LIQUOR COST $41 A PINT AT THE CONVENTION

The Thirsty Republicans Will Be Glad to Get it at Any Price.

A Chicago dispatch says: Captain Hubert Howard, of the federal prohibition enforcement office at Chicago, has unearthed an ambitious plan by the bellhops at the various loop hotels to make a big "cleaning" during the Republican National Convention.

According to the information in the hands of federal sleuths the bellhops will supply delegates and visitors with all the hard liquor they require at the price of $41 a pint, plus whatever "tip" the thirsty one may feel inclined to pay. This price may seem outrageous and is little short of murder, but it is amazing how many people will pay it and be glad of the opportunity.

THAT GOOD GALVANIZED ROOFING 6, 7, 8, 9 and 10 foot lengths, at Samuel Davis, Clarksville, Va. Prices lower than you can buy most any where else.

Good Paint Costs Less Than New Lumber

Let us show you that it is better to buy good paint today than new lumber two years hence.

Every time you neglect to paint, you are throwing away money. Years back, good paint would have saved that present lumber bill.

Look around and examine your buildings. See what you figure on rebuilding in a year or two. Then be "dollar wise." Instead of planning to buy new lumber in the future—buy paint today. Buy good paint. Buy—

Lucas Paint

We advise Lucas paint because there are 65 years of experience in every can. This ripe experience, combined with Lucas brains and factory equipment, has resulted in a standard quality that every can of Lucas Paint must meet. The can of Lucas Paint you buy from us is guaranteed to be up to Lucas standard in weight, covering properties and color. We are ready to make suggestions, answer any questions with reference to your painting.

For Governor---CAMERON MORRISON

"He Never Straddled a Public Question" and "No One Ever Found Him Unwilling To Tell Where He Stands On Any Proposition."

WHY I AM FOR MORRISON
By Archibald Johnson,
(Editor of CHARITY AND CHILDREN, Thomasville, N. C.)

I believe the nomination and election of Cameron Morrison will be for the best interest of North Carolina for the following reasons:

Morrison knows the needs of the people of the state as few men do. For a quarter of a century he has given intelligent study to public questions. He is a lawyer by profession, and a good one, but the study of the science of government has been uppermost in his mind from the time he attained his majority until now. He knows the people also, and has spent a large part of his public life in going in and out before them, discussing the policies of his party.

He has not accumulated a fortune, because of the fact that he thinks more of men than he does of money. He has had a large law practice, but has spent his money on other people, rather than upon himself. The man most capable of administering public affairs is not necessarily the man who has devoted himself to his own private fortune and accumulated a great estate for himself; rather he is the man who, like Vance and Aycock, is so busy trying to better the educational, social and political conditions of his State that he has neither the time nor the inclination to make a fortune for himself.

Morrison is a plain man of the people. He rose to his present position of influence in public affairs by his own unaided effort. He was not born with a silver spoon in his mouth, but had a fierce struggle, even in his tender years, to keep the wolf from the door. He has not forgotten the pit whence he was digged. He knows every step of the rugged road over which he has traveled. His sympathy will always be with the man who toils for his daily bread.

Morrison is honest, candid and fearless. He never straddled a public question in his life. Everybody knows where he stands. He is square. He has never learned the art of dissimulation. Whether an issue is popular or unpopular, he takes his stand flat-footed upon it and stands there until he is convinced that he is wrong. He is a brave man, as his record in the past abundantly proves.

He is not an extremist, as some of his opponents have alleged. He is a hard fighter, but never strikes below the belt. He is generous and warm-hearted and magnanimous. His enemies are not those he has met in the open field. He would not be the Governor of a class, but of all the citizenship of the State, which he loves with passionate devotion.

There are many other reasons that I might mention, but these are a few that constrain me to vote for Cameron Morrison.

AGAINST WOMAN SUFFRAGE.

HON. CAMERON MORRISON
(Leading in the Contest for Governor.)

TEN REASONS WHY MORRISON SHOULD (and will be) NOMINATED FOR GOVERNOR OF THE STATE

1. Because he is aggressive and progressive—fearless and courageous.
2. It is always known where he stands on a question—you may ask him and you will get an answer.
3. He makes no catchy promises that savor of socialism, or are offered for mere vote-getting.
4. He does not believe that people who own their homes should pay a low rate of taxes and the home-renter be required to make up the difference.
5. He is a debater that is feared by Republicans—and a man of this type is needed in this year's campaign.
6. He comes from the plain people, and they have his sympathies.
7. While he has not held office for the last twenty years, he is not posing as a "business man."
8. As a matter of fact, he has the soundest ideas of business principles of any of the candidates for the office he seeks.
9. Because, other things being equal, (and especially when they are more than equal) Carolinians desire to reward genuine public service.
10. Lastly, because he is a militant Democrat, clear-visioned, double-fisted; in love with his State, the principles of his party, and the folks that make North Carolina such a great commonwealth.
