BRIEF DASHES OF THINGS HAPPENING.

A light beamed mother makes a heavy beamed daughter.

Bachelors wives and old maids children are always well taught.

Several of our people took in the Excursion to Norfolk Wednesday.

When the heart is full it is different.

No lawyer is able to obtain a stay of proceedings in Judge Lynch's court.

Teas are the mustard plasters of the hearts—they draw when nothing else will.

Some men are noted for the truth that is in them—for they never let any come out.

When a fellow tells a girl he is not worthy of her she doesn't believe him till after they are married.

All of manufacturing enterprises are enjoying a good trade this season and those interested are in high spirits.

Read sale of valuable lands near Stem and lots in the town of Oxford advertised by H. M. Shaw, Commissioner, in another column.

The large Graded School building is now in the hands of the painters and when completed will present quite a neat appearance.

Mr. W. D. Bryan has purchased from Mr. J. P. Floyd what is known as the Taylor cottage on Raleigh street and will move in soon.

Durham is humping hers off with the directory, she may reasonably claim to be a growing town.

If the old frame awnings were removed from the sidewalks and the drop ones put in their places it would make a decided improvement.

The sweet girl graduate will now go to work to get a husband so she can teach him a few things he can't find out till after he is married.

For the benefit of your health and that of your neighbors have your cleaned up and lined your back lot as the sickly season is at hand?

There is one thing about it, if Dr. McKelvey recovers all for which he is suing he can quit the newspaper business.—Durham Herald. And also preaching.

The County Commissioners met Monday to hear complaints as to listing taxes and they had but little to do as but few people appeared before the board.

Louis Evans, probably the oldest colored man in the county, died near Oxford Friday. It is claimed that he was about 100 years old and was an old issue negro.

Prof. Robt. Kittrell was sworn in Monday and entered upon the duties of Superintendent of Public Schools of Granville county, and will prove an able and efficient Superintendent.

The Kansas City Star is kicking because of the extravagance of expenditure it requires to fit out a Summer girl. She may come high but the Summer girl is worth the money every time.

Mr. Thomas H. Hobgood, who has been in bad health for several years, died at his home near Sunset Monday night, and was buried Tuesday afternoon, the burial being largely attended by neighbors and friends.

The Public Ledger is pleased to learn that the Sunday School Excursion from Creedmoor to Raleigh on the 7th proved a pleasant and successful one and much credit is due the committee who had the excursion in charge.

Oxford has a great health-giving fountain in the flowing artesian sulphur well, and hundreds of gallons are carried away from the well every day. This clear as a crystal water has greatly benefited a large number of our people.

The long-looked-for improvement of Raleigh street has at last been commenced and Chief Sam Wheeler says when he gets through with the work the people will have no right to kick, as he intends to put it in first-class condition.

The splendid water tank of the water work, electric light and ice company has been completed and the Messrs. Gules are to be congratulated upon the excellency of their work of construction. On the two front pillars of the foundation is "Oxford, 1905."

It looks like Creedmoor is to get ahead of Oxford. This go-ahead little town is to have a $5,000 brick hotel and another bank is assured. It is true that we have a pretty little hotel, but the demand is for a more modern and larger one in keeping with the progress of the town.

"Sweetly breathe the Lyres Above" which was rendered at the Methodist Church two weeks ago by a quartette, will be repeated next Sunday night. Miss Eva Minor will also sing a solo.

"Babylon," by C. T. Howell, both of which will be greatly appreciated by lovers of beautiful music.

Mr. D. T. Winston, of Oak Hill Township, was in Oxford Monday, and informed us that the tobacco crops of Messrs. L. M. Carrington and James Newton were almost ruined Friday by a severe hail storm. The crop of Mr. J. K. Clement was also damaged to some extent.

OXFORD A MODEL TOWN.

How far are We From This Ideal? What Steps Must We Take to Reach It?

There is no perfect town, but one composed of intelligent, thrifty citizens; that is industrially wide awake; that has manufacturing enterprises to employ its citizens; that has institutions to care for the education of young; that has the public conveniences of modern towns; that has sufficient taxable property to support public necessities; that is healthful and that is progressive, such a town may be called a model town.

Oxford has many of these conditions. As to the most important—healthfulness; the census gives us next to the lowest death rate in the United States. We have some prosperous manufacturing, a cotton mill, a buggy factory, a furniture factory, an ice plant, three wood working plants, and tobacco stemmers. We have not the largest but in many respects the best leaf tobacco market in the State. We have a new electric lighting plant and water work system, after the latest, most improved pattern. Within the last five years, under progressive commissioners and the immediate supervision of the hustling Dr. J. P. Stedman we have made more street improvements than in the whole previous history of the town. Our schools, public and private, have won deserved renown. We have by general consent one of the prettiest towns in the State—indeed in the whole South.

