We clip the above from the New York Daily News. It is exceedingly complimentory to our friends of the Gazette We endorse it, but in doing so, we confess that the slyle savors somewhat of familiarity. But we publish it, notwithstanding, in order that our contemporary may have the full benefit of it.

It will be seen that our very worthy contemsave in their own country" his fame as the Ed report was concurred in. itor of the Gazette has even reached Ben Wood Copperhead Editor in New York. Can't the Doctor furnish us a recipe for making reputation our gratification, originates not so much from does write, as for any one to make a National reputation, as an Editar who writes two articles in about twenty issues. Of course Ben Wood knows how to appreciate a paper -- and we may fairly locate the Gazette at last.

Death of an Editor.

JAMES FULTON, Sr. Editor of the Wilming ton Journal, is no more. He died at his resi dence in Wilmington last Thursday after noon of a congestive chill. He leaves no peer in the public Journalism of our State. That he was a gentleman of genius and great attainments, is admitted by all. His manly style of composition and pungent wit, enabled him to exercise an in fluence on the public mind second to no editor of our acquaintance. His death is a public ca-

The Washington correspondent of the Baltimere Sun, writes:

Few people understand that the present ways and means is a very different thing from what it has been heretofore. Last season a rule was adopted by the House, dividing the duties of that committee into three parts, and providing for a committee for each. That for one part was to retain the name of ways and means," that for the second part was to be called the committee on appropria tions;" that for the last was to be called the committee on "banks and banking."

Some have maintained that the most important of these was the committee of "ways and means," and therefore, Mr. Morrill, its chairman, ranked Thaddens Stevens, the chairman of the committee on appropriations." Such, however, is not the fact. "appropriations" being regarded in the House as of more interest or importance than the increasing or diminishing of the rate of taxation, which is the business of Mr. Morrill's committee. The latter, however, is important enough to the people at large. Mr. Stevens would naturally, by his great ability and experience, be leader of his side, even if he were not on any committee. But Mr. Morrill has been the working man in getting up the late revenue income and excise tax bills. His name was given to a revenue bill which was adopted half a dozen years ago.

ADMISSION OF SOUTHERN MEMBERS. The Union members of the Senate have held several caucuses on the joint resolution adopted by the House concern-EDITOR ing the admission of members from States lately in rebellion. After a warm discussion, it was declared this afternoon to strike out the last clause of the resolution, which prohibits action on the credentials of members until the report of the committee shall have been final ly acted on. As now proposed, therefore, the resolution will simply provide Rev. R. L. Abernethy, Happy Home, for the appointment of a joint committee to consider and report upon the political condition of the Southern States.

It will also be made a concurrent instead of joint resolution, so it will not require the President's sanction. It is understood that both Houses will await the action of this committee, and also that this committee will not delay action unseasonably. The Pesident is known to Hampton & Co., with Dr. W.
