MIRACULOUS ESCAPE.

Colored Man Run Over by Coach and Engine.

Yesterday evening at Spencer Tom Dooly, a colored man, was knocked down, and run over by a coach and engine. His hip was dislocated, one thumb had to be amputated and he was otherwise bruised and cut, but he escaped with his life—a most wonderful escape.

Dooly works for Contractor Wilson, at Spencer. He was walking on the yard yesterday evening and stepped on a track in time to be knocked down by a coach. He fell between the rails and the coach passed over him. The tender of the engine, which was backing, also passed over him, as did most of the engine.

The engineer stopped the engine while Dooly was under the pilot and he was pulled out. Had the pilot passed over him he would no doubt have been killed.

The wounded man was attended by Dr. J. W. Long.

About our Representatives.

In an original paper read by one of Concord's married ladies at a meeting of the Julia Magruder Book Club some weeks ago, the subject for the evening being "Living Questions," the following was read concerning one senator and one representative from this district and county now in the General Assembly:

Lee Overman is known and respected by all over the State. His county sent to the Assembly the man whom the Democratic minority named as the one worthy to take the seat of the lamented Vance. Then there is Robert Glenn, "eloquent Bob," one of the finest stump speakers south of the Mason and Dixon line. He is there, and will be both seen and heard.

Case of Libel.

Yesterday afternoon Mayor Pro Tem Lord had a case in which a colored boy was the prosecuting witness against Charlie Hunter, colored. He was also charged with striking the boy and was fined $10.

Now Charlie talks of suing the boy for slander.

A SIX DAY MARCH.

The North Carolina Boys Go Out on an Eighty Mile Tramp.

Mrs. W. R. Barker has received a letter from her son Max, who is in Cuba with the 1st N. C. We are permitted to publish a part of the letter, as follows:

CAMP COLUMBIA, HAVANA, CUBA, Jan. 28, '99.

We have just finished a six days march of eighty miles. We left camp Sunday morning 21st, at 8 o'clock. It came nearer being active campaigning than anything we've experienced since we left home. The first day we marched 15 miles through the prettiest country I have ever seen. Mecklenburg county can brag about her fine roads but she can't touch these. We passed through Cerro, a suburb of Havana and went into camp at a little place the name of which means, "Orange River," I've forgotten the name of it. We were given passes to visit the town, but there was very little to interest us. The next morning at daybreak we broke camp and an hour later found us on the road again. At eleven o'clock we passed through the town of Rincon and at three we came in sight of Bejuco, where we were met and escorted through the city by the alcalde, or mayor, a detail from the Cuban garrison and hundreds of citizens. We were the first American soldiers ever seen in that part of the country and in the afternoon had a crowd of visitors. We broke camp the following morning and started again on our trip, going by Rincon, thus covering several miles of the same road we had traversed the day before. Just outside of the town of Rincon we halted for rest on the battlefield where the Cuban volunteers defeated the flower of the Spanish army. The Spaniards were forced to fall back to the town, in their haste throwing away their arms and equipments. We found lots of souvenirs, such as balls, canteens and mess outfits. We then struck off on a plain country road and shortly after noon pitched camp in San Antonio, a beautiful town of 15,000 inhabitants. It had at one time a population of 35,000 but thousands left during the War. We were met there by a battalion of the Sixth Missouri regiment and had dress parade, which was witnessed by an interested crowd. That night the Missouri band gave a concert on the plaza and the whole populace turned out. We spent two days and nights here resting up for the return trip, that town being the end of our trip. Thursday morning we struck out across country, through dense underbrush, often being forced to chop our way through or to tear down rock fences so the wagon train could pass. After crossing swamps and wading streams for six hours we finally reached the good roads again. About two o'clock we passed the most pitiful thing I've seen yet. It was the ruins of what had once been a beautiful city, but the Spaniards took possession of it, driving the Cubans out and burning the town. There was not a house left standing. We marched through streets seeing nothing but bare walls. At four o'clock we went into camp at the town of Guines. Friday we started for camp, a distance of 10 miles. At Mariano we were met by our band and Col. Armfield. We reached camp at 10:30 worn out but happy. Each man carried his "light order," consisting of shelter half, poncho, blanket, haversack, canteen and rifle. It rained every night except Sunday, but we did not mind that. We slept on the ground with any old thing for a pillow. Thursday night a storm struck us and every body and everything got drenched.

The Brehaney Company.

Says the Junta Democrat of the concert company which will be in Salisbury Tuesday night:

The Louise Brehaney Concert company last evening was greeted by a full house of the cream of La Junta. The music was faultless each as they appeared meeting with hearty response from the audience. The piano playing by Prof. Sauvlet was considered exceptionally fine and was heartily encored. Miss Louise Brehaney has a very sweet voice which one would never tire of listening to. The entertainment as a whole was first class and was duly appreciated to the fullest extent.

The following bills passed final reading: To amend section 1,308, of The Code relative to the drainage of lowlands; to amend chapter 399, laws of 1891, allowing the directors of Deaf and Dumb School at Morganton to elect officers in case of vacancy; to domesticate foreign corporations (Craig's bill). The vote was unanimous for the passage of the bill.

A bill to amend the charter of the East Tennessee & Western North Carolina Railroad Company passed third reading, as did a bill to repeal sections 1,333, of The Code. This section prohibits the buying and selling of pretended rights or titles.

At 12:20 the Senate resolved itself into committee of the whole for the consideration of the bill to amend, consolidate and codify the insane laws of North Carolina.

The first section brought under discussion was 66, of the printed bill. This section provides "that the criminal insane shall be cared for and treated in the wards of the penitentiary, which have heretofore been assigned for the purpose * * * and the said wards shall be known as the department of the criminal insane and the board of directors of the penitentiary is given full control and management of said department."

This brought on a discussion which ended when Senators Hicks, Travis, Speight and Daniels were appointed a sub-committee to draft an amendment for section 66 and submit it to a committee of the whole.

THE HOUSE.

Bills were introduced as follows: By Mauney, to prevent distemper and other infectious diseases among cattle; by Boggs, to regulate the holding of courts in Catawba; by Brown, of Stanly, to amend the charter of Albemarle; by Pritchard, to punish persons who sell whiskey in any local option territory; by Craig, to regulate fraternal benevolent societies, orders and associations; by Curtis, to protect sub-contractors and others.

Bill introduced by Winston to provide for working convicts on the county farms, in making food supplies for themselves and the county poor, and also for their working the public roads. Winston explaining and advocating the bill said convicts were so used in Bertie county and with entire success. The law is not obligatory or mandatory, but gives the counties power, if desired, to thus dispose of their convicts, and also to take convicts from counties, which may not desire to avail themselves of the law. The bill passed without debate, members remarking on all sides that they regarded it as an excellent measure.

Bill passed to punish the sale of adulterated or misbranded food.
