INTERESTING LETTER FROM THE GOLDEN WEST

A Granville County Boy Sees Things in California.
 Editor Public Ledger: Venice, Calif., June 23.—I have been out here for one month and it has not rained yet. I am advised that it will probably not rain before December. The nights are very cool here in Venice and the people sleep under two or more blankets the year around. This part of California is a glorious spot. Everybody who can visit California would profit by the trip. It never snows in Venice. The calamity that recently befell the sailors on the ill-fated Mississippi off the coast of California, was terrible. The firing of the big guns on the battleship, shook the buildings in Venice. The people thought that it was an earthquake and fearing the buildings would fall all of the patients were moved out of the hospitals. Over 90 percent of all the girls out here have their hair bobbed.
 ROBERT MOORE.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our many friends and neighbors for the many kind words and words of sympathy extended to us during the sickness and death of our mother, Mrs. J. O. Patterson. May God bless you all.—G. S. Patterson and family.

KNOTT-PERRY WEDDING

Rev. A. D. Kinnett, of Tarboro, a former member of the church, followed by the groom and his brother, Mr. Luther Knott, of Oxford, entered from the Pastor's study. The groom and his best man stood at the foot of the stairs from the study until the bride entered.

The groomsmen and ushers were Messrs. Gus Bradley and Leo Carr, of Burlington; George Maudley, of Elizabeth City, and Bivens Helms of Monroe. The bride's maids were Miss Hilda Cates, cousin of the bride, and Miss Rosa Jane Knott, sister of the groom. They wore lovely green tulle frocks, gold headbands, and carried armful of rose gladioli and lavender larkspur. The bride was also attended by her two sisters, Miss Ruth Perry, as first Maid-of-Honor, and dainty little Miss Francis Perry as Junior maid-of-honor. The first maid of honor wore a youthful rose-colored frock of taffeta, gold headband, and carried an armful of old fashioned flowers of various colors. The junior maid wore a fluffy frock of yellow with a miniature bouquet like the first maid's except hers was tied with rose taffeta ribbons.

Little Corrie Holt, Jr., acted as ring bearer. He wore a white satin suit and the ring he carried was embedded in the center of a lily. The bride's gown was a lovely model made of brocade crepe satin and lace, the skirt slightly full at the top where it was attached to a long bodice. The veil of tulle was fastened to the crown of the head with orange blossoms and fell to the floor, forming a court train. She carried an armful of Easter lilies. As the bride entered alone the groom went to meet her, and as in the wedding of her own mother's the bride's father stood up from his own pew and gave her in marriage, the ring ceremony being used.

After the reception the newly wedded couple left for an automobile wedding trip. The bride's going-away gown was a three piece model of blue and tan, with hat, shoes and gloves to harmonize.

The bride is the oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Luther D. Perry, of this city, and granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Wesley Cates, pioneer families of Burlington, and all her life has been spent in Burlington with the exception of the few years away at school at Oxford college, from which school she graduated in domestic art a year ago. In testimony of her accomplishments her wedding gown was of her own creation. She is a young woman of unusual charm of manner and with a madonna-like beauty that is seldom seen.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam W. Knott, of Oxford, and it was while attending school at Wake Forest college, where he graduated last year, that he met Miss Perry and the culmination last evening was the result of that beginning.

He has recently accepted a position with Markham & Rogres, of Durham, and upon their return from the honeymoon they will make their home in Durham.

Out-of-town guests were Mrs. S. W. Knott, Misses Bettie, Pearl and Rosa Jane Knott, of Oxford; Messrs. Luther and Jese Knott, of Oxford; Dr. Hubert Poteat, of Wake Forest; Mr. and Mrs. I. H. Dunlap, of Bonlee; Master Bryant Dunlap, of Bonlee; Mrs. Fred O. Allen, and Mary Elizabeth Allen, of Raleigh, Miss Nell Perry, of Siler City; Mrs. Eric Copeland, of Durham; Miss Mary Barbour, of Clayton; Messrs. Maudley, of Elizabeth City; and Helms, of Monroe.

home was most attractive with growing plants and cut flowers. In the Music room and hall tall vases of gladioli and baskets filled with sweetpeas were used in profusion. The punch bowl nestled in a bower of foliage and sweetpeas in a corner of the hall.

