TO STUDY PELLAGRA.

Physicians From Western North Carolina in Durham Studying the Disease.

Durham Herald.

Dr. J. E. Moore and Dr. F. M. Davis, of Canton, Haywood county, this state, came to Durham yesterday afternoon, bringing Mr. W. W. Clark, of that place, to the Watts Hospital. Mr. Clark is suffering with an aggravated case of pellagra, and the Canton physicians have brought him here to test the treatment that is being given by the Durham doctors. The man has been placed on the immediate charge of Dr. E. H. Bowling.

The Canton physicians are spending sometime here studying the treatment. There is an epidemic of the disease in the small western town, and a very large per cent of the people have died. Articles in the North Carolina medical journal telling of the treatment administered here attracted the attention of the western physicians. A letter of inquiry brought forth the invitation from a Durham doctor to bring one of the worst cases here for treatment. That is what has been done. Though the patient has not yet reached the insane stage, he is on the border. The medical authorities think that the man can be greatly relieved, if not permanently cured.

This is not the first time that the medical fraternity of this city has been complimented for the able manner in which they have handled the pellagra situation here. It was stated on good authority last evening that over ninety per cent of the cases treated here are now being cured. This is a greater average than any where in the country, or the world for that matter, for in Italy, where pellagra is a national disease, almost every person that has the disease dies.

The pellagra situation here is not in the least alarming, though there are more known cases here today than at any time before. This is the opinion of some of the physicians, though others think that there are not so many cases. One medical man has placed the number as high as 200 and one physician in this city has over 20 cases, most of whom are being successfully treated. The treatment that is given by the local doctors at least offers a temporary relief from the disease, when it is taken in time. And they think that a repetition of the treatment a year after the disease first breaks out will affect a permanent cure. One of the greatest difficulties the physicians encounter is the failure of the patient to continue the treatment when the breaking out is once stopped.

Such is the case of Miss Ella Hilliard, who died yesterday on Smith street, just this side of East Durham. She had a slight attack last year and was treated, and temporarily cured. Again this year the signs of the disease again appeared and so far got the better of her that the physicians was unable to do any thing for her. She was 23 years old.

DURHAM FARMER SUICIDES.

J. A. Vickers Tres of Life and Slashes His Throat with Razor.

Durham Sun.

One of the most largely attended funeral services that has been held in the county for some time was held Sunday afternoon over the remains of J. A. Vickers, a well-known farmer of the county, who committed suicide Saturday afternoon at his home on the Pine street road several miles from the city.

Mr. Vickers went to the barn at his home Saturday afternoon about 5 o'clock, lay down upon a stack of hay and slashed his throat from ear to ear with a razor. Death resulted immediately. Dr. N. M. Johnson arrived on the scene a short time after the horrible act was committed, but the unfortunate man was beyond medical aid.

The deceased had often spoken to his family of committing suicide. He was subject to periods of extreme melancholia. He lived on the farm of his father, and had recently expressed much dissatisfaction with life on the farm and with life in general. Saturday afternoon about 3 o'clock his family found him at the barn on a stack of hay with his throat cut from ear to ear. The razor with which he had ended his life was lying by side him.

One of the county officers went out and together with Dr. Johnson, made an investigation. No inquest was thought necessary as there was no sign that would lead to anything except the theory of suicide.

The deceased is survived by a wife and three children. He is also survived by a brother, Mr. Richard Vickers, of the county, and one sister.

The funeral services were conducted by Rev. J. T. Hackney Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, and the interment was at the family burying ground.

Master Lanier Host.

Master Roger Gregory Lanier, entertained a number of his little friends Monday afternoon at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. Lanier. Many jolly and delightful games were played during the afternoon affording much merriment to the little ones. During the afternoon refreshments consisting of cream and cake was served on small tables on the lawn.

There will be a meeting of the Farmers Union on Aug. 5th., to complete arrangements for putting up a darning plant for the coming crop. Every union man requested to be present. All local secretaries are requested to solicit subscriptions for stock.

V. T. Cheatham, Secretary.
