"Something entirely new has been placed on the Overland Limited trains. It is a composite-observation' car. It affords women passengers an opportunity of enjoying the scenery with the greatest comfort and free from the fumes of tobacco smoke. Throughout the car there has been placed a series of steel arches, which bind sills and sides together and strengthen the roof in a manner which renders the car almost indestructible."—Chicago Chronicle.

Sherlock Holmes' Chum

If there can be any doubt of the effect on the imagination of the Sherlock Holmes adventures this quotation from "Table Talk" in the Buffalo Commercial of May 2 will remove it:

"The American publishers of 'The Return of Sherlock Holmes' received a letter the other day from a small town in Pennsylvania making some inquiries that show how realistic these stories are. The writer says:

"One story gave a description of Horace Harker, in whose house a man had been murdered in London. I am much interested in the Harker family and would be awfully glad if I could get in correspondence with some of the Harker family in England. My father's mother was a Harker who came to this country with her parents when she was quite young. Do you think if I should write to Dr. Watson in London, who seems to have been Mr. Holmes' confident companion, that he would answer my letter and try to place me in communication with some one? Can you give me Dr. Watson's address in London?"
