the Seasons. "You see, Georgie," said Mr. Wingleby, whose youthful son had asked him how we came to have different kinds of weather, "the weather is put up in tin cans, a day's weather to a can, and usually they put up about a year's supply ahead, enough to last through a spring, summer, autumn and winter. In filling the cans they sort it, all out as well as possible. Sometimes when they get a can full there may be a little left over, and whatever remains in this way they throw into one lot. When they've got pretty nearly all the cans full and the regular stock of weather has run out, they fill up from that lot of odds and ends. The cans so filled contain what is called variable weather, because it's mixed, but most of the weather they get pretty well sorted out according to the season.

"When they've got all the cans filled, attic anyway.—Pick Me Up. they stack 'em up where they'll be handy to get at, and there's a man that does nothing but open them. Every day he cuts a can and pours out the weather for that day, and of course a great deal depends upon him. Sometimes this man gets careless and pulls down a lot of the wrong cans, getting them, say, from the July shelf in the month of April and likely as not getting down a week's supply at once, so as to have them handy on the opening table. Of course he discovers his mistake the first can be opens. but he is too lazy to put the rest back. and so he keeps on then until he has opened them all, and that's how it comes about, as it sometimes does, that we get a hot spell at a season when we

THE MAHNIMAH.

A Wonderful Parrot of India Which, the Natives Claim, Thinks. A little bird in town did a surprising thing the other day, though that is the middle of the story. The first of the story is that a woman who had lived many years in India and who has a love for all things Indian was walking along the street and saw in the window of a bird store a green parrot with red spots on its wings.

"That bird," she said to herself, "came from India. I will go in and speak with it. Perhaps it speaks the vernacular."

So she went in and spoke to it in the ernacular of India. "Do you speak the language?" she said. It is the common question which the people ask of a parrot in the land from which the bird came. But the creature made no answer. It stared at | have invaded the churches. One church her with dull eyes and was not interested. Still she persisted. "Come," she said. "Surely you speak ed cards. Another church narrowly

The birdseller did not notice the cry. It is merely the chattering of a foolish little bird to him. But the woman who loved India said :

"Where is that bird?" "It's back there," said the bird seller, pointing to a remote corner. So the woman went there, and in an old cage she found a neglected looking mahnimah, standing erect on its perch, all its feathers ruffled, looking this way and that as it quivered with excitement. This bird of all talking birds is the most wonderful-nay, in India they maintain that it thinks. It learns, in fact, the tongue of the people, they say, and does not speak by rote, but it converses.

At any rate the mahnimah cried: "I speak the language. I speak it." "Here I am, brother," cried the woman. "I am one who speaks it too."

The bird fixed one sharp eye on her. so she called back: "Salaam, little brother." "Salaam," said the bird. - Chicago Chronicle.

Clever Man.

It is said of a contributor to some of the comic papers of the day that his wit shines more brightly in his speech than in his "copy." "What a clever man that Tompkins is," he said lately to an acquaintance, referring to a well dressed, ordinary looking man who had just passed him with a bow. "Clever!" echoed the other. "Why, I never heard of his saying or doing anything! "That's just it," returned the writer gravely. "Think of his being able to live without saying or doing anything.

Whist In the Church.

And that's what's the matter with Emporia-too much whist. The painted china set is married to cards. Women have no higher thought from week's end to week's end than winning head prizes. They grow nervous, irascible, bad tempered and ugly playing cards. Little crows' feet appear at the corners of their eyes after an evening with whist, and deep, vertical lines plow themselves just above their noses There are more plain women in Emporia who lost their bloom at the rented card tables than there are women who have worn themselves out over the kitchen stove. It is worry, not work, that makes women fade, and cards are sapping the juice out of the town. Only the young people patronize the public library. The old folks make "What's trump?" the chief end of man. Cards has a big factional row looming upon the horizon because the pastor has jumpthe language? What do you want? Are avoided it last winter. STAR Warehouse.

OUL FRIENDS AND PACRONS:

We are pleased to say to you that we have leaved the star Warehouse of this place and opened business on Oct 1-t. We have a few remark, for sour consider-1st We have the best arranged Warehouse to be found in the county, our floor being level with the ground will show your to been to every advantage and will not dry out on floor near so soon.

2nd we have a large light dry basement and also a damp basement. We can order yeur tobacco and keep it in order the dryest day in the year 3.d. Our lot and stalls you will always find dry and in good condition and in fact we have put everything in first class order. Our accommodations for man.

SHALL NOT BE SURPASSED BY ANYBODY

4 h. We have taken a great deal of care in making up our force to getimen who thorouguly understand and know how to fill their respective positions and men who you will always find polite and attentive to our patrons.

5th. We promise you the top of the market for every pound of tobacco put on our floor. Our salesman, R. W. Hutcherson, who has for three years been floor-nanager and assistant salesman at Watt's warehouse, will look after every pile in person and we feel safe in saying for him that he will do everything for you that pan can do and can tell you as near what your tobacco is worth as any ware-houseman in this constry and our suctioneer, T. W. Hancock, will plead as hard or the last little quarter as any auctloneer in the State.

6th. Our market has never been in as good condition as now. Ourlorder men want an unlimited quantity of tobacco, consisting of all grades from the finest nahogany wrapper down to a common lug. Our home manufacturers and leaf nen are all on the market and are auxious for your tobacco and we are pleased to ay that we have not seen all grades of tobacco start off as well in several years s they have this time.

We feel safe in saying ou have the ripest and sweetest crop you have had for ears, although the crop is not as good as it once promised to be, the hot dry weather cutting short a good portion of the crop in the field, still we think the crop will make a good average. We know of no better market in North Carolina or Virginia than Reidsville on which to sell your tobacco, and certainly no better warehouse than PHE OLD STAR, which shines for all.

Come to See Us Once and You Will Come Again. Respectfully, accomplished annually by one dread disease consumption. And yet this most fatal of all diseases is not without its remedy. It is no longer the irresistible destroyer that it was considered thirty years ago. An entirely new aspect is put upon the possibilities of this dreadful malady by the astounding remedial action of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which cures consumption by nourishing the lungs with an abundant supply of pure, highly - vitalized blood.

said he could not help me and just prescribed cod liver oil and told my mother I could not live longer han three months. I kept getting weaker every jay, when at last a friend asked me why I did not try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I thought there was no use, no more help for me as consumption was in our family. My father and also, my sister died with it; but after taking the first hottle I seemed to feel better. My appetite was better and I kept right on taking it, with a bottle of the 'Pellets' once in a while, until I felt real well. Before taking it, I weighed one hundred and ten pounds, after taking it, one hundred and thirty. I have not had a cough this winter."

Miss Lucy Kloeffler, of Armada, Mich., writes: Miss Lucy Kloeffler, of Armada, Mich., writes; "When I was about eight years of age I had indammation of the lungs, and from that time up I was sick nearly all the time and had a doctor nearly all the time. I would take cold so easily it would go right to my lungs. At the age of nineteen I was very bad; there was pain in my lungs, tickling in my throat and my throat was studded with ulcers; there was hoarseness and partial suppression of voice, and difficulty of breathing. I doctored with one of our best physicians and he said he could not help me and just prescribed cod liver oil and told my mother I could not live lower
