To Save Her Child.

From frightful disfigurement Mrs. Nannie Gallager, of LaGrange, Ga., applied Bucklen's Arnica Salve to great sores on head and face, and writes its quick cure exceeded all her hopes. It works wonders in Sores, Bruises, Skin Eruptions, Cuts, Burns, Scalds and Piles. 25c. Cure guaranteed by J. G. Hall.

The Seaboard Air Line will operate a special train to Richmond on Sept. 3rd, leave Henderson 10:30 a. m. returning leave Richmond 7:30 p. m. on 4th. Round trip only $2. For further information address Weathers & Christian Managers, or H. S. Leard, T. P. A. Raleigh.

News From Factory Hill.

Superintendent Collins informs us that the work on the Oxford Cotton Mills is about completed and the machinery continues to arrive and placed in position. The storage house will also soon be finished up. Factory Hill presents quite an attractive appearance since everything has been painted up, and President J. G. Hall realizes the fruits of his arduous labor and the editor congratulates him upon the success he has achieved.

A Word of Warning.

The newspaper "dead beat" is still abroad in the county, as we learn he is bold enough to walk into some of the county post-offices and take out his neighbors Public Ledger and is allowed to read it. Of course the editor has no desire to get any body into trouble, but if it is not stopped will be compelled to report the matter to the Postoffice Department. A word to the wise should be sufficient. If there is anything in the world we are tired of it is the "dead beat" whose cheek out rivals that of a government mule.

Oxford & Coast Line Railroad.

From all the information we can gather the building of the Oxford & Coast Line Railroad is an assured fact and it is to be hoped that our citizens will join Judge Graham in his efforts to furnish Oxford with increased railroad facilities, which means lower freight rates, more business for our merchants and larger sales of leaf tobacco. It also means increased population for our town, and all of us should unite in extending every possible aid to the builders of this most important road which means so much to the future prosperity of our beautiful town.

We were Misinformed.

We were misinformed as to W. A. Pattillo, Jr., having made application for a teachership in the Colored Graded School and take pleasure in making the correction. He is well educated and we are glad to learn he is doing well in the North and has been fortunate enough to capture a suitable companion for life. We take it that the Colored Graded School will be well managed as a well equipped corps of teachers has been elected, and good work will be accomplished. We urge our colored friends to unite and use their best efforts to make the school a success in every way.

School Teachers.

As the time is now approaching when the school committees of the different townships of the county elect teachers, we think that it is not amiss to give an extract from the new school law about the employment of teachers. It is as follows: "School committee shall meet at convenient times and places for the employment of teachers for the public schools, and no teachers shall be employed by any committee except at a regularly called meeting of such committee, due notice of said meeting having been given at three public places by the committee."

Generosity of Country Editors.

Senator Davis, of Illinois, is quoted as saying: "Each year every local newspaper gives from $500, to $5000 in free lines for the benefit of the community in which it is printed. No other agency can or will do this. The editor in proportion to his means does more for this town than any other man, and in all fairness he ought to be supported, not because you like or admire his writings, but because a local newspaper is the best advertisement a community can have. It may not be crowded with great thoughts, but financially it is more of benefit than teacher or preacher."

Oxford's Greatest Need is a Hotel.

Oxoniens may congratulate themselves on dwelling in a town where nature is lavish of all that is grand, glorious, charming and fascinating in environment, thrilling with inspirational beauty and responding to all that is delightful and enjoyable. But at the same time they are to be commiserated upon the lack of individual concern on the part of those whose duty it should be to advance their progressive interests in all that applies to making Oxford an up-to-date town. In this respect the delay in encouraging the building of a first-class hotel has retarded the progress of Oxford in a mark degree. On Friday last we heard a traveling man say he had been to every town of any size in the State, but Oxford had the poorest hotel accommodations he had found and should be awarded the premium.

One fine Jersey cow fresh in milk for sale at a low price by W. R. Walters, Wilton, N. C.

Solicitor Brooks Speaks at Chapel Hill.

Mr. A. L. Brooks, the fine Solicitor of this district, delivered an able lecture before the law class of the University on the evening of the 15th. His subject was "The Criminal Law" which he handled in a masterly manner. It was listened to with great attention as well as pleasure by the large class in attendance upon the summer Law School.

Captured the Order.

Wake Forest College is putting in new furniture and the Oxford Furniture Company come in competition with the other factories of the State for 40 suits and was awarded the contract. It is a settled fact that the Oxford Furniture Company manufacture high grade goods and give great satisfaction wherever sold, which accounts for the large orders being received.

Large Break of Tobacco.

Friday was another big day in Oxford and our streets were thronged with farmers selling early curings of tobacco. All five of our warehouses enjoyed good breaks and the sales were lively from start to the winding up in the afternoon.

Our leaf dealers are blessed with very large orders and the demand for all grades of tobacco is larger than ever before, and our farmer friends can bet on receiving the top cream of the market on every load sold in Oxford this year. The weed is selling well and on Friday every farmer went home well pleased and full of praise for the Oxford market.

