions, so that they may do their duty.
2. Keep up successive plantings of grazing crops for the hogs, particularly cow peas and sweet potatoes. We must feed our hogs on something other than two-dollar corn.
3. Give every crop thorough cultivation, keeping the weeds killed and saving the moisture, is the surest guarantee of a bountiful harvest.

His Best Chance
(Columbia State)

An editorial on "New York's One Negro Firm" in The World startles Southern readers. That there are comparatively few negro firemen in paid departments in the South is explicable, but that in the metropolitan city, with its tens of thousands of firemen and larger negro population perhaps than any Southern city has, negroes are practically excluded from the department of fire protection is amazing. 'Tis pity, but 'tis true that the negro's best chance, poor as it may be, is the land accursed of the Abolitionists.

A housewife in Paris cannot buy a 50-pound sack of coal at any price, but large consumers have been able to obtain it in lots of from two to ten tons at $75 a ton. This situation was disclosed in the debate in the French chamber of deputies on the economic situation.
