

Pretty Children

"We have three children. Before the birth of the last one my wife used four bottles of MOTHER'S FRIEND. If you had the pictures of our children, you could see at a glance that the last one is healthiest, prettiest and finest-looking of them all. My wife thinks MOTHER'S FRIEND is the greatest and grandest remedy in the world for expectant mothers." — Written by a Kentucky Attorney-at-Law.

MOTHER'S FRIEND prevents nine-tenths of the suffering incident to childbirth. The coming mother's disposition and temper remain unruffled throughout the ordeal, because this relaxing, penetrating liniment relieves the usual distress. A good-natured mother is pretty sure to have a good-natured child. The patient is kept in a strong, healthy condition, which the child also inherits. MOTHER'S FRIEND takes a wife through the crisis quickly and almost painlessly. It assists in her rapid recovery, and wards off the dangers that so often follow delivery.

Sold by druggists for $1 a bottle.

STATE PRESS.

A seventy-year old minister in Chicago, who was a widower, took unto himself another wife and explained to those who marvelled at it, that his wife, who was happy in heaven, would not wish to have him lonely an earth, and that he paid her a high compliment by bouncing into matrimony again so soon.—Wilmington Star.

The Charlotte Observer has soul and body come over to the Republican party and accepts into all its fundamental policies. Yet there is something—a dissatisfaction—about which the Charlotte Observer just must be patted, or it never will have that good and pleasant feeling which such a good and well-meaning citizen is entitled to, all this simply must be called "Democratic" in the presence of the Observer, and no one should dare do otherwise that has the proper respect for the feelings of others. What difference does it make! As to our part we concede to the Observer all it asks for itself in the traditional and sacred names, what we want is for the "pot to continue to boil."—Winston Republican.

Governor Aycock's New York address is applauded and much praised in the north. The New York correspondent of Philadelphia Press writes "that those who heard the North Carolina orator have been speaking ever since with fine enthusiasm of his brilliant speech." According to the Press correspondent, "no address has been delivered in New York to compare with it since Henry W. Grady astonished and delighted the members of the New England Society by a revelation of the higher gifts of oratory." The Baltimore Sun says of him: "Although comparatively a young man he has a wide reputation as an eloquent and forceful speaker. As a political campaigner he is without a superior in the Far West State which has never lacked able and effective orators."

Speaking of the evils of the cigarette habit the Greensboro Record observes: "And yet if the manufacturers of the cigarette but give liberally to various worthy causes they are immortalized. Why not worship the distiller who makes liquor, provided he does a little 'endowing'?" He is not whit worth the former—in fact the traffic has to do more with the youth of the land than whiskey, there are at least a few safeguards thrown around liquor while the cigarette can be purchased anywhere and almost at any time." There is much truth in this. In fact, considering how popular the cigarette can be purchased anywhere and at almost at any time." There is much truth in this. In fact considering how popular the cigarette men have made themselves by their contributions to religious, charitable and educational institutions, we have been surprised that wealthy whiskey dealers have not followed their example.—Statesville Landmark.

During the Educational Conference here some one described a "crank" as who knows the Lord would do things according to his notion if the Lord knew as much about it as he does. We are reminded of this definition by the following remarks which Dr. Kilgo is reported to have made in an address at Greensboro, a few nights ago, to-wit:

"The broadest split, in this country today is the business spirit, not the religious or political spirit. Civilization is now engaged in a great fight for supremacy in the Celestial Empire. I tell you that God will go into China through the cotton factory, the railroad and the telegraph quicker than through the prayer-meeting."

We do not think Dr. Kilgo's "revelation" will be subscribed to by those missionaries in China who complain that their work has been retarded by the "business spirit" which introduced the vile cigarettes and accompanying low pictures into the Celestial Empire.—Winston Sentinel.

There is a class of politicians who live on hate, who never shed the sunshine of peace and good will. They steal when they can, and when caught in act, in order to cover up their own guilt, they cry out against honest men, and cry fraud and corruption, and sometimes well-meaning men are deceived by their loud clamor. These men are found generally in the shape of some dirty fellow who has been elevated in the Radical revenue service; sometimes he is the hired tool of the revenue ring; sometimes he is a creation of the ring, wanting an office only to disgrace it and for loot and plunder. Again he is a sorehead without credit or the confidence of his neighbors, and desperation seeks succor for his sorrow in consolation with swine-feeding on the husks and refuse from Hann's table. These are the Johnnie McLaurins of politics, who have boxed the political compass with each changing wind, and who never had any political convictions other than those promoted by their desire for office or the refuse from Hanna's table. The career of such is short-lived; rocks and mountains soon fall upon them.—Asheboro Courier.

Dr. Kilgo is much given to striking paradoxes, and is troubled with a "breaking out" at the mouth. He is a forceful speaker and a fine declaimer.

but frequently pains his friends by rash speeches. He is reported to have said some time ago that he "could lead a woman anywhere with a diamond ring." This in all conscience, was bad enough, if it were said; but it comes perilously near sacrilege for a minister of Christ to suggest that God will go into China on the waves of commerce rather than on the wings of prayer. * * * We believe that if the churches of Christendom should go down on their knees in dead earnest God would go down into China and stay there. We have seen faith in a God that has to go to China—or any where else—boxed up in commercial packages and labeled "Duke's Cigarettes." It would be of advantage to the church if some of its representatives had a stopper applied to the hole in their heads.—Morganton Herald.

NEW TRIAL IN KILGO CASE.

