

DR. TALMAGE'S SERMON

The Eminent Divine's Sunday Discourse.

Subject: "Brilliant Bitterness"—Attila the Hun. "A Type of the Wormwood Men Who Live in Revelation."

Text: "There fell a great star from heaven, burning as it were a lamp, and it fell upon the third part of the rivers, and the fourth part of the fountains of waters, and the name of the star is called Wormwood."—Revelation 8, 11.

Patrick and Lovth, Thomas Scott, Matthew Henry, Albert Barnes and some other commentators say that the star Wormwood of my text was a type of Attila, king of the Huns.

At the head of 700,000 troops, mounted on Cappadocian horses, he swept everything from the Adriatic to the Black Sea. He put his iron heel on Macedonia, Greece and Thrace.

It was a common saying that the grass never grew where he had trod. His armies reddened the waters of the Seine and the Moselle and the Rhine with carnage and blood.

The Roman empire conquered the world, but Attila conquered the Roman empire. He was right in calling himself "the scourge of God" but instead of being "the scourge of God" he was the scourge of hell.

Because of his brilliant and bitterness, the commentators might well have supposed him to be the star Wormwood of the text. As the regions he devastated reports most of our modern wars.

Do you seed and grow from the thrones paternal or maternal? Are your children everlastingly perishing as it were, always crying "Hush!" to the merry voices, the swift feet, and to the laughter, which occasionally trickles through at wrong times, and is suppressed by them until they can hold it no longer, and all the barriers burst into unlimited guffaw and cabination, as in high weather the water has trickled through a slight opening in the milldam, but afterward makes wider and wider breach until it carries all before it with irresistible freighting.

But I will change this and suppose you are a star of worldly prosperity. Then you have large opportunity. You can encourage that artist by buying his picture. You can improve the fields, the stables, the highway, by introducing higher style of fowl and horse and cow and sheep.

GOVERNOR OFFERS REWARD FOR PERPETRATORS OF THE PALMETTO, GA., HORROR.

FURTHER DETAILS OF THE AFFAIR

Eye-Witnesses Say the Negroes Were Shot Down Like Dogs and Were Shown No Mercy.

Governor Candler, of Georgia, took prompt action in the endeavor to bring the perpetrators of the Palmetto lynching to justice by issuing the following proclamation.

Whereas, official information has been received at this department that on the night of March 15, 1899, an unknown mob foully murdered Henry Bingham, colored, Tip Hudson, colored, Ed Brown, colored, and Bud Cotton, colored, while said parties were incarcerated and well guarded awaiting a committal trial upon the charge of arson, in the county of Campbell.

I have thought proper, therefore, to issue this my proclamation hereby offering a reward of five hundred dollars for the apprehension and delivery of the first member of said unknown mob and a further reward of one hundred dollars for each additional person so implicated, with evidence sufficient to convict, to the sheriff of said county and state.

And I do moreover charge and require all officers in this state, civil and military, to be vigilant in endeavoring to apprehend the said members of the unknown mob in order that they may be brought to trial for the offense with which they stand charged.

Further details of the deplorable affair show that it was one of horror. The negroes killed were: Tip Hudson, Bud Cotton, Ed Wynne and Henry Bingham. John Bight was fatally shot; John Jameson, shot, but will recover; George Tatum, arm broken; Leon Brown and Clem Watts escaped without injury.

The men who were guarding the negroes are well known and prominent citizens of Palmetto, and were sworn in only Wednesday as special guard for the night.

They were placed in line against the front wall of the building and ordered not to move at the cost of their lives. They did not speak, neither did they move, and not a word was said by the guard to the mob.

MANY KILLED IN HOTEL FIRE

THE WINDSOR, NEW YORK, A VERITABLE DEATH TRAP.

ELEVEN DEAD BODIES RECOVERED

Half a Hundred Guests Were Injured While a Large Number Are Missing.

A new York special says: Flames which originated from the igniting of a lace curtain burst forth from the second floor of the Windsor hotel, at Forty-seventh street and Fifth avenue, shortly after 3 o'clock Friday afternoon, just as the St. Patrick's day parade was passing the building, and in a few moments they had leaped up to the roof and enveloped the entire Fifth avenue and Forty-seventh street fronts of the hotel.

Ten minutes later the flames were roaring through the interior of the hotel, and all escape by means of stairways and elevators was cut off. There was the wildest scene of excitement within and without the building.

Probably from ten to fifteen lives were lost within half an hour, and thirty or forty persons were injured in jumping from windows and in rushing through the roaring flames in the corridors and on the stairways.

