

CARD FROM MR. KNOTT
 Editor Public Ledger:
 Just at this time when the qualifications of different candidates is being discussed I think every Democrat should consider first the amount of service rendered in an unselfish way to the party and state and vote accordingly.

I sometime think we, as a party, do not seek to reward those who have stood for and worked for the best interest of people, party and state.
 My first thought when I am asked to support any man for a public office is "what public service has he rendered to merit my support?" Let us get back to the time when the selection of men for public office were made by the amount of unselfish service rendered, and not by political chicanery and wire pulling. In the conduct of our public affairs we need more unadulterated patriotism and Statesmanship and less politics.

We need men, fearless and true men, who have vision of not only today, but tomorrow; men who recognize in a public office a public trust. For verily he who is chief among us must be the servant of all.

We are confronted with grave and serious problems in our public affairs that can only be solved by mutual helpfulness and brotherly love. Love is the magic word that will carry us through this storm of stress and unrest. Love for God, Love for our fellow man with outstretched hand to support our weaker brother, realizing ever that perfection in human agency has never yet been reached.

I like to read that poem by Sam Walter Foss which reads thus: "Let me live in the house by the side of the Road Where the race of men go by; They are good, they are bad, they are weak, they are strong, Wise, foolish, and so am I. Let me live in the house by the side of the Road And be a friend to man."

As the years pass over my head more and more is the thought brought more clearly home to me that God has given man a mission, and that mission is not entirely one of selfishness. P. W. KNOTT.

No More "Milch" Cows.

(From The Philadelphia Record)
 Secretary Meredith, of the Department of Agriculture, has handed down an important decision in the use of words. Hereafter it will be "milk cow" and not "milch cow," his opinion reads. "This decision marks the termination of a controversy in which etymologists in the Department have had not a little interest." Those in favor of sticking to "milch cow" cite the Bible and other good English books. Friends of "milk cow" argue that millmen, cattlemen and others in everyday touch with cows prefer "milk" to "milch." The deciding argument, it is said, was that "milk" is more strictly an English word, while "milch" was akin to German.

The eclipse of the moon Sunday night was observed by Lieutenant J. H. Tilton and W. H. Cushing of the Rockaway Beach naval air station at a height of nearly three and one half miles. The two lieutenants ascended in a naval hydro-airplane, remaining in the air one and one half hours. The observations were made at the direction of the navy department.

PREACHERS, TEACHERS AND NEWSPAPER MEN CLASSED ALIKE
 (Manufacturers Record)

For some years The Manufacturers Record has urgently sought to awaken the country to the importance of larger remuneration of teachers and preachers, but we are now in receipt of a letter from a leading business man in the south in which he classes the newspapermen as among the underpaid people of the country, and he says, "The newspapermen, teachers and preachers are largely to blame for the reward granted to them by the world in the way of compensation for the wonderful service they render, because they seem to have taken the position that they are not entitled to a full appreciation in material pay for the work and service they render."

It is probably true that there is no other business involving so much mental and physical activity and so much capital which yields so poor a return financially as newspaper publication. Any group of men who have made a success in a newspaper could have made an infinitely greater financial success in almost any other line.

A manufacturing or mercantile or banking business, which requires such intense energy, such wearing on nerve, on body and brain, as that of the newspaper business, which did not yield to the men engaged in it a far greater profit than newspapers, with rare exceptions, have ever made, would be hard to find. The millionaire newspaperman is a rarity. The newspaperman that has accumulated even a fair competency is also a rarity, but the energy and the capital involved, if turned into mercantile or manufacturing or banking lines, would have created a great many millionaires and a great many men of large competency.

The preachers and the teachers, however, are in a different class. They cannot act with the same independence as newspapers. They must look to the community for a due recognition of the value of their services, and a community which does not take the lead in paying adequate salaries to teachers and preachers is not entitled to see its children grow into honest, moral, upstanding, successful men and women. It is hard on the children, desperately hard for such a fate to befall them, but the parents who kick against high pay for preachers and teachers deserve to see their children fail in life.

AN OLD-FASHIONED WORKER

(Ohio State Journal.)

A man has been at work on our disreputable old back fence lately, replacing the rotted posts, substituting new 2x4s for those whose usefulness is purely historic and putting in new upright boards where they are needed. This man has a regular job downtown and is in a position to repair fences only after 5 o'clock in the afternoon. At that hour he appears and works away with hammer and saw and right good will until darkness puts an end to his labors. He is doing an excellent job and seems to enjoy doing it. We never knew a more cheerful worker, though he hasn't time to talk much with interested gentlemen of sedentary pursuits. He is ambitious to make all the money he can and he is getting ahead in the world by doing extra work whenever he can find it. He seems to us far happier now and far likelier to be happy in the future than if he were idling about, holding out for 20 cents more an hour or for a six-hour day.

Last year more cars using these sizes were factory-equipped with Goodyear Tires than with any other kind.

Their extreme worth is available for your Ford, Chevrolet, Dort, Maxwell, or other car using one of these sizes, at the nearest Goodyear Service Station. Go there for these tires and Goodyear Heavy Tourist Tubes.
