CURRENT COMMENT.

There's one consolation, the reult of the election entirely exonerates the Democratic party for the next few years.—Little Morocco had better fork over at once and look plesant about it. Whenever Uncle Sam draws a battleship on debtor it is the p.d.q. sign.— If the administration could manage to keep General Otis from making any more predictions we might be in a fair way to suppress that Filipino insurrection. —- The election of two Republican congressmen in North Carolina seems to be in utter defiance of the constitution of that state as recently amended.—Atlanta Journal.

Another four years of McKinley prosperity! We'll see how h causes rain to fall, cetton and grain to grow in the meantime, and give him credit for all the good that befalls our lot. Our voters are usually ready to acknowledge these supernatural qualifications in the president .-Stanly Enterprise.

Nobody or no newspaper has ever hit off President McKinley more accurately and more cleverly than The London Spectator, which closes an editorial on the American election last week with a reference to the successful candidate as "genuinely concientious man, who, seated in Pilate's judgment chair, would have reverently awaited the verdict of the people and have decided for Barabus." English ignorance of American political affairs and public men is proverbial, but no American citizen could have sized up our President more correctly than has been done by this London editor .-Charlotte Observer.

A Tribute to Religion.

The following tribute to religion was made by James Russell Lowell at a banquet in London. Some slighting remarks had been made against Christianity, and in his speech, Mr. Lowell, among other things, alluded to these. We quote from an excerpt furnished the Literary Digest.

no religion at all, and these men

living in ease and luxury, indulging themselves in the amusement of going without religion, may be thankful that they live in lands where the gospel they neglect has tamed the beastliness and ferocity of the men who, but for Christianity, might long ago have eaten their carcasses like the South Sea Islanders, or cut off their heads and tanned their hides like the monsters of the French Revolution When the microscope of skepticism, which had hunted the heavens and sounded the seas to disprove the existence of a Creator, has turned its attention to human society and has found a place on this planet ten miles square where a decent man can live in comfort and security, supporting and educating his children unspoiled and unpolluted; a place where age is reverenced, infancy respected, womanhood honored, and human life held in due regard-when skeptics can find such a place ten miles square on this globe, where the gospel of Christ has not gone and cleared the way and laid the foundation and made decency and security possible, it Eczema?