Kind and Appreciative Words.

No man has died in North Carolina since the great Vance "fell on sleep" about whom more kind and appreciative things have been written by lawyers, church members, and journalists, than those that have appeared in memory of the late John W. Hays of Oxford. We delight in this, because they were so richly deserved, and he was one of the oldest and nearest, and truest of friends the writer has ever been blessed with. The bar of Granville held a meeting and a report concerning him was adopted. It is a fine tribute to one of the best of men and most faithful of lawyers.—Wilmington Messenger.

Latest Scare on Microbe.

Readers of Don Quixote may recall how at the grand banquet prepared for Sancho Panza on the installation as Governor that each dish was put before him an attending physician forbade it on some plea about its affecting his health, until Sancho was rendered fairly mad with hunger and disappointment. Something like this has grown out of the germ idea. These little disturbers of joy are making everything that is good or pleasant a source of danger. The latest scare based on the microbe is that the glasses in which soda water is drawn may communicate typhoid fever. Still considering among other things the way they are usually washed and rinsed, it really looks as if this rumor was rather started in the interests of those young fellows who have numerous best girls but limited pocket money.

Had But Thirty Days to Live.

There is no doubt that as much of the future as is profitable for us to know has been revealed to us and it seems like folly to try to pry farther into the mysteries that are beyond human ken. It is related of a Duluth lady that while in Chicago recently she visited a palmist, who told her that she had but thirty days to live. Again at a card party, a friend "told her fortune" and imparted the startling information that she had but two weeks to live. Two days later she was taken ill, returned to her home and died on the last day of the allotted two weeks. She might have died anyway, but the doctors who attended her say that fortune telling undoubtedly exerted an influence to produce the woman's death, and it is quite probable that it did. Whether it did or not there was certainly nothing gained by being harassed by any such prediction.

Expansion at Home—Not Concentration—Live and Let Live.

We are not a believer in the political doctrine of expansion abroad, but do believe in the business doctrine of expansion at home as opposed to the selfish idea of concentration of a few and against the interests of the many and the prosperity of the town. Let every body have a showing and the town will prosper.

If there is any section in this country of ours which has independent thinkers among all classes, rich and poor, it is Granville county. If there is a section which opposes combination and boss rule and the concentration of business interests to the detriment of others it is this section, as they believe in live and let live. Yes, the people are opposed to a "special coterie" and monopolies, and the Granville people have a constitutional hatred of monopolistic methods. It is true they have had to suffer from the iron heel of trusts influence which has and is prevailing, but this shadow is going to be dispelled as the people demand it.

I have $5,000 to lend out in amounts of $100 to $2,000 upon reasonable security. C. J. Cooper.

Granville Public Roads.

The roads of this county are changing from bad to worse. News reaches us from all sections that the roads are still in a terrible condition and in sections almost impassible. The heavy rains have made the roads in a worse condition than they would have been; but this condition has been brought about largely for want of work before and since the rains set in. We are informed that there is a place in a public road in Oak Hill township near the centre of the road in which a horse will almost disappear when he enters it. This ravine is about three feet deep, a kind of a high-land cave. In almost every direction the roads are in a terrible condition. Surely the overseers have forgotten their duty and forgotten the law on this point. If they do not heed our advice they will be very sorely reminded of both ere long. Something must be done. The public should not be inconvenienced on account of the neglect of those who know their plain duty. There is too much at stake for this work to be neglected.

A Heaping Harvest This Season.

Landis & Easton continues to make improvements in their large stores and getting ready to do a larger business this fall. They are providing for the comforts of the ladies, and have fitted up a nice reception room at the head of the stairs on the second floor and furnished it with a cradle, a couch and other necessary articles for the comfort of the ladies. Mr. Willie Landis will leave Saturday for the various markets and will purchase the handsomest stock of fall and winter goods ever shown in Oxford. He knows what his customers want and always tries his best to please them, and the Dry Goods and Millinery Departments will be more attractive than ever this season.

The Clothing Department is a new feature with this splendid firm, and is now an attractive place for the men and boys as it is admirably fixed up. A part of the stock of new fall and winter clothing, gentlemen's furnishings and shoes have arrived and nicely arranged by Mr. W. S. Sheeler, an expert handler of clothing of over 4 years experience with the large clothing firm of York Bros. & Rogers, of Charlotte. He certainly understands his business, and is exceedingly pleasant with it and will make you feel at home in the Clothing Department at Landis & Easton's. He will fit you up from head to foot in a fall outfit at very bottom prices and we advise you to call and see him and you will have money left.

Resolutions of Respect.

