IN MEMORIAM.

Men are ever constrained to pay homage to the great and the good and lay at the shrine of virtue some appreciative token by word or deed. And in bringing the last tribute to the memory of one whose life's work is his crowning monument, I only follow the impulse of mankind to bare to the world the record of one's goodness, which can never be adequately estimated even by those who realize most keenly his transition from mortality to eternity. In many particulars the life of James S. McCubbins, Sr., was no less remarkable than exemplary. Does the young man of to-day desire a model of persevering industry and undaunted fortitude? Then let him study this life record. Does State seek a son whose escheteon is unswayed? Then let her review his service. Does philanthropy cast in vain for an ideal humanitarianism? Then let her go to the widows and orphans, who, during civil strife were succored by him to the extent of his means. And so through his entire life from any and all points of view he exhibited those traits and qualities that constitute the true man—true to himself, his fellow man and his God.

James S. McCubbins, Sr., was born in Randolph county on November 22nd, 1822. He moved from Randolph to Iredell county and in 1844 came to Salisbury. Clerking here for three years he returned to Iredell county and taught school, being later appointed a deputy sheriff of the county. About 1850 he was elected register of deeds of that county and after the expiration of his term of office returned to Salisbury, residing here continuously until 1872, when he moved to his farm about ten miles from Salisbury. In 1879 he returned to Salisbury and became a member of the firm of McCubbins, Beall & Co., at that time one of the leading mercantile establishments of this section. He continued to merchandise until 1887, when he was elected president and manager of the Salisbury Roller Mills, which position he held until his death.

Mr. McCubbins, though an active party man, was in no sense of the word a politician. Clean handed in his public as in private life, men knew him to trust him and he held various positions of honor and responsibility at the hands of his constituents. He was elected register of deeds of Iredell county about 1850. In 1868 he, with Hon. John S. Henderson, was elected a member of the constitutional convention. In 1870 he redeemed Salisbury to Democracy and was the first Democrat elected to the office of mayor of this city after the war. He was elected county treasurer in 1872 and two years later represented his county in the legislative halls at Raleigh, being also elected a representative in 1865. For four years, from 1884 to 1888, he served on the board of county commissioners, but resigned in the latter year, to accept a legislative nomination. To every trust, whether public or private, entrusted to him, he brought the same unerring honesty of purpose and executed them by his inviolable and unvarying test—absolute conscientiousness.

Socially, Mr. McCubbins was unobtrusive though very approachable. It was in his own home that he found his chiefest delight. Domestic by inclination, the softness and graciousness of his nature shone most beautifully within the precincts of his home. He is survived by his wife and two children, Mrs. J. B. Gaither, of China Grove, and J. F. McCubbins, Esq., of this city.

Mr. McCubbins always manifested deep concern in religious affairs. He has been since young manhood a communicant of the Presbyterian church and in addition to numerous and regular private benevolences contributed liberally to the cause of Christianity.

In his removal a familiar figure, a representative citizen, a kind and generous character has been borne out on the tide. But there are those—and they are many—to whom his memory will be a legacy richer than a heritage of gold or silver.

An Old Doll.

J. T. Wyatt says that in hunting up curios &c., for his department at the State Fair he finds many rare and curious things, many of them with a very interesting history attached to them.

Among other things he came across a clay doll baby in Salisbury that was made in Orange county, N. C., and belonged to Sallie Isler, and it was made for her grandmother. If Sallie was now living she would be 110 years old. It was made near the first battleground in the Revolutionary war near the big Alamance creek on the land now owned by the Holt family.

This doll is supposed to be about 200 years old and is now owned by Tishie Kyle, of Charlotte, who has owned it for about 23 years. It represents the dress of that day and time, of an old man, and is one of those old time curiosities. It is worth seeing and can be seen at Tishie Kyle's home.

The Southern has informed the granite men that unless standards are used on flat cars the flat cars cannot be used as there is danger of the granite falling off and wrecking trains or doing other damage.

Mr. David Wallace, Jr., a traveling man of Statesville, who travels for the Wallace Bros. Co., lost his sample trunks in the Newton depot fire. He had four trunks and a full line of samples. His loss will be over $300 for trunks and samples, besides the loss of sales by his being delayed until he can get new trunks and samples.

The Ripple says Bud Shoaf, a young man who lived near Cross Road, Yadkin county, has been confined in Yadkin jail until arrangements can be made to send him to the State Hospital at Morganton. His insanity is thought to have been caused by the excessive use of tobacco, as he says he consumed four plugs a day until he had fits.

The corps of engineers engaged in surveying the railroad between this place and Morganton is now in the neighborhood of Mr. S. A. Sain. On Wednesday the corps surveyed eight miles and in that whole distance they say there will not have to be a fill of two feet high, nor a cut two feet deep. The corps will reach Lincolnton within the next few days.—Lincolnton Journal.

Mr. Will Ashe, who has been in the eastern part of the State with a party engaged in geological survey work, says he saw a rattlesnake killed by the train near Burgaw. It was the largest snake ever seen in that section, he says being seven feet long and having twenty-seven rattles on it. The snake was coiled on the track and as it struck at a passing wheel its head was cut off.—Asheville Gazette.

A colored man named Joe Brown, who lives near Warrenton, has been playing quite a smart trick on Mr. W. N. Ellis, the shuttles block saw mill man. He sold a small load of wood to Mr. Ellis nearly every day, so Mr. Ellis suspected something wrong and set a watch Friday night in his yard, which had a great deal of timber on it. He was caught in his trick of getting wood from the yard at night and then driving back in the morning and selling to Mr. Ellis the wood he had stolen. He is now in jail awaiting the criminal court.—Warrenton Record.
