

GOOD CITIZENSHIP WINNERS REVEALED

Winners of Good Citizenship awards in each of three high schools of the American Revolution, sponsoring agency.

Chosen by members of the senior classes, with faculty approval, were chairman of the project of the John Penn Chapter of Daughters High; Elizabeth Iris Farabow at South Granville High; and Susan Kirk Fortune of John Nichols High. Parents of the winners, who are to receive recognition at the annual commencement program of their schools in the spring, are Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Jones Jr. of Oxford and Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Farabow of Rt. 2, Oxford. Miss Fortune has been a student at the Oxford Orphanage since 1960 and Mrs. L. A. Ligon is her sponsor.

At a meeting of the DAR Chapter Oct. 16, each was a guest and received a Good Citizenship pin from Mrs. W. G. Woltz, regent. They are to compete at the district level where the winner will receive a $100 savings bond. The district winners will go to national competition for a larger prize.

high school years, her special interests have been the Science Club, French Club, National Honor Society and the Student Council, having served as secretary. She also is chief marshal and a member of the staff of the school paper, Spectator. She is also in Girl's Auxiliary, Hester Church choir, the Handbell Choir, Pep Club, Girl Scouts, Candystrippers and is also a sewing enthusiast.

Betsy Farabow's principal concerns are piano, art, sewing, traveling and working with children. During August, she served as a counselor at Hanover County Methodist Elementary Camp, near Richmond. She also participates in sports, plays basketball, softball and rides horseback. She is editor of Viking Ventures, publication of her school, is a member of Beta Club, Future Homemakers and Health Careers. She is presently planning to major in child psychology at the University of North Carolina.

Susan Fortune is described as "an excellent student and an active and enthusiastic participant in the various class and extra-curricular activities" of her school. She has served as class secretary, is now chief cheerleader, a member of the yearbook staff, literary club treasurer and also vice president of the club. She is secretary of the math club. An FFA Club member for four years, is president of the National Honor Society and participates in public speaking activities. She has been a student council officer for three years and is chief commencement marshal. She is also a member of the Fine Art Club and in her sophomore year, was winner of the World Peace Key in the organization's speaking program. She was recently crowned Football Sweetheart. She strongly desires to continue her education at UNC-G. She is described as "conscientious in the fulfillment of her duties at both school and church." She serves as secretary of the MYF of Oxford sub-district.

FHA Rally Held at Hillside, Durham

By SHARON MULLEN (FHA Reporter for Webb High)

"Action Today, Careers Tomorrow" was the theme that enticed J. F. Webb Future Homemakers to rise early in order to attend the District IV Rally at Hillside High in Durham on October 12.

Several girls from Webb participated in the program during the day. The thought for the day was given by Cindy Boyd and Robbie Watson. Brenda Slaughter served as a page and Wanda Dickerson, State Vice-President, presided.

The FHA delegates were welcomed by John Lucas, principal of Hillside High; Lew Hannen, Superintendent of Durham County Schools; and James Gurner, Di-