Whereas, our Father in Heaven in His wisdom has removed from our midst Mr. John W. Hays, who for more than 40 years, through winter's cold and summer's heat, so regularly faithfully served our Sunday School as its beloved Superintendent, using freely his talents, time and money in its interest, often under discouragements but never flagging in his zeal, ever leading the way to a higher life, encouraging by his diligence and punctuality, (virtues upon which he set so great a value) exemplifying his faith by his works in his unselfishness and devotion to duty.

And whereas, this Methodist Sunday School of Oxford desires to express its appreciation of his lovely character and sorrow for its great loss in his transition to a better world, be it Resolved 1. That we will never forget the Bible truths which he so ably tried to inculcate in our hearts and minds, that we will endeavor to answer satisfactorily to ourselves and our Redeemer the last lesson text he wrote on the blackboard, "Lovest Thou Me?" and to so shape our lives as that we may through his teachings meet him again in the beautiful Beyond. His labors are ended. He enjoys "the rest that remaineth to the people of God" where "Hope hath changed to glad fruition, Faith to sight and prayer to praise."

Resolved 2. That these resolutions be placed on the minutes of the Sunday School, and to be published in the Oxford Public Ledger and Raleigh Christian Advocate.

Quick Justice—Monroe, the Rapist, to Hang

Charlotte, Aug. 15.—Swift justice was meted out to William Monroe, the negro who assaulted Mrs. Lemuel Martin at her home near Matthews, Mecklenburg county, Monday morning. He was caught at an early hour yesterday afternoon in the Superior Court and was tried, convicted and sentenced to be hanged on the 13th day of September, all within 24 hours after the clutches of the law first fastened on him.

It was a case where quick action was necessary for fear of lynching. Judge Hoke realized this and all the machinery of the court was put in motion to bring about this end.

It was a horrible story the little woman was forced to tell to a crowded court room. Strong men wept as she related every act of the inhuman wretch. Nerved on by what she afterwards stated she considered a duty she owed to her sex, the brave little woman related the horrible scene that was enacted in that country home Monday morning.

Before the trial Mrs. Martin was taken to the jail to identify Monroe. He was placed in line with a number of other prisoners and she passed along the jail corridor until she reached a point just opposite Monroe. With tears in her eyes and suppressed emotion she pointed out the brute who had so foully assaulted her.

A lynching would have occurred had the court failed speedily to administer justice. Among the best people of the county were men so enraged that they were crying for the negro's blood and ready to join the more turbulent element in wreaking upon him a mob's vengeance.

After passing sentence on Monroe Judge Hoke adjourned court immediately. The crowds on the outside were still inclined to be demonstrative in passing from the building. Judge Hoke went to the front steps and said: "If any unlawful effort is made here this afternoon it will be attended by fearful cost. The officers of the law are determined to do their duty, and I again warn you not to do any unlawful act."

Astounded the Editor.

Editor S. A. Brown, Bennettsville, S. C., was once immensely surprised. "Through long suffering from Dyspepsia," he writes, "my wife was greatly run down. She had no strength or vigor and suffered great distress from her stomach, but she tried Electric Bitters which helped her a' once, and, after using four bottles, she is entirely well, can eat anything. It's a grand tonic, and its gentle laxative qualities are splendid for torpid liver." For Indigestion, Loss of Appetite, Stomach and Liver it's a positive guaranteed cure. Only 50c at J. G. Hall's.

Death of Mrs. Andrew J. Harris.

—As we go to press we deeply regret to learn of the sudden death of Mrs. Andrew J. Harris, of Henderson, Tuesday night. We have heard no particulars of her death. The editor extends to the grief stricken loved ones his warmest sympathy. She was the beloved daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Mitchell of our town, and a most excellent christian lady, honored and loved by all who knew her. The members of the family in Oxford went to Henderson this Wednesday morning to attend the funeral.

Shot Through the Neck.

There was a watermelon sold at the home of J. T. Cash in North Durham last night at which one young man came near losing his life. An old "unloaded" pistol did the work, and William Harton has a piece of lead in his neck.

In the crowd of young people were gathered at the home of Mr. Cash and among the number were Leonard Lyon and William Harton. During the evening Lyon, a young man about 18 or 20 years of age, found an old pistol in the house. After ascertaining that it "was not" loaded it was snatched several times inside the house. Then it was carried out into the yard and in spirit of play Lyon pointed the old gun towards Harton and snapped again. This time it proved to be loaded and the ball plowed its way through the right cheek of Harton and lodged in the back part of his neck.

Dr. Cheatham was hastily summoned and made an examination of the wound. While very painful it will not prove serious in any way and in a few days young Harton will be as well as usual.

Lyon, who did the shooting, was scared as much as, if not more, than Harton and it was a great relief to him when the physician pronounced the wound not necessarily dangerous. Dr. Cheatham probed for the bullet but could not get it out last night. This will be done this morning.

It was a narrow escape from instant death, being a repetition of the old story of fooling with a pistol that has not been loaded for years. The unfortunate affair put an end to the fun of the merry-makers.—Durham Herald Aug. 20th.
