BANISTER YANCEY.

Upward and Onward.

This paper favors and has always advocated the building up of all legitimate enterprises, and has never lent its support to the tearing down of no man's laudable undertaking. Its editor wants to see every man succeed and prosper in all honest efforts to better himself; and he stands ready at all times to aid, as far as he can, in helping along all movements to better the community.

The best treatment for indigestion and troubles of the stomach is to rest the stomach. It can be rested by starvation or by the use of a good digestant which will digest the food eaten, thus taking the work off the stomach. At the proper time, temperature a single teaspoonful of Kodol will wholly digest 3,000 grains of food. It relieves the present annoyance, puts the stomach in shape to satisfactorily perform its functions. Good for indigestion, sour stomach, flatulence, palpitation of the heart and dyspepsia. Kodol is made in strict conformity with the National Pure Food & Drug Law. Sold by I. G. Hall.

Winter Nights--A Suggestion.

Darkness falls early now; the long winter nights are here again to remain till spring drives them away. They are considered a burden by some, who weary themselves in shiftless and vain efforts to light on some means of whiling them away--some source of amusement that will aid them in killing time, says the Gazette. To the man or woman, boy or girl, who has an eye to the future and who is ready and willing to use the passing moments and days to the best advantage--in a way that will add something to their equipment for the struggle that lies ahead--these winter nights are gold mines. They furnish opportunities for reading and study which are invaluable. An hour or two spent each evening in close communion with some master spirit in the literary world can not fail to broaden one's mental horizon and exert an influence that will be far-reaching in its effects.

A Great Compliment.

The Hon. A. L. Brooks made the last speech of the campaign in Greensboro, North Carolina, and it may be interesting to his friends to read the statement which is true, that more people turned out to hear him than were out at any other speaking, and John Sharpe Williams and the State's governor had spoken. And Brooks entertained his audience--gave them their money's worth in wit and wisdom and oratory--and when he completed his talk which was an hour and a half long more people were listening than when he started to speak. Brooks has the art of campaigning down fine--and he is a rising star.--Everything.

Child Bride is Sent Home.

Raleigh correspondent of Charlotte Observer of November 16th says: Today the little girl-bride, Amanda, who is evidently but little over 13 years of age, was sent to her mother, whose home is at Ty-Ty, Ga., the Sunshiners having raised the money to pay the railway fare. The little creature was deserted by her boy-husband, who seems to have been but a little over 16 years of age in this city, about two months ago and has been most kindly cared for since by new friends who became greatly attached to her. Her case is a very sad one. Little and young as she is, yet it seems that she was regularly married by a minister in the house of her mother to a boy who attended school and who, it is said, lives in Boston. She says that he claimed to have been born in Cuba. She has never heard a word from him since he left her. He told her she would never see or hear from him again and that he was going to Richmond. The child is so small that her head hardly comes to the shoulders of an average girl of 12 years of age.

Burning of Mr. Hesters House.

On the night of the 12th of November my house and nearly all of the contents was destroyed and no insurance.

It was purely an accident. I was careful with fire about my premises always. The cause must have been some defect about the fire place upstairs, as that was where it caught, and it had such advantage of the help we had that it was impossible to save anything except the contents of two rooms on the lower floors. It was about 10 o'clock at night. The house had been newly painted, and to build such a house now would cost nearly $2,000. The neighbors and friends have and are responding to my suffering in every way.

I have moved in a good large house at Creedmoor, Mrs. Kate Freeman the widow of the late E. E. Freeman deceased. I lived one mile east of Creedmoor, and have been and at present a rural mail carrier on Route 1 from Creedmoor and travel through a part of Wake county every day.

The patrons both white and colored have come to my relief grand and noble. It has been and is very discouraging and but for the sympathy of the people at once, in my distress, I could not have carried the mail another day. A poor widow woman on my mail route come out and said the widows mite was small, but she remembered my father, the late Rev. B. B. Hester, and the love she had for him and me too, she gave me a contribution which I call great. I carried insurance for several years in the Granville Home Branch but thinking there was so little danger because I was careful about my house with fire let it drop.

Miss Mary Hardy was boarding with us and was one of the teachers at the Creedmoor Graded School, and everything she had in her room was burned, and she and my wife and daughters were the principal ones that carried out what things we saved. The neighbors who found it out came and done faithful work.

BENJAMIN L. HESTER.

Taken as directed it becomes the greatest curative agent for the relief of suffering humanity ever devised. Such is Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea. 35 cents Tea or Tablets. J. G. Hall.

Fairbrother on Dope.

There was no glory in his taking off--no part of his dissipated life that calls for emulation--and yet today in the state which was his home, we dare say that at least ten thousand men and women are following in his footsteps--becoming drugged and doped and imbecile--and murder is not to be regarded as impossible to any one of them when the drug finally holds full and undisputed sway.

The Matthews case while fresh in the minds of the people should be made the text of a thousand sermons; it should be used by honest reformers when the legislature meets, and the physicians who are dope fiends, and there are many of them, should be denied the right to practice their profession. The sale of dope should be more carefully guarded--the mothers and fathers should be more fully informed concerning its insidious and irresistible charms.

Pile Cure.

Upham's Vegetable Electuary cures the PILES Permanently. For sale by leading druggists, or sent postpaid on receipt of one dollar.
