Entered through Oxford, N. C., Post Office as second class matter, March 3, 1878.

THE CHARITY WORK.

Thomas A. Edison says that in 200 years there will be no poor people...

But 200 years is a long time to wait. The world is full of unfortunate...

The Ledger is glad to see that Oxford is measuring up to its duty...

The help rendered will be of a real beneficial kind, the idea is to encourage the beneficiary and keep him in the ranks as a useful citizen...

In another column is published a very interesting communication by an intelligent and observing correspondent...

Our 15 and 12 1/2 ct Tomatoes and Corn have been reduced to 10cts.

CHANCE FOR LEDGER READERS.

In order to test the Ledger's great circulation and its superior advertising value, we have made arrangements...

THE FARMER'S UNION.

While discussing the Farmer's Union the other day a prominent farmer said: "No sir, it is not going to politics. The first time a fellow tries to carry it into politics, he will be warned, because he may not know any better; the second time he will be put out."

FIELD FOR UNION.

The farmers should have had a union long ago. Every other profession or class has one and a mutual co-operation is necessary.

When the matter was first brought to the Ledger, the paper was non-committal for lack of knowledge concerning the field the Union intended to cover.

One of the chief features, we understand, of the union is its financial side—the regulation of prices. We do not believe in holding up prices too high but the farmers end of it needs study and regulation as well as the other end.

We are glad to know that the Union will steer clear of politics, and that it is to be officiated by good men. That's the crucial test of any organization.

What means the life of anything? One of the chief features, we understand, of the union is its financial side—the regulation of prices. We do not believe in holding up prices too high but the farmers end of it needs study and regulation as well as the other end.

The average farmer needs to be taught how to farm economically, how to make the best of what he has, and to be able as well to market his stuff at an equitable price. A lot of the profit that should have been his has gone into er pockets than of the owners. While this should be regulated, it should be done by intelligent men who not only want to get a square deal but who want to give one as well. The prices of farm products are going up every day which is a good thing, but let the leaders be wise in not pushing it too far.

Every farmer should live on a good road; should have a good school within reasonable distance; and be so situated that he can live in enjoyment and convenience.

One important item may be provided for, though it was not stated in the paper under perusal—the question of health should not be overlooked. There is no excuse for the existence of typhoid fever, consumption among people who have the chances of the out door life of the farm dwellers.

In short, the union can do a vast deal for the farmer than any other agency because it is closer in touch with him.

The farmer certainly has no kick coming to him now-a-days.

TOO LITTLE PER ACRE. This year will see a great increase in the general acreage for corn in Granville County.
