

Absolutely no Room for An Argument When you have

The Stieff Piano.

It is superior value in material, style, tone quality, and general workmanship. The Piano appeals to the senses and hearts of the great public so strongly that it has put the STIEFF in a class all by itself, without compeer or rival.

Why take a chance with an inferior instrument when you can obtain the BEST at a slightly higher initial outlay?

Some men spend all their time seeking to gain and enjoy the things of this world. Others spend their time seeking to prepare themselves for a home in heaven, when done with this world.

People differ widely in life, in death, and through eternity. In life some live for God, others for the devil. In death Christians go rejoicing home to glory, but sinners will be driven away into eternal punishment in hell. Through Eternity, the righteous will rejoice with God and the redeemed in heaven, but the wicked will suffer the eternal torment of hell.

"These the wicked shall go away into everlasting punishment, but the righteous into life eternal."

Trustee's Sale of Town Property.

Under and by virtue of two Deeds-of-Trust executed to me by Samuel J. Thomas, colored, the first on Oct. 22nd, 1908 and registered in book 70, at page 482; the second on Dec. 31st, 1908 and registered in book 70, at page 480 in the office of the Register of Deeds of Granville County, upon failure of the said Samuel J. Thomas to pay the bonds secured thereby, and at the request of the holders of the same, I will sell for cash by Public Auction at the Court House door in Oxford, on Friday, the 25th day of November, 1910, at 12 m. that house and lot of land situate at the corner of Orange St. and Herndon Ave. adjoining the lands of James Gregory, Peter Gregory and others, said lot fronts 57 ft. on Orange St. and runs back 125 ft. to James Gregory's line. There is a new house on said lot. This the 24th day of October, 1910.

Some people so live as to be worth nothing to the home society, their country, or the world. They are like those of whom young speaks in his "Night Thoughts": "Some, when they die, die all. They leave nothing of love or service behind them to bless mankind. Others so live, that through all their lives they bless mankind whenever, and wherever they come in contact with them. Of the good man it can be said as it was of Abel: He being dead yet speaketh: Paul has been dead for centuries, but he lives on, and will live on through all time, in his example of love and devotion to Christ; and in his teachings, love and sacrifices for the good of mankind.

Some people love with an ardent undying love, the house of God. They find sacred joy, and spiritual blessings in attending prayer meetings, Sabbath schools, and the preaching of the Word. They can say with David: "How amiable are thy tabernacles, O Lord of hosts. My soul longeth yea even faintly for the courts of the Lord's House, I was glad when they said unto me, let us go into the house of the Lord." They can say with the part "I love thy kingdom Lord, the house of Thine abode. The church, our blest Redeemer saved with His own precious blood. But thousands of people, and among them many professed Christians, have but little or no love for God's house. They would rather lounge around at home, or go visiting or attend base-ball games, car parties, pleasure parties, dances, than to go to prayer meeting, Sabbath school or preaching. They are "Lovers of pleasure, more than lovers of God. They know the joy of earthly pleasures, but are strangers to the higher, sweeter pleasures of christianity. They have no personal experience of the sweet sentiment of the part: "To spend one day with Thee Exceeds a thousand days of mirth," on earth. Some people give nothing, or perhaps a little grudgingly to support christian and charitable institutions, but give much of their time and a large part of their earnings, to uphold a picture shows, base ball games, theatres and such like things. But there are others, who never spend one moment of time, or one cent of money on these unprofitable things; but they give liberally of their time, money, and work, to build up schools, churches, asylums, and other benevolent institutions. Whose money does the most good; who gets the most real happiness from their work?

Some men spend a large part of their earnings for whiskey. They order it from other states, or sneak around and get it from "blind tigers." They do not need it. It does them no good, but harm. It takes money they need for food, clothing and household comforts. It is making drunkards of them; and is digging for them a drunkards grave, and sending them to a drunkards hell. Others do not spend one cent for whiskey, or drink one drop either in health or sickness. What a difference between drinkers, drunkards, and teetallars; Which would you rather be?

A Delightful Entertainment.

The Music meeting of the Oxford Improvement Society was held at the home of Mrs. A. H. Powell, Tuesday afternoon, the 18th, of October.

Mrs. John Booth, Chairman of the Music Department of the Society presided in her usual graceful manner and the attendance was large and appreciative. The following program was enjoyed:

1. Federation Song—by the Society.
 2. Paper—Influence of Music in the Home.
 3. Vocal Solo. Miss Maud Parham.
 4. Piano Solo. Miss Mary Webb.
 5. Vocal Solo—Miss Minor.
- After a thorough discussion about the plans and arrangements for the Chrysanthemum Show, the Society adjourned to meet again Tuesday afternoon the 17th of November, at four o'clock in the rooms of the Commercial Club.

MARRIAGE OF A FORMER OXFORD MAN.

(Durham Sun). The most notable social event of the season was the wedding on Wednesday night at Epiphany church of Miss Margaret Cade, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Taylor Cade, of this place, and Mr. L. P. Landis of Durham, N. C. The church was exquisitely decorated. Mrs. Charles Hall of Galveston, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Miss E. L. Sharp, bridesmaid; Miss Augustus Landis, sister of the groom, maid of honor. The ushers were Messrs Charles Hall, John and Robert Taylor and Harold Henshaw. A reception at the home of the bride followed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Landis left on midnight train for North Carolina. They will be at home at New Iberia after Oct. 25.

WANTED—A white man to take charge and manage a farm must give good reference and be either single or have small family; also would like to have middle aged lady that would like to have a good home with light house keeping to look after; good reference required. Address P. O. Box, 144 Oxford, N. C. Oct. 28, 1910.

GET OUT THE DEMOCRATIC VOTE.

Major Stedman is a very popular man in these parts if one may judge by the vociferous applause that breaks forth at every mention of his name. His willingness to stand up and be counted for what he believes in, whether others agree with him or not, counts largely in his favor. His gallantry, his cheerfulness, his chivalry towards an opponent and his willingness always to let others who may not have so good a chance as he believes him self to have all go toward making Major Stedman a likable man. He has proven himself an excellent campaigner; he is fearless in explaining his own position and in exposing what he believes to be the false position of others; and he is determined to let the people know exactly what they may expect of him should he be elected, when, we believe, he surely will be.

We are not well informed as to the other parts of the fifth district but in this particular neck of the woods it is safe to predict an overwhelming majority for Major Stedman in the election to be held November 8.

While we believe Major Stedman is going to be the next congressman we also believe we also voice the sentiments of Major Stedman in advising all democrats to beware of over confidence. It is a real danger, and the Democratic party cannot afford to let the opportunity go by to give a stinging rebuke to the republican party—the party that dared put Marion Butler in the leadership.

See that every Democrat is properly registered and then see that every democrat votes the straight democratic ticket. That is the way to give the rebuke to the republican party that it so richly deserves.
