NO. 60

NOVEMBER WEDDING.

MISS CLAUDIA MOCK TO MARRY.

Salisbury Lady Now Living in Philadelphia to Wed.

The Sun announced six weeks ago the engagement of Miss Claudia Lavine Mock, of this city, and Mr. Newbold Eting, of Philadelphia. Cards were received yesterday reading:

Mrs. Charlotte Cowan Mock requests the honor of your presence at the marriage of her daughter Claudia Lavine to

Mr. Newbold Eting
on Wednesday, November 25th, nineteen hundred and three,
at four o'clock,
St. Paul's Church,
Chestnut Hill, Philadelphia.

Of Miss Mock the Salisbury correspondent of the Charlotte Observer says:

Miss Mock is one of Salisbury's most admired young women and the announcement of her engagement six weeks ago was received with the greatest interest. Mr. Eting is a prominent Philadelphia clubman. Miss Mock is now with her sister, Mrs. Frederick Bain, at Chestnut Hill, Philadelphia. Mrs. Mock and Miss Manie Mock will leave for Philadelphia in a few days to attend the wedding. Miss Bessie Henderson, who will be one of the bridesmaids, will leave later.

RECEPTION LAST NIGHT.

In Honor of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. McNeely.

The Sun receives too late for publication, an account of the brilliant reception at Mrs. McNeely's, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. McNeely, married at Minneapolis, Minnesota on Oct. 28.

The reception which was one of the greatest events of its kind, in Salisbury society's history was unique in the number of married ladies in one family present. There were Misses Chalmers G. Hall, (Miss Margaret McNeely); Mrs. W. B. Strachan, (Miss Heorie McNeely); Mrs. V. D. Dixon (Miss Kate McNeely).

The hours from 8:30 to 11:30, were gladsome ones, no finer hostesses than Mrs. McNeely and her daughters.

A more extended account will be printed tomorrow.

"WE HAVE ANOTHER YEAR."

So Says Mr. Jas. Reeves Who Never Fails in Prophecy.

"One catfish does not make a creek, nor one election a nation," said Col. Jim Reeves this morning. "The waves do not make the sea, but the sea furnishes forth the waves. It is very probable that the earth would have not slipped the orbit had Alexander died of cholera infantum, Caesar been drowned in the Rubicon or Cleopatra in Bozard's Bay. There is but one thing that is absolutely certain, and that is that we shall have another year—the almanac and fruit tree agents are with us again. They never fail to bring a new year."

Left For Conference.

H. L. Atkins, who remained in Salisbury to vote and position, left today for the conference. A position was taken to the Bishop of Salisbury.

SALOONS AND DISTILLERIES

BOTH ARE CARRIED.

THE DISTILLERIES RUN BEHIND.

The Vote Yesterday a Surprise to Both Sides Saloons are Retained by 151

Majority and Distilleries Introduced

by 122. Whiskey Men Expected

Greater Majority Prohibitionists

Accept Defeat with Good Spirit

Total Vote.

Yesterday morning at ten o'clock much even money could be had that the license ticket would carry by a 2 to 1 majority. It was known that this was a wild estimate, but there were no takers. It is to the credit of the Prohibitionists that they would not bet on the result.

There were many others (wet sympathizers) who predicted that the majority would not be more than 100. The Prohibitionists who expected their defeat, conceded this claim. The vote was a surprise in many ways. It was expected by some to be very light in spite of the heavy registration, and it was freely predicted that it would be heavier.

Nobody ever knows just how an election will go. It is always safe to take any man's forecast "cum grano salis"—the Choctaw for a sack of salt.

The ladies were there. They were not there ostensibly to persuade men by their tears. They appealed to the heads of men. And they conducted themselves so becomingly as not to repel men but to win their respect. It was broadly hinted during the summer that if such a contingency as yesterday should arise, the women would not be treated as ladies, but as persons who had forfeited their claims to the chivalry of man. But they were treated very considerately. It is said to man's eternal credit.

Well, the election has been held and carried, but the matter has probably not been settled. The courts may yet be called upon to decide it. At present however, the individual part of it is final. The campaign is over and the rest of the trouble will be between the opposing lawyers, men who get paid for other men's ills. The vote was watched by many outsiders, the vote of Salisbury being considered a very tangible evidence of the sentiment throughout the State. In other words, had Salisbury gone dry it is generally believed that soon every town in the State would have followed suit.

