A Cutting Reminder.
"No safety-deposit-vault red tape for me!" declared the woman who cannot help being the wife of a very rich man. "I keep my jewels in a shabby old trunk in my own room. There isn't even a lock on it. I had to force it off one time when I'd mislaid the key."
"Evidently you don't encourage enterprise in burglars," observed one of her hearers. "All a man would have to do would be to raise the lid. You might at least give him a little trouble."
"He'd have trouble enough," said the woman mysteriously. "Our coachman's brother is an old sailor—a perfect artist in knots!—and he showed me how to bind up the trunk in the most complicated way, and no burglar could possibly untie it. He wouldn't know the combination."
"The only man in the group grinned. "Of course," he murmured reflectively, "no mere man would ever dream of cutting those knots."

State Election Was Costly.
Exact figures as to how much it costs to stage the quadrennial election in North Carolina for National, State and county officials is not included in any State record, but fairly conservative estimates based on the expenditures of the State board of elections place the outlay at some more than $150,000. Upon the counties falls the heaviest end of the burden.

Awkward.
"An untimely biting frost effectually completed the mischief done earlier by the insect enemies of Mr. Barden's potatoes. The tops of the plants, which had served as pasture for the pests, were entirely destroyed, and with them Dr. Barden's hopes of a crop."
He was not selfish, however, and could think of others in the hour of adversity. Going to town in the afternoon, he was accosted at the post office by James Hayes, an intimate acquaintance.
"Hello, Giles! How's everything up to the corners?"
"Trouble enough, Jim, trouble enough!" was the gloomy response. "Ten million 'tater-bugs, and nothing for 'em to eat!"
