Sale of Land.

Pursuant to an order and decree made by the Superior Court of Granville county in the special Proceedings entitled "D. H. Peace and Lee Peace, Administrators of Philip Peace, deceased, vs. L. Elliott and others," I shall, on sell to the highest bidder, for cash, by public auction, at the Court House door in Oxford, N. C., the following described tract of land: situated in Oak Hill township, adjoining the lands of L. Elliott, Mrs. Emma Wood and others, and bounded as follows:

Beginning at a stone on Oxford Road, Alex. Peace's corner, thence S. 78 W. 21 chains and 40 links to a stone in Elliott's line; thence S. 12 chains to a stone; thence N. 75 E. 28 chains and 40 links to public road; thence along said road to the beginning, containing 35 acres, more or less, and being the same lands conveyed to Philip Peace by L. A. Boyster, see deed book 32 page 138 of the Office of the Registrar of Deeds of Granville county.

The mineral right in the above described tract of land is reserved, and the said land will be sold subject to the dower right of the widow of said Philip Peace, deceased, which said dower right has been laid off by metes and bounds and contains 740-100 acres, more or less, including the houses on said tract of land. Time of sale between the hours of 12 M. and 1 P. M. This August 21st, 1908.

L. S. BOYSTER, Commissioner.

A Dispenser of Smiles.
Her mother said: "Oh, dear! Isn't that awful? What will people think?" but the people themselves seemed to think it about the prettiest incident they had met that day.

She was a very little girl, white frocked, pink ribboned, brown curled. With her mother she left the subway train at the Grand Central station. The usual confusion prevailed. Timid travelers grabbed suit cases and bundles and exclaimed: "Oh, do we change here?" Trainers on the platform shouted out directions for local and express trains and the guards of that particular car adjured the passengers frequently and vehemently to "Step lively!" and to "Watch the step." Then all of a sudden there was a lull in the uproar. The little girl was leaving the car. She stopped at the door, looked back and waved her hand. "Goodby, everybody," she said. The words carried to the far end of the car. They made every one sit up. Two or three persons called out a responsive "Goodby," two or three said "Bless the child," and all smiled.—New York Press.

The Sea Serpent.

When fourteen miles off the coast of Brazil M. J. Nicoll, author of "Three Voyages of a Naturalist," observed a sea serpent which came within about fifty yards of the ship. "All that we could see was a dorsal fin about four feet long sticking up about two feet from the water. The fin was a brownish black color and much resembled a gigantic piece of ribbon seaweed. Below the water we could indirectly see a very large brownish black patch, but could not make out the shape of the creature. Every now and then the fin disappeared below the water. Suddenly an eel-like neck, about six feet long and of the thickness of a man's thigh, having a head shaped like that of a turtle, appeared in front of the fin, lashing up the water with a curious wriggling movement. This creature was an example, I consider, of what has been so often reported, for want of a better name, as the 'great sea serpent.' I feel sure, however, that it was not a reptile that we saw, but a mammal."

Bought His Own Work.

To come across a bit of one's own work in print is an experience not ordinarily exasperating to an author, but a Washington writer on scientific matters was recently not very agreeably surprised by such a development.

It appears that the writer was collecting material for a monograph on electro magnetism when word came to him of a valuable paper on the subject not long before published in a Berlin journal devoted to science. Thinking that the paper would be of use to him in the work in hand, he had it translated. When the English version was laid before him, together with quite a bill for the translator's labor, what was the disgust of the writer to find that the article was nothing more or less than a German reproduction of an article of his own published the year before in an English journal. And he had paid twice as much for the translation as he had received for the original article!—Washington Star.

A Dream Superstition.

I heard what was to me at least a new piece of superstition the other day, and when I think of the risks I've run all these years because I didn't know of it my blood runs cold. I met a woman from Virginia in market, and the talk falling on dreams I recalled a most blood curdling nightmare I had had the night before.

"I must tell you what I dreamed last night," I said.

"Let me ask first whether it's a pleasant or an unpleasant dream?" said the lady from Virginia.

"Decidedly unpleasant."

"Then for mercy's sake don't tell it!" said she. "Never tell a bad dream on Saturday, for we say in Virginia: 'Friday night's dream on Saturday told, is sure to come true, no matter how old.'"

Australian Cadets.

All children in Australia are drilled, but the elder boys are attached to the Australian military forces by means of the cadet corps. Almost every large school has its band of cadets, who wear neat khaki uniforms and are armed with light rifles, in the use of which they are frequently instructed. Every year these boys have shooting matches, and the scores prove that among the youngsters there are many who have already become skilled marksmen.—London Standard.

Giving Them Credit.

"You know," said the distinguished oriental who manifests much curiosity, "that the Chinese discovered the art of printing from type thousands of years ago?"

"Yes," replied the man who was being interviewed. "And incidentally I don't doubt that they were the original inventors of the interrogation point."—Washington Star.

Handicapped.

Judge—Remember, witness, you are sworn to tell the truth, and nothing but the truth. Witness—Judge, I am trying my damndest to do it, but that pie faced slob of a lawyer there won't let me!—Chicago Tribune.

Half the Battle.

"If I were you," said the old bachelor to the benedict, "I'd either rule or know why."

"Well," was the reply, "as I already know why, I suppose that's half the battle!"—Atlanta Constitution.

FARMER'S WAREHOUSE, OXFORD, NORTH CAROLINA.

The above named persons will do a warehouse business next season beginning AUGUST 3rd, 1908. The style of the firm will be

J. F. MEADOWS & CO.

We expect to be in a position to give as good service and get our patrons as much, if not more, money for their tobacco than any other firm in this part of the country, the coming season. Why do we claim to do this? Because we have the best warehouse in Oxford, and the only warehouse firm in Oxford that operates a steam plant which prepares us to take care of tobacco in all conditions—because we have as competent a force to look after your interest as any in Oxford. Messrs. Ballard Norwood and A. G. Howell will see that your tobacco is weighed correctly and bills made out correctly—because we have sold our old stock down very close leaving ample room for the new crop—because we expect to have more orders and buy more tobacco ourselves than any warehouse firm in Oxford, as we have done for the past three years—because our Messrs. Meadows & Adams prefer to buy their large stock of tobacco on the warehouse floor that they are interested in.

We believe if you will look into this matter fairly, you will find the above reasons good ones and you will see that we are just a little better prepared to take care of your interest than any firm on the Oxford market.

Now in addition to the above facts, we have the same advantages of all the well known and competent buyers on the Oxford Market who are now ready to pay the highest market prices for your tobacco whether primings or stalk cured. If you doubt any part of this statement, please give us a trial with your first load and be convinced that we will do all we claim.

Thanking you all for all past favors, promising you our best efforts in the future, we are, yours for highest prices,

J. F. MEADOWS, & COMPANY.

Get the Most Money Out of Your Lands

by making them yield the biggest possible crops. Grain must get the nourishment that makes it grow out of the soil—and the more plant food there is in the soil, the quicker and bigger and more plentifully the grain will grow. But you must first put the food into the soil by liberally using

Virginia-Carolina Fertilizers

Then a big bumper crop is assured, because these fertilizers contain the necessary elements required by the soil to properly and fully mature the grain. Farmers invariably find that the more Virginia-Carolina Fertilizer they use, the bigger is the crop, and the greater their profit.

Have you gotten the latest Virginia-Carolina Year Book or Almanac, the most useful and valuable book any farmer or grower can read? Get a copy from your fertilizer dealer, or write to our nearest sales office and one will be sent you free.
