

A NARROW ESCAPE.
Thankful words written by Mrs. Ad. E. Hart, of Greensboro, N. C., were taken with a bad cold which settled on my lungs, cough set in and finally terminated in Consumption. Four Doctors gave me up saying I could live but a short time. I gave myself up to my Savior, determined if I could not stay with my friends on earth, I would meet my absent ones above. My husband was advised to get Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption Coughs and Colds. I gave it a trial, took in all eight bottles. It cured me, and thank God I am saved and now a well and healthy woman. "Trial bottles free at Theo. F. Klutz & Co.'s drug store. Regular size 50c and $1.00. Guaranteed or price refunded."

WEDNESDAY, OCT. 11.

That little daily paper up at Statesville—the Reporter, is an uncommonly good one for its size, and seems to have the qualities of a stayer.

The North Carolina State Fair opens at Raleigh next Monday, and the indications are for a large attendance. The fair promises to be a "way-up show" with many high class attractions.

And now the scheme is to get Schley for a running mate with Bryan on the national democratic ticket. That combination would give McKinley many a sleepless night during the campaign.

Bryan and McKinley met at Canton, Illinois, the other day, each on a speech making tour in opposition to the other, and Mack shook hands with Billy as cordially as though he recognized in him a long lost brother. It is not improbable that Mack will shake hands with him again on a certain 4th of March when he will say "Mr. President," instead of "Mr. Bryan."

There doesn't seem to be, as yet, much visible popular interest in Salisbury over the election on Oct. 30th to settle the question of a bond issue of $100,000 by the city to purchase public improvements. But doubtless our taxpayers are doing the necessary thinking and will vote wisely at the proper time.

Atlanta's usual good luck follows hard upon her enterprise and audacity, and she has secured what Chicago tried in vain to get. Admiral Dewey has agreed to visit that city next month and present to his flag lieutenant, Tom Brumby, the sword which the people of Georgia, his native state, have had made for him.

The Stanly Enterprise refuses to join the chorus that shouts for Col. Carr for the United States senate. In its last issue that paper curtly dismisses the colonel's senatorial aspirations with the following paragraph: "Col. Julian S. Carr has announced that he is in the race for the Senate to succeed Marion Butler. The statement so far has elicited very little comment, and it is to be hoped the Democratic party will not treat the announcement seriously."

Marion Butler, who will soon cease to be a factor of much consequence in North Carolina politics, has declared against the constitutional amendment. As Marion in his official capacity is one of the most conspicuous products of bad government in North Carolina, it would have been ingratitude to the agencies that made him if he had taken any other position. His hostility to the amendment ought to materially increase its chances for success.

Our neighboring city of Concord is just now rejoicing in a season of much prosperity, and we are glad to know it. We are especially glad to know that the "bucket shop" industry in that city didn't live long enough to do the prodigious harm it would inevitably have done had it become a permanent institution. There are hundreds of men in the South today, with broken hopes and shrunken fortunes, who would have been rich by legitimate methods, but for the insidious influence of the treacherous bucket shop.

The Charlotte Observer thinks that Dewey is a shattered idol because he didn't refuse that house and lot offered him in Washington City, but, on the contrary, very promptly and cheerfully accepted it. To our thinking it would have been both absurd and offensive on his part to have refused it. More than 40,000 American citizens contributed to the fund for the popular hero, and we have not yet heard nor can we imagine any good reason why he should decline this spontaneous tribute of regard from his fellow citizens. Receiving the gift places him under obligations to no party, no section, no faction or clique, and leaves him as independent and unembarrassed in his personal and official relations as he was before.

Rev. Junius Mobley, a negro minister of prominence in South Carolina, made a very sensible remark the other day when he said that the white republican leaders were standing between his race and the Southern whites. The alienation of the Southern negroes from their natural friends and allies, the Southern whites, is responsible for the worst phases of the negro problem, and the white republican leaders, both North and South, are responsible for that alienation. We wish Bro. Mobley abundant success in his purpose to have a convention of South Carolina negroes in Columbia next month to devise means to "shake" these false friends and leaders, who have been "working" the black man ever since the war for their own selfish purposes.

President McKinley, while making a speech at McComb, Illinois, the other day, threw this pretty and fragrant bouquet at the South: "No more splendid exhibition of patriotism was ever shown than was shown a few days ago in the distant Philippines. That Tennessee regiment from our Southern border that has been absent from home and family and friends for more than a year, was embarked on the good ship, Sherman, homeward bound. When the enemy attacked our forces remaining near Cebru, these magnificent soldiers disembarked from their ship and joined their commands on the firing line and achieved a glorious triumph for American arms. That is an example of patriotism that should be an inspiration to duty, to all of us in every part of our common country."

