MISS LINGLE IS HERE.

ACCUSES HER FATHER OF MIS-TREATMENT.

She Denies Positively That She Has Been With Mr. Barrett Since She Left Home.

Miss Daisy Lingle, the 17-year-old daughter of Mr. A. L. Lingle, who so mysteriously disappeared from Salisbury last Friday night a week ago, has voluntarily returned to the city.

Sheriff Julian had information yesterday that Miss Lingle was visiting at her kinsman's, Mr. Henderson A. Fisher, and had Mr. J. Frank Miller to go after her. After learning the serious nature of the charges she decided to come to Salisbury and explain why she left home and where she has been since her departure from Mr. James Ludwig's.

From her statement it appears that both Mr. U. L. Barrett and herself have been wronged and that, too, by her own father. Miss Lingle made a straightforward statement this morning in which she said:

"I have not seen Mr. Barrett but once since I left my father's home—week before last. Mr. Barrett has always treated me as a gentleman should a lady and I have no complaint to make against him. When I left Salisbury and it was stated that I had eloped with him, I was visiting schoolmates. I left home because my father mistreated me. I have not decided whether or not I will go back home."

The statement of his daughter leaves Mr. Lingle in a very embarrassing position with reference to the statements given out by him.

Mr. Barrett, it appears from Miss Lingle's statement, has been entirely blameless in the matter and has been engaged in his usual work all the while.

HOW IT HAPPENED.

The Mistake With Reference to Mr. Hobson's Death.

The Salisbury correspondent of the Charlotte Observer says: How Richmond P. Hobson and the afternoon papers were led to believe that Mr. James M. Hobson, Capt. Hobson's father, had met with sudden death, may be worth relating. A letter from Capt. Hobson, now at Washington, to his cousin, Mrs. Wm. C. Blackmer, of this city, explains it. The mayor of Greensboro, Ala., had lost his father by a sudden death and he telegraphed his friend at Buffalo a message misleading through its brevity. The words "father dead" was nothing to qualify or explain them caused the painful mistake on the part of Capt. Hobson, and he reached home before learning to the contrary. Both Mr. and Mrs. Hobson have a number of near relatives here. Telegrams of condolence addressed to Mrs. Hobson were answered in the most sprightly manner by Mr. Hobson himself.

A BRILLIANT SUCCESS.

THE KIRMESS PRESENTED TO A CROWDED HOUSE.

The Realism of the Tableau a Feature of the Evening. A Splendid Success Scored.

The first night's presentation of the Kirmess exceeded in profit the expectations of its promoters, and in pleasure and entertainment the hopes of its patrons. There has never been anything of purely a spectacular nature, presented to a Salisbury audience that can approach the performance of last night. It was perfect in detail, beautiful in execution and generously applauded in every phase. The perfection of art in costuming, the skillful arrangement of the poses, marches and dances, and the splendid magnificence of the productions as a whole, was due to the direction, discrimination and artistic skill of Prof. James Wren, who for years has delighted Salisbury with artistic creations without limit; all of which he exceeded and eclipsed himself in the Kirmess. It was a show of beauty, grace and artistic endeavor, such as has never been seen in this town; and all who participated should congratulate themselves upon being a party to the giving of such genuine pleasure to the audience.

The whole program from start to finish was executed without delay. The more striking pictures and those which appealed most to the audience, were the formation of the Southern Cross, the Indian dance and tableaux of Pocahontas and Capt. John Smith, the sweet, coy, graceful and pretty little Japanese, with their catchy song; the gypsy dance, in which was witnessed a degree of artistic dancing by some who participated that would have done credit to Carmencita or Otello, and especially so is this of little Miss Daisy Brown, who was grace personified; and whose dancing captivated the entire audience. The minuet was exquisitely and gracefully executed, as was the May Pole. Perhaps the most attractive part of the entertainment was that of the Nile women and Cleopatra; it is to be regretted whether the real effect was not started all the more by the loveliness, the glorious song, the freshening, the ed her beauty, was due to Mauney, grace, as it is to be desired, Irish Nora in would have Spanish dance was executed after which a most beautiful and appropriate was the Greek dance, in which seemed as if all the grace, loveliness and beauty of Athens, I Thebes and the other Greece were present; in of Eros. The national panying each produced the music was acceptable style by

There are many negroes at this point who have been captured and may be lynched. A number of Smith's negro associates are now held near the scene of the murder. Edwards, the alleged murderer, is still at large. Some want to burn Smith at the stake and a few advocate cleaning out the whole crowd. The negroes had not been reached at 7 o'clock a. m. THE BOOTHS OPEN.

Attention Called to Booths in the Opera House.

We are asked to announce that the Kirmess is open in the mornings from 10 a. m. to 1 p. m. Admission free. This is for the benefit of those who desire to visit the booths and cannot do so in the evening. The managers also wish the public to understand that although sales will not take place during the time occupied by the dances, the saleswomen will be in attendance and the doors will be open at 7 p. m. for those who would like to come early in order to make purchases. These sales will, also, go on after conclusion of the dances, and refreshments are offered in the cafe throughout the evening. The managers fear that the public has not grasped the idea of the Kirmess. It is primarily, a festival on the carnival order, and not a simply a theatrical performance. The people are, therefore, begged to come and make a social occasion of it, enjoying themselves while helping to build the monument to Rowan's soldiers. In the evening the price of admission is 50 cents. Children 25 cents. Dances begin at 8:30.
