The dog must go!

S. H. Hearne, of Albemarle, was here today.

W. C. Lindsay returned from Gold Hill this morning.

This has been a most lovely day, being surpassed by none this year.

A performing bear is attracting attention on the streets this afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Gorman returned to the city from their bridal tour yesterday.

There will be a drill of the Uniform Rank, Knights of Pythias, at the brick warehouse tonight.

There were fair breaks at both of the tobacco warehouses today. Prices continue to hold up well and give satisfaction.

This is one of those dull, dry days, in which nothing has happened and where nothing can be found to write about.

The House has passed a bill fixing the State tax as follows: General tax, 20 cents; school tax 15 cents; pension tax, 3 cents.

Mrs. V. H. Whichard and Miss Ora Whichard, of Greenville, N. C., mother and sister of the HERALD scribe, are visiting his family.

Levi Pearson, colored, was taken to the penitentiary this morning to serve out a sentence of 8 years for stealing money from the safe of Mr. Jno. L. Boyden.

Mr. R. E. Miller, the Wheeler Wall Paper man, is in town. Ladies and gentlemen are invited to call tomorrow at M. C. Quinn's store and see his fine display of samples.

Mr. J. Q. Foreman, who has been doing a mercantile business on the corner of Lee and Kerr streets, has sold out to Maj. N. R. Windsor. Mr. Foreman has not yet decided as to what he will do.

The first number of the Tar Heel, the new weekly of the University of North Carolina, was received this morning. It is a neat four column, four page sheet, published under the auspices of the University Athletic Club. The name of Walter Murphy, of this city, appears second in the list of editors.

The House branch of the General Assembly acted nobly yesterday and have earned the thanks of the people of the State, by passing almost unanimously a bill appropriating $10,000 to erect in Raleigh a monument to the Confederate soldiers of North Carolina. The debate on the bill was interesting and patriotic speeches were made.

There was another mad dog scare in town this morning. The dog of Dr. F. J. Murdoch had gone mad and was trying to bite everything in its way. After an exciting chase the dog was finally killed in West Point. We understand that several other dogs were bitten by the rabid animal. Kill every one of them at once, together with all others of a suspicious character.

Smoke Cubanolas.

Just received a fine lot of Irish and Sweet potatoes, also fresh cocoanut and taffy at
A. PARKER'S.

The Court.

The HERALD yesterday noted the adjournment of court but failed to give a report of the final work done. This is given below:

The case of Baxter Roberts, who fled when the jury turned their verdict against him was continued. An alias capias was ordered issued with instructions to require a justified bond of $250 when captured.

Walter Hess, a & b, submission, judgment suspended on payment of costs.

Lee Fleming, larceny, guilty, judgment suspended on payment of costs.

James Sharpe, larceny, submission, 3 months on public roads.

Angeline Goodman, larceny, nol pros.

Reuben Summer, John Summer and Clint Henderson, affray, submission, judgment suspended on payment of costs.

Charles Miller, Charles Mowery, Homer Miller and Walter Hess, a & b, nol pros as to Homer Miller, Charles Mowery not guilty, others submit; judgment suspended on payment of costs.

Judgment was asked in the case of James Mowery, Charles Miller and Walter Hess, convicted of assault and battery in a previous case. Mowery and Miller were fined $50 and to pay all costs in the three cases. Of the fine $15 was ordered paid to M. C. Torrence for doctor's bill and lost time, the other $35 to be paid to school fund. Hess was sentenced to 60 days on public roads.

Report of Grand Jury.

To Hon. R. W. Winston, Judge of the Superior Court, Rowan county, February term 1893:

We the grand jurors of Rowan county, would respectfully report that we have disposed of all business before us. We sent a committee to the county home. They report everything in good condition so far as they could see and learn. We visited the county jail and find it clean and in good order. Also inspected the offices of Clerk Superior Court, Sheriff, Register of Deeds, County Treasurer, &c., and find that each office is properly kept and the books and papers in good condition. We would recommend that a good substantial iron fence be put around the court house and jail for the safe keeping and protection of the property. Also insist that water closets be put in a private place in the court house for the convenience of the public while attending court, which will be an easy matter to connect the sewerage with the one already leading from the jail.