It is reported that the insatiable Trust, having swallowed pretty much everything else in sight in this country, has now fixed its evil eye on the Southern cotton mills, jealous of their remarkable prosperity, and will seek to "assimilate" them after the manner of the boa constrictor assimilating the rabbit. The Lord forbid! Owned by home capital and under home management, these mills are doing more to lift the South out of hard times in-ly prosperity than nearly all other causes combined; but once in the belly of the Trust, with headquarters in Boston or New York, our great cotton milling industry, now just beginning to realize its vast potentialities, will have voluntarily shackled itself and delivered itself helpless to aliens, if not enemies. The Trust cares nothing about the development of the South nor the prosperity of the Southern people, and if it is permitted to absorb the Southern mills they will be worked or shut down as the dominant New England milling interest may decide. We are glad to see that Gen. Carr, a large stockholder in many of these mills, is against the proposed trust, and we hope his views will prevail.

Where is the army of the unemployed? There is not a laborer in this whole section who goes begging for work. There is employment for every brick-worker from the greenest hod-carrier to the finest mason, and from the roughest carpenter to the finest artisan in wood work. Farm laborers are in demand, and the laborer who is without employment now has no one to blame but himself. What are the calamity howlers going to do about such a state of affairs? How about what hard times we are to have in the future, we suppose.—Monroe Enquirer.

Gen. Carr Announces for the Senate.
Richmond Times.
"Yes, I am a candidate for the Senate to succeed Butler, and am in the race to win," said Gen. Julian S. Carr, of North Carolina, at the Jefferson last night. "I have some good men against me," he continued; "there's F. M. Simmons, chairman of our state democratic committee, and a thorough-going, astute politician; ex-Governor Jarvis, twice governor of North Carolina, and a former senator, and Mayor A. M. Wad-ell, of Wilmington, who has also served in Congress, and whose part in the late troubles gives him a good place in the hearts of the white people."
"If I win I shall feel that I have been greatly complimented, for all of the other aspirants are high-toned, Christian gentlemen, who stand well with the people."
"Our campaign will not be characterized by a display of acrimonious feeling—certainly so far as I am concerned. My opponents are my personal friends."
Colonel Carr felt confident that he could win in a contest before the people, but he was not so sure the opportunity would present itself for such an expression of the popular will.

A traveling man named E. J. Ferguson, who lived in Wilson, shot himself fatally at Kinston last week. He left a letter to his wife saying that he committed suicide because he had violated his pledge to her and commenced drinking again.

Editor Bivens, of the Stanly Enterprise, announces in the last issue of his paper that he will at once begin the practice of law. He will, however, continue the publication of the Enterprise.

Raleigh makes a good educational showing this year. There are 4,500 students in the public and private schools of that city.

Splenic fever is playing havoc with the cattle of Halifax county. One farmer lost 43 out of a herd of 290.

The Wilmington city council has demoralized the bike riders by passing an ordinance prohibiting cyclists from riding on the sidewalks anywhere in the city.

George Lee, colored, is in jail at Raleigh, charged with causing the death of his sister, Julia Hobby by administering poison to her.

On Friday night of last week at a distillery three miles from Greensboro, Ben Wilkinson, white, got into a row with Ben Jennings, also white, and shot him through the side. Wilkinson is in jail and Jennings is about to die. Both parties were drinking when the shooting occurred.

A Winston negro who enlisted in the army at the recruiting station in Greensboro a few days ago, was arrested on the advice of Winston officers and is now confined in Forsyth's jail. It seems that he was out on bond and conceived the idea of enlisting in the army in order to escape punishment.

R. B. Crawford informed the Charlotte Observer of the following odd incident that happened in Winston one day last week: A plumber walked into the store of B. B. Crawford & Co., and asked that some one take him to the lockup. Evidently he had been drinking heavily and he was very nervous. Quite seriously he said that if he was not confined he would murder somebody before night. Not that he had enmity against anyone, he declared, but that he was afraid of himself—of the nervous instinct to kill. He was taken to jail and confined. He further requested that he be denied meat and drink for 72 hours. It is certain that he was "dotty" in the head; but a Bengal tiger may be a safer animal than a man with a homicidal mania who is acting as a peace-maker for delirium tremens.

STATE NEWS.
H. M. Hockett, of Guilford county, had a stalk of corn on his farm this season that measured fourteen feet to the tassel. It had two good ears of corn, the first one ten and a half feet from the ground.

