The meeting was called to order mayor Neave, who, in a few remarks stated the object.

Mr. J. D. McNeely was elected secretary, and the live, wide awake, Theo. F. Kluttz Esq., introduced Mr. O. S. Cansey, of the High Point cotron mills. He thought that a mill at this point would pay well to manufacture sheetings or plaids. That a mill costing $50,000 would give employ-ment to 200 hands and use about 1,200 cords of wood per year. He also recommended that the machinery proposal, of which we wrote last issue, be examined, and recom-mended highly Mr. O. A. Robbins, of New Orleans, as a superintend-