P. H. THOMPSON,
Foreman.

The above report was spread upon the minutes of the court and an order made that a copy be furnished to the chairman of the board of county commissioners with instructions to make the improvements recommended by the May term.

The first issue of our neighbor, the Watchman, under its new management, appeared yesterday. There is a vast improvement in the print and typographical appearance, and the elevation in its character is gratifying. The HERALD is indeed glad to note this change and wishes for its contemporary a full measure of success.

Just received a beautiful line of new neckwear. We are also ready to show the most complete and stylish line of samples for custom suits. Prices and fit guaranteed.
M. S. BROWN.

China &c. at cost. Going away. Have your picture taken. Morgan.

WESTON R. GALES

Will Conduct a Union Evangelistic Service in this City.

Most of our people have heard this earnest and interesting worker, and consequently will be much gratified when they read this announcement. Mr. Gales is the assistant State Secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association of North Carolina, and comes under the auspices and in the interest of the local Association at this point. The various pastors of this city have agreed to co-operate in the work, and at a called meeting of the ministers and the devotional committee of the Association, held yesterday, all the necessary arrangements were made. The first meeting of the services will be held in the hall Sunday afternoon at 4:15, and will be for men only. Then beginning Sunday night union services, open to all, will be held each night in the Methodist church until Wednesday; after that the night services will be in the Presbyterian church until the close of the meeting, which will last a week. Meetings will be held each morning in the association hall. It is asked that all Christians unite in earnest prayer for God's blessing upon the community, 12 o'clock each day being the hour agreed upon for united, concentrated prayer. Special efforts will be made to reach the young men, for which class prayer is specially asked.

It has been said of Mr. Gales that in power and impressiveness as a gospel speaker he very much resembled Moody, the celebrated evangelist. He most certainly speaks earnestly and purely of the unsearchable riches of Christ, and if all Christians will unite and pray and work in the coming meeting the community will be blessed.

Davy Crockett.

This play, introducing one of the most remarkable characters of America, will be produced in Mérony's Hall by Frank Mayo next Tuesday night. Of its performance in Atlanta one of the city papers says:

The most artistic and powerful of what may be called, without deprecation, the sensational artist, will play at LeGives on next Monday and Tuesday nights. He will render his great play of "Davy Crockett," than which no more thrilling and charming drama was ever put upon the boards. Mayo, as "Crockett," is a fixed sensation in the dramatic world, and he has held the best theatres in the metropolitan cities for whole seasons without displacement. Indeed, we believe that this is his first tour throughout the provinces. We trust that he will have such a house on Monday and Tuesday as will put him in love with Atlanta, and render his visits frequent in the future. Mayo is the one actor that all other actors praise. There is deprecation, once in a while, of Booth, Barrett, Davemport, and all of them except Mayo. Whenever you mention his name to one of the profession, you have nothing but praise—praise of him as an artist and gentleman.

Use "Gold Dust" for cleansing. Call at Smoot & McCulloh's for sample package.

Four fine mules, 3 and 4 years old, 14 and 15 hands high, must be sold for cash within the next 10 days.

Rev. J. H. Cordon.

News and Observer.

Dr. Cordon was a native of Washington, and spent his youth and young manhood in that place. He was educated at Bingham School, Mebanesville, N. C. Soon after leaving school he read law and entered upon the practice of his chosen profession. He practiced law in Lexington, N. C., for a short time. After making a profession of religion and joining the Methodist church, he felt it his duty to become a minister of the gospel, gave up the law and entered the ministry.

He joined the North Carolina Conference of the M. E. Church, South, at its session in Salisbury, N. C., in November, 1877. His first charge was the Mattamuskeet circuit in Hyde county. He remained on this charge three years and was very successful and popular. He then spent four years, the full limit allowed by the law of his church, on the South Edgecombe circuit, living at Toisnot, N. C. He was then two years pastor of the Methodist church at Statesville; then two years pastor at Wilson; then three years at Edenton Street church, Raleigh; then one year, last year, at Wilson. At the last Conference he was sent to Oxford and was entering pleasantly and successfully upon his work there when death called him hence. He received the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity from the University of North Carolina in 1890, of which institution he had for several years been a faithful trustee.