Supreme Court Sets Aside Verdict in Damage Suit.
The Supreme Court grants a new trial in the very notable and sensational damage suit of Rev. T. J. Gattis, of the North Carolina Methodist Conference, against President John C. Kilgo, of Trinity College; W. R. Odell, and B. N. Duke. The lower court gave a verdict for $20,000. The new trial is granted because of certain errors in the judge's charge. It is held that Dr. Kilgo had a right in his defence to recent charges against his character.

In the case of Gattis vs. Kilgo, Justice Montgomery delivers the opinion of the court ordering a new trial. There is no dissenting opinion. Justice Clark did not sit in this case. The opinion is of great length. The court says that whether or not the speech of Kilgo published by defendant in pamphlet form was a privileged communication was a question of law and the judge below properly tried the case as one of qualified privilege. In vindication of Kilgo's character, he (Kilgo) has a right to publish a fair and honest account of acts done in the course of investigation, provided the publication was free from malice. No error is found in most of Judge Hoke's charge to the jury, but a new trial is granted for certain errors in the charge, the court holding that Kilgo's speech was absolutely privileged. The court holds that Kilgo's trial before the board of trustees of Trinity College upon charges against his character and fitness was like a trial before a court for violation of the law of the land and that he had a right in his defence to resent the charges. In this State defendants have entire immunity in trial before courts of law in such cases, provided what they say is pertinent to the issue. The court holds that Kilgo's speech, which was published by W. R. Odell and B. N. Duke as the trustees of Trinity, was not intrinsic evidence of malice.

The Durham Herald says the decision of the court makes the defendants side jubilant but the plaintiff side is not cast down and will go into a new trial with new hopes and confidence of winning. While the decision of the court will result in a new trial and in that for it is a victory for the defendant—it is claimed that the court has settled several very important points of law and that the contentions of the plaintiff were upheld in the main. On the other hand the friends of the defendants claim that the court has left nothing on which the plaintiff can stand for a new trial. From what could be learned yesterday it is thought that a new trial will be had at the July term of Granville Superior Court. The case will be tried again in Oxford and many think that the case will be called at the above named term of court. Since the trial of the first case Attorney Aycock has been elected governor, and one of the attorneys for the defense has died. This will necessitate the employment of at least two new lawyers and it is understood that several will be added. The next trial of the case will be a hard fought one and the best legal talent in the state will be employed on one side or the other.

Dr. C. J. MOFFETT—Dear Sir: I cannot too strongly recommend your TETHIAN (Teething Powders) to mothers as one of the best medicines they can obtain for their debilitated and sickly infants. I have used it with very satisfactory results the past summer with my child, and while we have heretofore lost a child or two from teething under other remedies, our present child, that has taken TETHIAN, is a fine, healthy boy. I am, very respectfully,

The Book Trust.

Wilmington Messenger says: The Messenger is not trying to represent any company or series of books. It wishes to see right done. It wishes to see, all things being equal, southern publishers favored. The South is forever a heaver of wood and a drawer of water for the North. Have some independence, self-reliance and appreciation of home productions.

We note with pleasure that our old friend of more than a half century, Mr. W. H. P. Jenkins, the eloquent legislator from Granville, who made such a fine impression upon the members, has written a letter to Raleigh News and Observer in which he says emphatically that the people are opposed out and out to giving the favors of the State to the very publishers who fought the good law. We quote a passage from this intelligent legislator and ever faithful North Carolinian:

"Notwithstanding the opposition of these companies the bill was passed and I learn that the bills of the various publishers show a reduction of from 35 to 40 per cent.

For many years have been connected with the public schools of the State, and have found by long experience the books now in use were not satisfactory either in matter or price and no act in my legislative career given me more pleasure than the vote I cast for school book law.

It is now reported that the University and American Book Companies are endeavoring to make the state board believe that the people want the books; that these companies have furnished for the past 30 years at exorbitant prices, retained for the next 5 years."

Peabody Scholarship.

July 18th and 19th the examination of persons to fill the vacant scholarships at the Peabody Normal College will be held by the various boards of education. The State Superintendent of Public Instruction finds that for years practically all the scholarships have gone to the western part of the State. He is determined that all sections shall have a show. He was some weeks ago notified by the president of the college that there were three vacancies. A few days ago he was notified that the president had made a nomination for one of the vacancies. The Superintendent said he would ignore this nomination and have the examinations held. It is more than probable that his decided action will result in a shake up of the old system.

Owners Held Responsible.

The Charlotte Observer calls attention to a case of importance reported in the digest of the Supreme Court decisions and says: "A man known to be cruel and mean to children was superintendent of a cordage mill. In his service was a ten year old boy, a sweeper. For nonattention to his work the superintendent shoved the boy, so that he fell upon some spinning frames and sustained the loss of fingers. The Supreme Court holds, in an action for damages, that the owner of the mill is liable, because he had no business to put a superintendent of such reputation in charge of the mill. The decision is a just one."

CAME THROUGH THE ROOF.

Cow Knocked From a Bridge and Landed on a Breakfast Table.

While the family of William Riley was at breakfast Monday a cow came crashing through the roof of the house and landed on the breakfast table. The Riley family live in the valley below the Starrucca Viaduct, near Binghamton, N. Y., near the Erie railway structure that rises 300 feet from the ground.

The cow wandered into the bridge just as a train approached. The engineer realized that if his train left the track it would be dashed to pieces, and determined to put on force enough to remove the obstacle. Accordingly he threw the throttle open and struck the cow at all speed. There was a slight jar to the train, but the animal was hurled into the air and clearing the bridge crashed through the roof of the house below. Then there was a wrecked roof, a spoiled breakfast and a dead cow, but no damage was done to the family.