Since the closing of the James Lanier distillery, if we do not mistake, there has been no such institution within the corporate limits. Under the provisions of the Watts law, no distillery can be operated without the incorporation. And having voted in distilleries, Salisbury will of course have them. The rancor and bitterness of the campaign have passed and the rest is in the future tense. Since we retain saloons and induce distilleries into our town, may the majesty of the law be upheld and the evils that attend them be minimized to the greatest extent.

Following is the tabulated vote:

WARDS.

For North East South West

Against 89 136 125 97

Majority for saloons 151

For 86 130 113 93

Against 68 68 97 66

MAYOR'S STATEMENT.

REASON FOR ROPING OFF POLLS.

A Distinction to the Ladies, Not a Segregation Merely.

Mayor Boyden said today:

"I have reached my ears that there is much unfavorable criticism of the authorities for the action with reference to surrounding the polling places with ropes. I just want to say this:

When I heard from official sources that the good women of this town intended to be at the polls I determined that to save them from any ungentleness, either purposive or unintentional, to take this action. Men well know the feeling that a campaign of this kind generates. With nothing to prevent an indiscriminate mingling of the voters and workers, in which an innocent collision or an unfortunate stepping upon the foot of a lady, might be construed as an insult to wife, mother or sister, I concluded that the only absolute safety lay in this division. I yield to no man in my deference to womanhood and I feel that to repeat what is well known by every Salisbury man and woman, is unnecessary. But certainly, since the ladies came, and for which action I have had no word of blame, they were entitled to all the consideration of the men and the protection of the law. I should have deemed myself derelict in my duty as mayor of this town, had I not done what the law allows, and for this action I offer no apology."

A LINE OR TWO.

People Who Come and Go, and Local Happenings Condensed.

Col. P. B. Beard went over to Thomasville on 33 this morning.

Mr. G. W. Whitlock went up to High Point yesterday to attend Conference.

Rev. V. R. Stickley, who was here yesterday and last night, returned to Mt. Ulla today.

MASHED HIS TOES OFF

YOUNG ENGLISHMAN IS INJURED.

James Leach an Englishman Tries Unsuccessfully to Board Train

Thursday night, James Leach, a young Englishman, attempted to board No. 19 as it was rapidly pulling out and fell under the wheels, cutting off half of his foot. No one knew Leach, but he told those who who bore him upon the stretcher that he was "boiling" (the colored contraction for hobnob) and that his foot failed to catch the steps.

The wounded man was taken by Dr. Whitehead and carried to the Whitehead-Stokes sanatorium and will be treated there. He was suffering greatly and was not inclined to talk of the accident.

TIME FOR ACTION.

Railroad Man Says He is Losing His Equilibrium.

"Well, I'd be dinged!"

This is the way a railroad man who came in on an early morning train greeted the announcement that the wet and dry campaign would not be pulled off to a finish on the 12th.

"Aint we never going to vote? Why, if this thing keeps up much longer it'll drive me crazy. Both sides are worrying the life out of me. I have been one of two things for the last three months. In my dreams I am either a drunkard or my children are. I start sometimes on a Carle Nation trip to smash every mother's son of a bar room. Then my personal liberty is at stake and I go on the war path for the prohibition crowd. I am dreaming, dreaming, dreaming all the time. If I go that way I shall be sent to the asylum."

ard's grave. If I venture 'tother way I will not have the liberty to breathe. Say, where are we anyway? Aint Salisbury got enough brains to straighten out the tanglements? I could take half a dozen men in the shops at Spencer and settle the thing before you could turn around. I say let's get rid of this business and try and solve the problem of Ann's age."

Child Fatally Burned.

The Statesville correspondent of the Charlotte Observer tells of the misfortune of a Rowan gentleman's child:

The 19 months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Steele, of Rowan county, who was at the home of her grandfather Mr. Mr. Robert Knox, in Cool Spring township, this county, was fatally burned Tuesday morning. Her clothing caught from the fire, and she died three hours later. The child had been left there to wean it from its mother, and would have been taken home the day after the accident happened.

Mr. Lufsey's Drama.

The Blacksmith's Daughter by R. E. Lufsey is receiving most interesting comment. We have not reviewed it yet. The Sun is constantly receiving communications addressed to the "dramatic editor." Now could anything be more comic than that?

A NEW ENTERPRISE.

WILL BE ERECTED AT ONCE.

Buggy, Harness and Wagon Factory to Go Up Here.

