All that loving hands and the skill of science could do was done but death was inevitable and relieved the little sufferer last night.

The bereaved parents have the sympathy of hosts of friends.

The body will be brought to Salisbury for interment, arriving here in the morning at 6:40.

Horses stampede.

The vestibule from the south was delayed for twenty minutes below Charlotte last night by seven horses stampeding.

A number of race horses were in a special express car enroute from New Orleans to New York. When the train turned a curve the partitions between three horses broke down and these horses got mixed with others in the car.

The train was stopped and the horses, with much difficulty were driven from the car. One of them escaped. The others were led to Charlotte, where their special car son was looking out for the thief was side tracked until necessary repairs could be made.

Nearly all of the animals were injured more or less.

North Carolina's Delegation.

The Washington correspondent of the Raleigh Post says:

It has been a long time since North Carolina was so creditably represented in the House as now. Perhaps its strongest delegation was that of ten years ago or so, when General Scales, Colonel Waddell and John S. Henderson and General Cox were in it and attained national reputations. With White and Linney eliminated, as now seems probable, the delegation bids fair in the next House to take high rank.

Weighing of the Mail.

The period of mail weighing has been extended indefinitely. The original order calling for weighing to continue thirty-five days was succeeded by an order prolonging the time seven days, until next Monday. The new order just issued is to continue weighing the mail until further orders.

Rowan's Election Board.

The names of A. H. Boyden, of Salisbury; G. C. Blackwelder, of China Grove, and H. A. Fisher. of Zeb, have been recommended for the election board of Rowan county. They will doubtless be named by the state board.

Sewerage Recruits.

A couple of dozen negroes were imported from Charlotte, arriving this morning, to work on the sewerage system.
