CIGARETTES KILLED HIM.

A Young Man is Stricken With Apoplexy, Caused by Smoking Cigarettes.

Hugh Horah, a young man 18 years of age, was stricken with apoplexy in its worst form yesterday morning and died within two hours. He had been enjoying very good health and had just returned Saturday night from Danville where he had been for several days visiting his brother.

Yesterday morning about 7 o'clock his mother heard him making a curious noise and awakening him asked if he was sick. He replied that he was feeling very well and had been sleeping soundly. He then began talking of his trip to Danville. His mother and sister noticed a strange sound in his voice but paid little attention to it.

Shortly after leaving the room, however, they heard a struggle and returned to find Hugh unconscious.

He never regained consciousness and died at 9 o'clock.

Drs. McKenzie and Wright were sent for but could do the unfortunate boy no good.

They pronounced the cause of his death a stroke of apoplexy in its most violent form superinduced by excessive cigarette smoking.

He had been an habitual cigarette smoker for many years, but some time since broke himself of the habit. Then he began again and smoked them until they had accomplished his tragic end.

Hugh had a large circle of friends in Salisbury.

The funeral service took place from the house this afternoon at 4 o'clock and the remains were interred in Chestnut Hill Cemetery.

Yesterday's Richmond Times has an interesting article on the ball team of the University of North Carolina which will play the University of Virginia this week at Norfolk. It has the following to say of our young townsman, Walter Woodson:

It is possible that Walter Woodson will be taken as substitute catcher. His strong point is throwing. He also hits and runs bases well. Much credit is due "Chick" Woodson, as he is called, for his hard work in captaining the "scrub" team, which, after all, is responsible for the strength of the Varsity.

HIS SHOOTER SHOT.

Two Darkeys While Intoxicated Monkey With a Pistol.—Result.

Two negro men, somewhat under the influence of corn juice, were wandering down Liberty street last night about 9 o'clock. One of them, Robt. Green, had a pistol in his hand and was threatening to kill a woman before he left town. Any woman. It didn't matter to him. Just so he got to shoot at her.

When near the railroad Green said to his companion: "You don't believe it will shoot, do you?"

"Pull the trigger and see if it will," suggested his comrade.

Green pulled the trigger, the pistol fired, the ball struck a rib in the side of his companion and glancing upward entered his throat.

Then the two men went on toward their lodgings at the new Southern shops.

A gentleman who saw the man after the shooting says the wound bled profusely.

A warrant was taken out for Green this morning.

Trexler Still Threatening His Daughter's Life.

Natt Williams, the young man on whose account Miss Frances Trexler was shot by her father two weeks ago, was in the city Saturday and talked to a WORLD reporter. He has been to see his sweetheart several times since the shooting took place and has also seen the old gentleman once or twice. The old man has renewed his threats to kill his daughter and her mother dare not leave her in the house alone with her father.

Trexler has won the contempt of nearly the entire neighborhood. Several neighbors are endeavoring to raise enough money with which to purchase an artificial limb for Miss Trexler but are not meeting with much success, the neighbors generally refusing to "donate any" money until Trexler has been punished for his crime. The case, we understand, will be brought before the grand jury at the next term of Rowan's Superior court.