Dr. Cordon was a man of fine ability and was regarded as an excellent preacher. His pastorates in dictated above were in some of the most prominent pulpits of the State. He was highly esteemed and greatly beloved by a large circle of friends and acquaintances.

He was a prominent Odd Fellow, having at one time been Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of North Carolina. He was also a patron of Masonry, having taken the Royal Arch degrees.

A Child Burned to Death.

WINSTON, N. C. Feb. 23—News was received here of another sad accident by fire near Midway, Davidson county. Sarah, the little daughter of W. A. Elliot, caught fire while her parents were away from home. Mrs. Elliot had left the house only a short time when a near neighbor saw the blaze of fire going around the garden. She thought something was wrong and ran to see the child burning up. A physician was sent for but the little sufferer died in a few hours.

The ladies of the Baptist church realized $42 from their entertainment and oyster supper. They request us to thank the citizens of Salisbury for their assistance and patronage, and to especially thank Mr. N. B. McCannless, proprietor of the new Central hotel, for the use of his store room and for valuable assistance given.

Holmes & Miller are agents for Cubanolas in the Carolinas.

—Charlotte Observer: The 3 year old son of Mr. John Hock, of Davidson was bitten in three places Saturday by a mad dog. He was brought here yesterday to have the madstone applied. The stone stuck to each of the wounds. The dog that bit the boy was a very small fice.

THE HOME PAPER.

It Should Have the United Support of the Home People.

Atlanta Constitution.

A man should always get the best in the newspaper line, but where a man cannot really afford to take more than one newspaper, we say in all candor that that one should be his home paper, whether it be daily or weekly.

We mean what we say. A man's first duty is to build up and sustain the enterprises which contribute to the growth of the community of which he is a part, and of all the enterprises the local newspaper is the best; no town can enjoy perfect prosperity without a representative paper loyally sustained by appreciative citizens.

There is not a weekly newspaper in the smaller towns of this State which has the patronage it deserves. With few exceptions the testimony of the editors is that they are working "up hill;" their labor is great and its rewards small. And yet the weekly newspaper does more for a town and people than any other agency!

If the citizens are wise, they will stand by their editor and scold all his efforts to enlarge the influence of his newspaper; and just here let us say another word to subscribers who assert that they can take one newspaper only.

Newspapers are now published at rates which are within the reach of all, and we do not believe there is a man in any kind of business who is not fully able to pay for two or more newspapers. The press is a great educator, and on that line alone his money would be well invested. The more papers with which he surrounds himself, the greater will be the benefits derived. But the Constitution, for reasons given, repeats that if there be a man who is too poor to patronize any other than his home paper, that is the paper for his money, and may fortune increase his store!

He Joined the Whiskey Trust.

He was seedy and shabby, and if he had ever seen better days there was nothing about him to indicate it. He sought a Wall street office, and by taking advantage of a flirtation between the pretty typewriter and a juvenile clerk, which happened to have reached a very interesting stage, he managed to reach the inner sanctum, where the head of the firm was engaged studying a ticker.

"Say, Boss," he began, bowing obsequiously, "for God's sake tell me how I can join this here Whiskey Trust that the papers talk about. I've been thirsty for two score years and I ain't never been able to get trusted for a single glass of whiskey yet."

The broker ripped out an oath, then he smiled, then clapped his hand into his pocket, pulled out a quarter of a dollar and presented it to the tramp.

"Try it on some other fellows," he said, "there's money in it. But if you ever sprig it on me again I'll have you arrested."

A few hours later a couple of policemen bundled the tramp into the "cooler" of a down town station house, but on his face was a smile of ineffable happiness and content which found expression in these words:

"I'am gloriously tight, 'n doan' care dam who knosh it."

Wall street has not enough space to bury its suicides.
