An Indian Christian Endeavor Society.

It will be ten years this February since the first Indian Christian Endeavor society was organized in the Santee Normal Training School, at Santee, Neb.

This year at Santee the Young People's Society includes twenty one of the Indian pupils with three or four of the teachers, and there are two Junior societies, one of girls and one of boys. There is a mothers' society, which was started three or four years ago among the women of the mission church. These societies have an important place in the Indian mission work.

During the ten years one hundred and thirty-two young people have joined. They have come from eighteen different agencies, and in several cases from more than one village in the agency. Out of this one hundred and thirty-two, twenty-three have been engaged since leaving school in direct missionary work, most of them as preachers and teachers of day schools. Some of these have done excellent work, and those of whom this is true are nearly always those who are most faithful and active, during their school course, in the Christian Endeavor society.

Three other societies have been started among the Indians, where the leaders were chiefly from those who had been members at Santee.

The Junior work at Santee has been especially encouraging among the girls, who are more responsive than the boys.

In the monthly meetings of the Mothers' Society of Christian Endeavor many questions are asked and answered concerning the care and training of children, and the children are remembered in prayer.

One thing, at least, these Christian Endeavor societies have done. They have emphasized the idea of ENDEAVOR AND SERVICE. It expresses itself in the use of an old world a thousand times where it was used once before. The name in Dakota means "the society of those who want to work for Jesus," and "working for Jesus," has become a prominent thought in all their religious life.

The Endeavor society proves, therefore among the Indian boys and girls and young people just what it does every where else. It gives them larger views of the kingdom of God, it stimulates them to greater sacrifice in giving of their means to the spread of this kingdom, and awakens within them a deeper spiritual earnestness.

The life of a Christian Endeavorer, wherever that life may be spent, cannot be a narrow, selfish life, if loyal to the great Christian Endeavor idea.

Pictures in the School-Room.

The value of pictures can hardly be overestimated. I bought of Mr. Perry 150 pictures and kept them in a box in my desk. I have loaned them out to be carried home and brought back the next day; then I let some of the older pupils take them for the day; then I give explanations about them. They never seem to tire of looking at the photographs of old pictures; they understand them much better than we think. I ask them, "Could you make a picture of a fox like that?" Then I tell them of the careful study required; then I speak of the pleasure a man can give if he can do a thing well.—ETTA LAMBERTON in Practical Teacher.

Robbed The Grave.

A startling incident is narrated by John Oliver, of Philadelphia, as follows: "I was in an awful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eye sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides, no appetite, growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Then I was advised to use Electric Bitters; to my great joy, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks, and am a well man. I know they robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 60 cents guaranteed, at Theo. F. Klutz & Co.'s drug store.
