may result from their injuries A body which was identified arranged: early Sunday morning as that of D. S. Fox, of Birmingham, Ala., and sent to that city, was returned here today, accompanied by two brothers of Mr. Fox. The body supposed to have been that of D. S. Fox turned out to be that of J. M. Daly, of Detroit, Mich., who traveled Tennessee and Kentucky for D. M. Ferry & Company. The brothers of Mr. Fox went to the morgue and identified a body there as that of their brother. The mistake must have been made by searchers at the wreck, who put Mr. Fox's papers in the pocket of the Daly body. Mr. Fox's remains were shipped to Birmingham tonight.

No less than twelve funerals of victims of the wreck were held in this city today. One was a double funeral, where two aged sisters were buried; at another, mother and daughter were buried, and still another service was said for a mother and her two little children.

Many of the leading officials of the Southern are still here and will remain until all damages can be settled so fir as possible. Today at the scene of disaster, a huge bonfire was built, and the mass of kindling wood was turned, together with small pieces of decayed

Of the list of 62 dead, only five Lodies now remain to be identified. Four are white men and one colored. Three will probably have to be buried in nameless graves. Two of the white men may be traced. One wears a Masonic badge and has the initials "G. B." on his linen. The only means of identification of their body is through his watch, made by A. C. Kolbuch, Works Number 13014
