The report showed that in the Mr. W. A. Lupton, who has city of Salisbury there are 1152 white and 609 colored children of school age, making total of of 1761. In thecounty there are 10,627children of school age, a very substantial increase over the number reported in the last school census. Several districts have not yet reported but is thought that this number is approximately correct.

Rev. V. R. Stickley, of Enochville, was elected a member of the board of education to succeed Hon John S. Henderson, resigned. This is an excellent selection, as Rev. Stickley has always been deeply interested in matters educational.

The books of the treasurer were examined and, as usual, found correct.

Will Hinson, who shot and killed Frank Swaringen, was given a preliminary hearing here last Thursday. Bennett & Bennett appeared for Hinson, Austin & Smith for the prosecution. Hinon was bound over to court and held without bail until the December term, when he will be tried.

Spark's show struck the town Saturday. Hard times seem to have fled to judge by the patronage it received. Not only the farmers but the town people as well are rejoicing to see the rain today. Albemarle has been dependent upon the artesian well at the Wiscassett mills for its water supply for some time. We now hope to see enough rain fall to fill our wells again. The town authorities are considering the advisability of sinking a well and furnishing the town with water. It would be much better than to wait and grant a franchise to some corporation. The town needs water and water works for protection against fire.

Rev. J. A. Clarke, of Norwood, is here assisting Rev. Mr. Richardson in a meeting at the Methodist church. The services will be continued for several days.

Miss Gill Leaves.

Miss Jem Gill left yesterday morning for Raleigh, where with her mother, she will reside in the future. Miss Gill has a host of admiring friends in Salisbury al of whom will hear of her departure with regret.

Mr. McNeely Resigns.

Mr. C. P. McNeely, who leaves shortly for Mooresville, has tendered his resignation as secretary of the Old Hickory Club and a meeting of the club will be held shortly to elect his successor.

(Correspondence Truth-Index.)

Springfield, O., Oct., 8-At the city hall here last evening there was a windy Republican demonstration and rally.

But the only thing of interest to North Carolinians about this is the fact that Representative Romulus Z. Linney, of said State, took an active part in the rally. That is, he performed the chief Election of officers for ensuing gymnastic feats of the evening. In his long, vain endeavor to address the people his thick heavy arms beat ruthlessly against the sultry atmosphere. He reminded one of the old Methodist darkey who was in the habit of shouting every time he went to church. Linney has gesturing down to per-Gf course the good women lant Col Chas F Fisher, who gave of North Carolina will consider the source.

Then fell from his lips a lengthy eulogy of Ohio. This would porbably fill 200 pages of printed matter of book size. The audience This play will be free to only slept while he was reciting this.

From this he passed to a eulogy of Lincoln. "Lincoln," he said. 'was to the American people what the light-house is to the poor lost sailor."

Suddenly he left Lincoln and recited the old story he once heard from a Baptist preacher which ended thus: "In time of peace the democrats are hell for war, in time of war they are hell for peace."

He said that McKinly would carry North Carolina by at least 25,000 majority, but that the democrats had already counted him out by 50,000.

He ended by shouting that he regarded Bryan as "the bloodless eipher."

Linney evidently left a bad impression upon the people here as to his ability as a campainer.
