CORN OIL SUPPLANTING HIGH-PRICED OLIVE OILS

High Burning Point Makes It Superior For All Cooking Purposes—Oil Used for Frying Onions Can Then Be Used to Bake Delicate Cakes.

(By Edwin F. Bowers, M. D.)

America has made another important discovery. This time it has to do with an essential article of food—the lack of which, during the war, was found to work a greater hardship upon a population than the deprivation of any other variety of food form.

This nutritive substance is fat. The particular fat which has been evolved by the American food experts into an indispensable article of food is the oil derived from the germ of corn.

It has been found that this oil is unusually rich in lecithin, considered by many physiologists as one of the most important tonics, restoratives, and tissue-builders known to science.

Lecithin is a dominant element in the fat that goes to make up brain and nerve cells, and has a very decided effect in increasing nutrition. Corn oil is digested and assimilated more readily than almost any other variety of fat—either animal or vegetable.

It is the low burning property of animal fats that makes frying with these fats such a nuisance around meal-time in most kitchens. For the degree of heat generated by gas, gasoline, coal, wood, or electricity averages about two thousand degrees.

The higher burning point of corn oil, on the contrary, lends itself admirably to modern cooking methods, as it makes it possible to cook the food quickly, and at a higher temperature, without, at the same time burning and searing the food. No Kitchen Odors With Corn Oil Cooking.

Meat, fish, or odoriferous vegetables, cooked in corn oil, are quickly sealed over on their surfaces. This forces them to retain the flavors and odors otherwise lost during the process of cooking with quick-burning fats.

So complete is this sealing effect that many families who employ corn oil in cooking, fry meat or fishballs, onions, and other food products, all in the same pan—finishing up, not infrequently, by using this same oil for the baking of a delicately flavored cake or some form of pastry—without cringing the slightest odor or flavor from one food to the other. The oil content in corn averages about five per cent of the grain. So that from a three billion bushel crop of corn, there is a potential prospect of four hundred million gallons of corn oil. Which insures a comparatively inexpensive article of diet for American consumption.

Not An Acquired Taste.

Corn oil is a clear, limpid, pale yellow fluid, free from odor, and with an agreeable, sweet flavor. It possesses qualities of palatability that do not have to be acquired. It has been found that corn oil is a great improvement over butter in the making of cakes, cookies and puddings; while it is superior to lard as a shortener for biscuits, pie crust, bread and crackers.

As a dressing in the form of a mayonnaise or French dressing for cold boiled vegetables, such as cabbage, beets, turnips, potatoes, cauliflower, and other vegetables, corn oil is all that the most critical epicure could desire.

In fact, it is not going too far to state that corn oil will, within the next decade or two, do more to remake the well-known and justly-celebrated American stomach over into a healthy organ, than any one discovery of modern times.

A Disturbing Thought.

(Philadelphia Record.)
What disturbs one of our Republican statesmen most about the so-called cession of Shantung to Germany 21 years ago, when William McKinley was President, is that the "40,000,000 piteously pleading" Chinese who were handed over to the brutal Japanese contain 8,000,000 prospective soldiers for the use of Japan in the coming war with the United States. What was leased to Germany was the fishing village of Tsingtau and 117 square miles of territory, with about 30,000 Chinese population. And it all happened under a Republican Administration.

One Township Falls Down.

(Lumberton Robesonian.)
Wishart township has the undeniable distinction of being the first Robeson county township out of 17 that already have voted this year, to defeat a road bond issue. It is not that the people of Wishart do not believe in the economy of good roads or that they do not want good roads. They do want good roads and no doubt are willing to pay for them, but they feel that they have gotten so little return for road tax money paid out in the past that they are afraid to venture.

Beauty A Farm Test.

The story comes from Wisconsin that a farmer who found it necessary to move failed by $2,000 to reach an agreement with a prospective buyer. The latter came a second time to see if the farmer would not reconsider his offer. Meanwhile the barn had been struck by lightning and had been burned down. The owner again refused the offer and was sadly deciding to remain longer and considering the advisability of an investment in paint and repairs to induce some one to buy at his price for the farm. At this point, as the buyer leaving, between two elms he caught sight of a distant view of two hills that had been hidden by the barn. They talked a while and the result was the sale of the farm at the original price asked. The loss of an unsightly, ill-placed, but serviceable, building had added $2,000 to the value of the farm property.

Beauty is an undoubted asset. Yet countryside endowed by nature with all that would make them attractive are marred by ugly works of man. There may be lopsided sheds, straggling fences, unkempt yards, of flaunting advertisements monumental to the owner's loss of good taste and lack of business judgment. Let the moonlight soften the harsh outlines, and behold the change; What is then seen may in some measure be gained by a proper use of shrubbery and the exercise of simple neatness. The attractive farm is not beyond the means of any one who owns a few acres. Its dividends are in pleasure, in self respect, and, as the Wisconsin farmer's experience showed, in cash as well.—Exchange.

—As a result of a strike which began Tuesday 10,000 employees of the McCormick reaper works of the International Harvester Company are locked out by the closing of the plant for an indefinite period. The strikers had asked for a 44-hour week, $1 an hour and a closed shop.

How To Make Hair Grow Strong, Thick and Lustrous.

If your hair is thinning out, don't wait another day, but go to J. G. Hall's and get a bottle of Parisian sage, the truly efficient hair grower.

Don't say: "It's the same old story; I've heard it before," but try a bottle at their risk. They guarantee Parisian sage to stop falling hair, and stimulate a new growth, banish all dandruff and almost instantly stop scalp itch, or money back.

Parisian sage contains just the elements needed to properly invigorate the hair roots. It's a prime favorite with discriminating ladies because it makes the hair so soft and lustrous, and appear twice as abundant.

Parisian sage is inexpensive and easily obtainable at all drug stores.