The table in the dining room was covered with an Italian lace cover and centered with an immense old-fashioned silver basket filled with pink roses surrounded by smaller baskets of sweetpeas. A tracery of mist fern extended from the basket to the corners of the table, silver dishes with nuts, candy and mints completed the lovely effect.

The bride is a daughter of the late Capt. M. W. Page, of Wake county, and has made her home in this city several years where she has a large circle of friends. She was educated at Salem College and is a young woman of attractive personality and an unusually charming manner.

Mr. Pinnix is a son of Mrs. W. M. Pinnix, of Oxford, and a prominent young business man of that town.

Mr. and Mrs. Pinnix left on the Carolina special for a sojourn of several weeks in the mountains of Western Carolina, after which they will be at home in Oxford, N. C.

Mrs. Pinnix is a sister of Mrs. James A. Robinson of Durham, N. C.

Helps Children Over Hot Weather.

Summer complaint makes little headway with children whose careful mothers use Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy for stomach and bowel complaint, severe and sudden intestinal cramps and weakening diarrhoea. It acts almost instantly, and given in a little sweetened water is easy to take. Good for grown persons, too.

TAYLOR-BRYAN

es and valley lilies, leaning on the arm of her father, Mr. Robert P. Taylor, who gave her in marriage. They were met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Dr. J. K. Bryan, of Oxford, a brother, who had entered from the vestry at the rear of the altar. At the altar with the beautiful ring ceremony they were happily united in marriage by Rev. O. W. Dowd. The ring was of the beautiful new white gold in a lovely design. The bridal party left the church in reverse order while the organist beautifully rendered Mendelssohn's wedding march.

From the church the party went to the home of the bride's parents, where luncheon was served and after many happy congratulations and farewells the bride and groom left for Henderson in automobile where they boarded the northbound train for their bridal trip.

The bride is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Taylor, and is one of Louisburg's most popular and attractive young ladies. She is accomplished and generously endowed with a personality that makes her a favorite among her numerous acquaintances both at home and abroad.

The groom is a promising and popular young business man of Oxford. The many pretty and costly presents speaks beautifully of the extreme popularity of the contracting parties and bears good wishes and hearty congratulations.

The many friends of the bride in Louisburg in extending congratulations, feel a deep regret at the loss of her from Louisburg's social circles.

Those attending the marriage from out of town were: Mrs. M. C. Braswell, Miss Alice B. Braswell, Miss Venale Braswell, Mr. H. B. Bryan, of Battlesboro, Miss Lucy Mayo, Miss Annie Lou Mayo, Mr. Columbia Mayo, of Tarboro; Mrs. L. B. Jones, of Sanford; Mrs. W. L. Fleming, of Enfield; Mrs. J. B. Crudup, Miss Mishu Rogers, Mrs. E. P. Maynard.

H. C. ABBOTT

Miss Louie Crudup, Miss Pattie G. Hill, Mr. James Moore, Mr. Parker, of Raleigh; Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Herin, Dr. and Mrs. S. J. Finch, Mrs. T. G. Taylor, Mr. Edward Taylor, Miss Mary Fort, Miss Edith Howell, of Oxford; Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Holmes, Mr. West Brummitt, Mr. Faucette, of Oxford; Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Taylor, Miss Annie K. Taylor, Mr. Robert K. Fort, of Roanoke Rapids; Mr. H. L. Taylor, Mr. C. D. H. Fort, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Bryan, Miss Ruth Bryan, Dr. J. K. Bryan, Miss Mary Taylor, of Oxford, Mrs. H. C. Ranson, of Brevard, Miss Sallie Charles Cheatham, of Henderson, Miss Columbia Crudup, of New York, and Miss Annie Davis Crudup, of Wake Forest; Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Bryan, Miss Edna Bryant, of Oxford, Miss Josephine Bryant, of Ooford and New York, Miss Evelyn Moulton, Dalton, Mass. Crudup, of Wake Forest.

On Tuesday evening at the beautiful home of her parents the bride gave a reception to her party and many friends. The occasion was informal and during the hours several hundred passed in and out, viewed the beautiful presents, met the visitors, passed felicitations and expressing congratulations and good wishes to the bride and groom.