The debt of $8,303.33 on Trinity church has been lifted and the members now feel that they are at home in the fullest sense of the term. A special effort was made by the members and after having raised all that seemed possible, Gen. Julian S. Carr, who has contributed more to ward the building than the balance of the whole membership perhaps, contributed an amount sufficient to pay the last dollar of the indebtedness.—Durham Herald.

To promote the study of North Carolina history and to encourage our making a home literature, Gen. Julian S. Carr has offered a prize of $100 for the best compend or epitome of any decade of our State's history within the period embraced between the years 1782 and 1882. The contest is open to any resident North Carolinian. No more than fifty will be allowed to enter, and these will be the first who apply. The sketches must not exceed twenty-five pages—400 words to the page. They should be written in simple, direct and logical style, for style as well as facts will count in the contest—the purpose being to cultivate both a literary and historical spirit. The sketch winning the prize, and some of the best of the others, also, may be published. At the request of Gen. Carr the North Carolina Publishing Society, of Raleigh, will take charge of the contest, and all communications must be addressed to them.

The manager of the Tom Thumb railroad, on which is the smallest train of cars and engine actually drawing passengers anywhere in the world, writes to the management of the State fair at Raleigh that he will arrive next week to lay his track on the fair ground. His cars take two passengers each, who face each other. The engine is a little beauty and a great curiosity.

The new military instructor at the North Carolina College of Agriculture and Mechanical Arts will be Capt. Edwin L. Fletcher, a retired army officer now living in Virginia. Capt. Fletcher is a native of New York State. He entered West Point in 1868, and was retired as captain in 1895 for physical disability. He served on the frontier, and in early life served in the Franco-Prussian war, his father at that time being in the diplomatic service in Europe, as secretary of legation.

The Greensboro correspondent of the Charlotte Observer tells this rather good one: "From this section of country there has been imprisoned in a Federal prison for two years a man convicted of blockading. His term expires very shortly. Yesterday his son received a letter from him, in which the old man stated he would be home soon and he wanted everything in readiness against the time of his arrival. 'With all my distillin' things out and ready, for I don't want to lose no time gettin' to work,' he wrote. 'I was wasted a lot of time here.'" he added. And then the letter went on to explain that worms and pipes and other paraphernalia could be found under the barn, "down at the creek," and in the "left hand corner of the garden."

The Southern Railway Company has a pile of slag on the line of its road, in this county, near the Catawba river. On last Saturday night a piece of this slag, weighing about 100 pounds, and measuring 39 inches long, was placed across the rail, and also seven other pieces, at short distances apart, were placed on the track. A citizen of that section happened to pass along about 15 minutes before the morning vestibule was due and removed the obstructions in time to prevent a wreck. A detective was put to work on the case, and a warrant was sworn out Tuesday for Charley Black, a young negro of the Lodo neighborhood. He was taken before Squire H. D. Stowe that night for a preliminary hearing. He made a full confession, and was committed to jail to await trial at the next term of the Criminal Court.—Charlotte Observer.

DO YOU GET YOUR MONEY'S WORTH?
If you do not, whose fault is it? You can't get your money's worth of rubbish and shoddy stock, because there is no worth in it.

DOES QUALITY COUNT!
Some folks claim that it is cheap "shoddy" goods (bargains) that count and wins the trade. We antagonize such statements and argue that good quality and low prices combined constitute a bargain.

It has always been our aim and honest effort to sell the quality of merchandise at the least possible profit. We refund money on all merchandise except cut goods and ask no questions.

FALL AND WINTER GOODS
are continually arriving—in a few more days our entire stock will be in an opened for your inspection.

Ladies' fine shoes, the best ever offered for 50 cts. Men's fine shoes 75 cts. The best $1.25 plow shoe ever shown in Salisbury. Men's socks 10 cent grade for 6 cts. Men's heavy under-birds 10 cents, a regular hammer. Ladies' heavy under-birds 10 cents, can't be equalled. Ladies' hose black and grey, good values, 5 cents. Red flannel 10 cents per yard. Dress Plaids 5 cents, outing, good quality all colors 5 cents, calico 2 1/2 cents.

These are only a few items mentioned for your benefit. We are too busy opening and arranging new goods to give all the details and prices of our Mammoth FALL and WINTER stock of Dry Goods, Notions, Shoes Hats, Caps, Ladies' and Gents' furnishing goods, Carpets, Matting, Rugs, Crockery, Glassware, Tinware, Stationery, etc.

We will greet you with a more lengthy and complete description of these goods in a very short time, but better still, call to see us and allow us to show you through our place of business—you can feel assured of courteous treatment and honest dealings.

You can choose with satisfaction here, but hurry or you will get behind the crowd. First come first served at
