We make use of it in almost every thing we cook, and think some dishes are unfit to eat if it be want-We could doubtless accustom ourselves to its disuse, as to other disagreeable things, could we be convinced of the sense of it. But it seems to us when we see a cow lick the end of a salt barrel until the skin is worn off of her tongue, and the blood drips from the corners of her mouth, that there is a pretty strong indication of a natural taste for salt. ANIMALCULES.

If some hay is placed in a glass of pure rain water, and allowed to soak for a few days in a sunny place, and if then be removed, the water will be found, under a microscope, to contain many small moving things, which are called infusoria, from their being produced after infusing the nay. The eggs which were on the hay bred three myriads of small things, which often have a very beautiful coat of transparent flint or silicia. THE COUNTER-REVOLUTION IN SPAIN.

Our news from Spain, says the New York Herald has really become alarming. COMPROMISING SPIRIT.

Yesterday a sable Adonis, named Edward Chandler, was up as a witness in a case of assault and battery. The pugilists were two females of the same ebon hue of Edward himself, and a little inquiry into the cause of the disturbance soon revealed the fact that they both claimed the dusky Lothario as their husband. Both asserted that they were lawfully married to him, and the severest crossexamination failed to disclose any flaw in the statements of either:

"Why, you rascal, you must be a bigamist!" said the Judge, turning wrathfully towards Edward. "Sar!

"You've married both these women? "Yes, sar, but day need nt fight bout it, "Don't you know this is a criminal offence

Judge's face. "I'll have to have you arrested for biga-

" Dat so?"

"Den don't say no mo' about it, and I'll live wid 'em bof,' rejoined the complacent Edward, adjusting his hat and walking leisurely from the court room.-N. O. Pic.

A SINGULAR CABBAGE.-Mr. O. L. Burch. of this city, informs us of a singular cabbage n his garden, which he describes thus: It is of the curled Savoy species, was planted last year, and left to seed last Spring. It produced a large quantity of seed, which ripened and were gathered; but instead of the old stalk decaying, after producing the crop of seed, as is usual in such cases, young buds made their appearance between the old limbs, to the number of thirty-seven, which grew to a good size, headed up, as other cabbages do. and thus yielded to the family several dishes of fine white cabbage. Some of these heads grew near the old stalk, while others had stems six or seven inches long; some of the heads grew erect while others hung with the buds toward the ground. The stalk is as ound as it was last year. - Standard.

SALT FOR STOCK .- When stock is pastured salt should be kept in the field, within easy access to the cattle. It can be bought in large lumps weighing from ten to twenty pounds .--In this shape it does not dissolve rapidly, and the cattle can get a lick whenever they wish .-It is also an economical way of salting stock.

Some of the English economist think that nothing is wanted in England but cotton. But the London Times says that the loss of trade comes from the protective policy of other countries. That is, thanks to our tariff. English manufacturers do not control the American market as they did. We make more and sell more and earn more.