Salisbury is fast increasing in its commercial enterprises and within a few days the ground will be broken for the foundation of a new one. Sheriff D. R. Julian is to have the work done and Contractor C. R. Probst will superintend the work.

The scope of this manufactory is quite large and will be one of the most useful in town. Buggies, wagons, phaetons, carriages even down to infantile ones and boys' wagons, will be turned out.

Then there will be a harness department and the best grade of this sort of goods is to be made.

The building will be 50x75 feet with anteniors and other additions necessary to the storage of all incidental stuff.

Beginning Monday, Sheriff Julian will reach the work, through Capt. P. A. rapidly to completion.

The establishment will be situated back of Mr. Thos. Swick's bakery and opposite Ludwick & Black's livery stable. Sheriff Julian asks all those who wish dirt to be there with wagons at 7 o'clock Monday morning.

SPECIAL WOODMAN DEPUTY.

G. F. Wise Takes Position With W. O. W.

Mr. G. F. Wise has resigned his position at the Spencer shops and has signed a contract as special deputy and organizer for the Woodmen of the World. His duty will be to organize new camps, visit the various lodges, and keep them enthused on the subject of woodcraft. His territory is unlimited. Wise is the present agent and much honored Counsel Commander of Hickory Camp No. 49, W. O. W., of this city; is an enthusiastic Woodman, and will take great interest in the work which he has taken up.

JUDGE PRITCHARD TO MARRY.

Miss Saum, of Washington, to be the Bride—Ceremony Tomorrow.

Asheville, N. C., Nov. 12.—It was learned from a reliable source today that Saturday morning at 10 o'clock, in Washington, Judge Jeter C. Pritchard will be married to Miss Lillian Saum, of that city. The bride-to-be is a native of Washington, although her mother was a north Carolinian and her father a Virginian. She is a young society woman, and is both pretty and popular. The marriage will be a very quiet one, and, after the ceremony, the pair will go to New York for a brief wedding tour. Judge Pritchard's duties do not admit of a long absence from Washington.

The Buncombe gentleman who volunteered the information that the South would be solid for Cleveland was doubtless drawing on his imagination to some extent; but it is a fact all the same that there are thousands of people in this part of the country who would be glad of an opportunity to throw up their hats for "Old Grover."

BRIDGE NOT OPENED.

3-YEAR OLD CHILD GETS ACROSS.

Young Explorer Forestalled the Event Last Night.

New York, Nov. 13.—The East River bridge will not have been officially opened until December 19th, but a 3-year-old Brooklyn explorer forestalled the event last night and unattended, made the initial trip across in safety. The child is Albert Franz, who lives on Robling street near the Brooklyn end of bridge. He was restored to his mother at the police station on Delancey street today, having been found this side of the bridge at three o'clock this morning.

Start Out for Fun. It Ends With

Firing by a Policeman. Young Truesdale, the Victim, May Die. The

Policeman Was First Attacked and Retaliated With Gun.

Chicago, Nov. 13.—The first blood shed over the street car strike occurred this morning when Willie Truesdale, aged sixteen, living near Vincennes Avenue car barns, was shot by a policeman. He was taken home and will probably die. Shortly after midnight a crowd of employees of the street car company and boys of the neighborhood secured a light buggy and handcar and began running them out and down the track causing a disturbance. A policeman attempted to stop them, they attacked him and he fired the shot which struck Truesdale. The City Railway company started cars today ridden by the police. The strikers are in an ugly mood and much disorder is attending the strike. The City Railway system is practically paralyzed and trouble is feared later in the day.

HOOPER IS HANGED.

Gov. Durbin Refuses to Reprieve a Son-in-Law Murderer.

Michigan City, Nov. 13.—Edward Hoover, who murdered his father-in-law, Frank Sutton, was hanged here early today, governor Durbin having refused to interpose.

When the Warden's watch indicated the passage of the midnight hour, that official notified the guards, two of whom immediately stepped inside and took Hoover by the arms and buried him up the gallows steps. Another guard quickly adjusted the strap while the first two placed the straps about his ankles. The guards stepped back and the warden gave the signal, Hoover shot into space and was immediately killed.

SPILING FOR A SCRAP.

Rowdies in Colombia are Wanting to Get Licked.

Colon, Nov. 13.—There is more excitement here this morning than usual. The feeling against the United States is especially among the lower classes. The better class of residents are indignant over the demonstrations which are growing more frequent among the rowdies. The United States consulate is being closely guarded. Further than the attack yesterday, the attempt is not expected.
