The Old Statehouse. (Charlotte Observer)

It appears now definitely determined that the new home for the State Agricultural Department is to be erected on the present site on one of the street corners across the square, from the Capitol. Embraced in its equipment will be office accommodations for the various committees of the Legislature. That is a mighty good idea, as every body who has had business relations with a legislative committee of any kind will admit. One difficulty has been in locating the committee, itself, while another has been to find a seat or to get into any sort of orderly touch with the committee meeting. Frequently two and three and even four committees would be undertaking to transact business in the same open hall, to the establishment of approved conditions of confusion. But the Legislature is generally in session during the meanest weather of the year, and the location of committee rooms in the detached building is likely to create conditions of exposure that may not be exactly healthy. Wonder if the State could develop money to connect Capitol and Department building with a tunnel, as the United States House of Representatives is connected with the House Office Building? We would not suggest the more elaborately-equipped Senate tunnel, with its thundering electrical merry-go-round. But if the basement of the Statehouse could be excavated for restaurant and other purposes and the two houses connected with an underground passageway, the perennial talk about a new Capitol, to the destruction of the most classic piece of architecture in the United States, would be effectively stopped. The old Capitol would be made to serve the purposes of the State for many years to come.

Some day a couple of wings may be added to the picturesque old State building, but when that is done the beauties of the original structure should be carefully preserved. But meantime, the digging under and out from, ought to open the way to practical by a permanent preservation of the State Capitol as it stands. Every architect who has examined the old building has not hesitated in the opinion that any move to dismantle it would be one in the direction of desecration.

Tomato Plants.

A thrifty tomato plant left to itself will spread over a space from four to six feet in diameter and will produce a peck or more of tomatoes. If staked and pruned it will yield about the same quantity of fruit; the tomatoes will be larger, cleaner, better flavored and superior in every respect, and enough space can be conserved to accommodate five other plants cared for in a similar manner. The staked and pruned plants are easily sprayed and will continue to produce fruit later in the fall than plants which are allowed to spread naturally. As a rule also the pruned tomatoes will mature earlier. On the scale on which tomatoes are grown in the home garden, staking and pruning require little trouble and will fully repay the effort.

THE ATLANTA SCHOOL ROW

Two Women Members of the School Board Had In Their Resignation. (Charlotte Observer) The Atlantic city board of education, it would appear, is in somewhat of an embarrassing position, judging from the information at hand at this distance. Without much warning, it appears, the board elected M. L. Brittain, State Superintendent of the Atlanta schools, without knowing whether he would accept. In thus depositing City Superintendent W. F. Dykes, the board not only incurred his displeasure, to put it mildly, but aroused something of a storm of protest on the part of his friends which resulted in the resignation of the women members of the board. Now, it turns out, Superintendent Brittain declines to accept the Atlanta job, preferring to hold on to the State post, and the Atlanta board will have to select another man for city superintendent, also reconsider its action in dismissing Superintendent Dykes, who is quoted as having told the board that he would "not fire even a cook without notice."

As English "Is Spoke." The following letter appeared in the "One Minute Interviews" of the Charlotte Observer: "We hear much these days of the peculiarities of the English language. How many people do you suppose, speak absolutely correct English and how many pronounce the words correctly and distinctly?"

"At a recent choir rehearsal the following hymns were 'tried out,' announced by the pastor the following Sunday and 'sung' by the congregation: "I am Thine, no Lord." "Bring them, Min." "Sweet, buy and buy." "Praise Sim, Praise Sim." "Grace, enuff for me." "Have Thy known way." "Beautiful Lisle." "Tis the Blessed Power of Prayer." "That Sweet Story of Fold." "ONE WHO DOESN'T."

Will Print Newspaper in Air. Initial trials will soon be made in the publication of a daily newspaper from airplanes in flight, a new phase of journalism, says a dispatch from London. Airplanes will leave Paris and London daily. Machines from Paris will print editions of the Aerial Mail in French and those from England will print their copies in English. Batches of the papers will be dropped by parachute in Boulogne, Rouen, Amiens and other cities where there are subscribers. The machines will be equipped with wireless in addition to complete printing plants and will issue news of politics, finance, sport and that of a general character.

An Apostle of Equality. "I am always strong for the women," said the husband of a very charming wife, yesterday, and accordingly endorse an idea expressed by a Knoxville man in the town paper. He says: "Nowhere on Uncle Sam's greenbacks, except by the fanciful figure of the Goddess of Liberty, are women represented. "Men there are in plenty—men all down through the years since the days of Washington. "If women are to be made equals in the government, it's only fair that some of the noted members of their sex should appear on the country's paper money."

CAN PLOW ALL DAY NOW, SAYS REISCH

Winston-Salem Farmer Reports Gaining Forty Pounds In Weight. "It may sound unreasonable, and you may believe it or not, but after taking four bottles of Tanlac I gained forty pounds," recently said J. H. Reisch, a well-to-do and highly respected farmer whose address is Winston-Salem, N. C. R. F. D. No. 10. "I was pretty near knocked out last summer by an attack of malaria, and even after I got out of bed I kept losing weight and strength. For two months I wasn't able to hit a lick of work on my place and I was beginning to think I was down and out for good. "I began to take Tanlac just in the nick of time for I couldn't have held out much longer without help of some sort. I was down to 140 pounds, but this medicine took hold of me in such a way that in forty days exactly I had gone up to 188 pounds, which is just my right weight, and I quit taking Tanlac because it had done everything I needed. "I hadn't been taking the Medicine a week before I was able to go to work, and now I can plow all day. I eat anything I want, sleep like a log and in the morning roll out of bed feeling as fit and fine as I ever did in my life. I don't need any medicine myself, but I came to Winston just to get a bottle for my wife, who is complaining of being run down. "I never believed a medicine could do for anybody what Tanlac did for me, and I'm going to do my best to spread the news that there is one medicine that does all they say it will do."

Periodic Bilious Attacks. Persons subject to bilious attacks at regular intervals know about when to expect an attack. They find that they have no desire for food when an attack is due but usually eat because it is meal time. Skip one-meal and take three of Chamberlain's Tablets and you may be able to avoid the attack. Persons subject to periodic bilious attacks should not drink tea or coffee at any time. —Canada has the largest forest in the world. TIME TO FACE THE FACTS

"So much has been said against the use of patent medicines that I have had a strong prejudice against them. But after four years doctoring with six different doctors, without results, for acute indigestion, gastric, constipation, appendicitis and other ailments, I was said to possess. I was encouraged to try Mayr's Wonderful Remedy, seeing what it had done for a friend similarly afflicted. I also was entirely relieved of my trouble, and am sure this medicine will do all and more than it claimed for it." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. Sold in Oxford by J. N. Pittman and all leading druggists.