Many who were injured died later at nearby residences and at hospitals, and others who made wild leaps to the stone sidewalk were so badly injured that they are still hovering between life and death.

WOMAN ELECTROCUTED.

Mrs. Martha Place Pays Penalty For the Murder of Her Stepdughter.

Mrs. Martha Place, of Brooklyn, N. Y., was electrocuted at Sing Sing prison Monday for the murder of her stepdaughter, Ida Place.

She made no scene. The first shock lasted four seconds. The voltage was 1,760. It was then reduced to 300 five or six seconds. A second shock was then given.

Mrs. Place went calmly to the chair. She leaned on Warden Sage's arm. Her eyes were closed and she seemed neither to see nor hear. She murmured a prayer.

Mrs. Place was calm beyond expectation. No one has walked into the death chamber as serenely as she. Death came with less struggle than was ever witnessed before. Death was instantaneous.

The electrocution was fastened in a moment; another was placed over her thick light hair, turning gray, a small circle of which had been cut away. The straps were adjusted over her face and a pad over the forehead.

In her hand Mrs. Place carried a prayer book, and when the shock came she gripped it tightly. The other held fast to the chair handle. The woman's mouth merely closed; the face was a trifle livid. Her pulse ceased to beat within a minute.

The crime for which Mrs. Place suffered the death penalty was an atrocious one. She killed her stepdaughter, Ida Place, at their home, 598 Hancock street, Brooklyn, on February 7, 1897.

Probably from ten to fifteen lives were lost within half an hour, and thirty or forty persons were injured in jumping from windows and in rushing through the roaring flames in the corridors and on the stairways.

Many who were injured died later at nearby residences and at hospitals, and others who made wild leaps to the stone sidewalk were so badly injured that they are still hovering between life and death.

McKINLEY AT JEKY ISLAND

PRESIDENT AND SPEAKER REED MEET AT THE DOCK.

THEIR SALUTATIONS WERE CORDIAL

The Presidential Party Embarked at Brunswick—Greetings Accorded at Valdosta.

For the first time in the history of Brunswick, Ga., a nation's president arrived within her corporate borders and was seen by her citizens Monday.

A special train bearing the presidential party arrived in the city over the Plant system from Thomasville.

Those on the train were President and Mrs. William McKinley, Vice President and Mrs. Garrett A. Hobart, Senator Mark Hanna, Assistant Secretary Cortelyou. The train stopped at the Southern freight depot, where an immense crowd had assembled.

According to an expressed desire on the part of the chief executive there was no demonstration, but the surging mass of humanity who had assembled to see the nation's chieftain gave the police much trouble to keep them in check.

The run of the presidential train from Thomasville to Brunswick was rapid and without incident. The only stop was at Valdosta, where there was quite a crowd.

Among the first vessels to fly their colors in honor of the nation's chief executive were three Spanish barkes. The office of the Spanish vice consul was also decorated.

Boarding the revenue cutter Colfax the party got under way headed for that painful home of moneyed men, Jekyll Island. Here great preparations had been made for their reception and everybody was down to greet the new guests.

The apparently hearty greeting which Speaker Reed extended to President McKinley upon the arrival of the presidential party at Jekyll was one of the features of visit of the party.

"How do you do, Mr. President," was his cordial greeting as he met the party immediately after the disembarkation.

"How do you do, Mr. Speaker," was the president's hearty response.

The big speaker's attitude was characteristic, his hands behind his back and his head thrown back and upward. When the president walked ashore Mr. Reed smilingly raised his hat and he and the president exchanged salutations as above noted.

The president and Mrs. McKinley entered a carriage and drove away and the speaker strolled off with a pretty girl.

Several hundred men are delving in the debris. They have brought to light many of the personal effects of the guests. It was thought that Monday's work would reveal many bodies, and the disappointing result has led to a revision of estimates of the number of dead still entombed by the piles of brick.

A Birmingham, Ala., dispatch says: Wednesday's wind and rain storm was the severest ever known in this section outside of death-dealing cyclones. The record of losses in the little suburb of Arvadale, on the west of the city, will amount to at least $20,000, and probably a great deal more. Some of the escapes were simply marvelous.

Several occupants of the hotel appeared at the windows of the sixth and seventh stories, and even on the roof, and leaped to the streets from those points.

Many who were injured died later at nearby residences and at hospitals, and others who made wild leaps to the stone sidewalk were so badly injured that they are still hovering between life and death.