Wherein then do we fall short? For with all our advantages we are not lacking many things. There is much more work that must be done on our streets to make them passable in winter. That they are not so now is not the fault of the commissioners or Dr. J. P. Stedman, but is due to lack of money. Where is the needed money to come from?

Progress never stands still. One improvement always calls for another. Waterworks almost necessitate sewerage. The water is hardly available for private use without means of getting rid of the used water. A sewerage system will probably be a matter of slow growth. Individuals will unite here and there, as they have done in one case, and put in a private sewer. When these become numerous the town will have to take charge and systematize the disconnected sewers. The commissioners ought right now to have a survey made for a complete system, and compel individuals to comply with the survey as to grade and other matters, otherwise there will be great difficulty and expense when the town puts in a complete system. But sewers cost money. Where is the money to come from?

With a sewerage system with the excellent water which the new artesian well furnishes, and with the removal of surface privies and hog pens Oxford ought to have the lowest death rate in the United States. How are we to pay for the necessary improvements? We cannot do it with the present population and the existing taxable property. We have reached the crisis in our history. We must go forward now or we must go backwards. We must jump on the flood tide of prosperity or the lurch will leave us in the shallow. In order to increase taxable property we must have more people. We ought to have five thousand inhabitants. With a population of five thousand, with our generous natural advantages, our rolling surface and our wide shaded streets, with our recent improvements as a few others to come, with our factories and our mercantile houses, with our good schools and churches, with our hospitable people and above all, with our healthful climate and good water, we might easily make our a model town—the ideal place of residence in the whole South.

What is needed now is to let people know about our advantages. We must advertise. Why not form immediately a commercial club to advertise Oxford and to take the lead in pushing forward needed improvements. All of us animated by civic pride would surely co-operate heartily with such a body.

All successful towns, large or small, are made by the united efforts of patriotic citizens. Our hustling young men, our energetic business men, our enthusiastic co-operation of some of our progressive citizens. Let us learn a lesson.

Here is a good starting point—a hotel. The first number on our program of municipal improvements must be a modern hotel. It is needed now, and it is prerequisite to any successful advertising of the town. Visitors and prospectors form their first—at least their second—impression of a town from the hotel. It happens the railroad stations give the first impression. Let us have immediately a hotel with all modern improvements and architecturally beautiful that it may be keeping with a beautiful town.

DEATH OF MRS. EVA TAYLOR.

One of Oxford's Excellent Ladies Gathered to Eternal Rest.

Mrs. Eva Taylor, who has been a great sufferer for more than a year with brights disease, passed quietly away Friday evening at 7 o'clock surrounded by her loved ones.

Mrs. Taylor was for many years a member of the Episcopal church and was a true christian, a devoted mother, loving sister, and a very kind neighbor. She leaves behind to mourn her death three sons and three daughters, one brother and one sister, Messrs. Frank, Will and Bert, and Misses Annie and Mildred Taylor, and Mrs. William Smith, of Wilson, and Mr. Bert Girandy and Mrs. Hunter, of Norfolk, Va.

The funeral took place Saturday afternoon at 6 o'clock at St. Stephens Episcopal church, the services being conducted by Rev. George M. Tolson.

The pall bearers were: Major W. H. Landis, Messrs. W. H. Hunt, C. H. Easton, John Paris, James Powell and S. W. Cooper. Judge A. W. Graham, Rev. Francis Hillard, Dr. J. P. Stedman and Mr. R. T. Smith were honorary pall bearers.

The vested choir sang sweetly, "Lead Kindly Light" and "There is a Blessed Home." As the remains were borne from the church, "Peace Perfect Peace" was sung. The interment was at Elmwood Cemetery where all that was mortal of a dear mother and sister was consigned to the tomb amid tears. To the bereaved loved ones the editor extends deep sympathy, but we trust the tide of tears will be checked in its flow when they remember that she now dwells

"Where loyal hearts and true,
Stand ever in the light,
All rapture through and through
In God's most holy sight."

Delightful Pic Nic at Minor Mill.
Over 200 hundred ladies and gentlemen greatly enjoyed a picnic Friday at Minor Mill. There was really good fishing in the water and on land, along with plenty to eat and a jolly good time. It is said along with those fingers caused by grabbing at cells and cut fish in the same outfit a number of young ladies have become partially deaf on one side from the effects of Cupid's tender and loving voice, and still hear a buzzing in their ears on account of the many sweet things whispered to them on this long-to-be-remembered picnic. Even the President of the Stem Bachelor Club was there, the gayest of the gay, happiest of the happy, and in the zenith of his glory.

Any young lady who desires work in her community with which to make some money to help defray her expenses at College may inquire at this office.
