A very pleasant dance and party was given at the residence of Mr. William Doutham, in the country, on the 15th.

Mad editors have a gun for poets. We don't. We like it. Dear poets, please stop the poetizing until we have published the supply we have on hand.

Sheriff Krider says taxes must be paid. He is going to be in his office every day waiting for you until after the 9th of February; after that look out. Why do you try his patience. Go and pay what you owe.

$20,000 FIRE.

The R. & D. Freight Depot and Salisbury Woolen Mills Consumed by Fire.

Saturday morning at 5:30, Mr. T. E. Wyché discovered fire in the freight depot and with the help of three other gentlemen present began moving out the office furniture. The fire had gained such headway that Mr. Wyché was unable to return into the office after the second piece of furniture had been carried out. The fire shot through the building like lightning, and in a few moments three freight cars and the Woolen Mills had caught. The cars were loaded with merchandise and machinery. They burnt up as quickly as did the Woolen Mills. Much credit is due Capt. Lewter, the depot agent and his assistants in their efforts to save what they could.

As soon as telegraphic communication could be had, orders come to erect another small building, and before the fire was out preparations were being made for the erection of a new depot, and as we go to press they are moving in.

The Woolen Mills are to be rebuilt at an early date, although it is a matter of much regret to know that such a heavy loss should overtake this young company, when it was in such fine shape to be a blessing to all connected with it. Their loss is about $20,000; $4,000 insurance. The origin of the fire is unknown, although several rumors pervade the gossiping sphere.

Milledgeville Cotton Mill.

After a drive of twenty-five miles down the Yadkin river from Salisbury, one is surprised to come suddenly on the manufacturing village of Milledgeville with its uniformly built cottages and an elegant brick cotton mill three stories high and 117 feet in length. All this, with 500 acres of land, a flour and corn mill and one of the best water powers in the world is the property of the Yadkin Falls Manufacturing Co. In 1875 when Mr. John Snodbery, the Superintendent, first became connected with the mill it was a very small affair in a frame house and dilapidated condition. At this time he was employed as clerk. His energy, integrity, and business ability, soon resulted in his being made a partner, and from that event dates the improvement epoch at Milledgeville. Until now, as a movement to his efforts stands this manufacturing business which is a great benefit to the community.

Mr. Snodbery has just returned from the north where he has been purchasing new machinery. He informs us that they will manufacture 3,500 pounds of yarn per day and that it can be done because it has been done at 12 cents per pound, and will always leave a profit of three cents or four cents per pound after marketing expenses are paid. From these figures it would seem that the mill will pay from $15,000 to $60,000 per annum in dividends. The company certainly is to be congratulated on the success they have attained. We have been assured that it required lots of hard work and many discouragements until now the rich reward is soon to be reaped. Some of the most intelligent and wealthy citizens of Montgomery and Stany counties compose the stockholders. Mr. W. A. Smith of Ansonville, Anson county, is President, while the popular and rising man of Stany county, S. J. Pemberton Esq., is Secretary and Treasurer. Too much can not be said in praise of these gentlemen for the great good they have done the immediate country. What we want is more like them, to hasten the day when every pound of cotton grown in the South will be manufactured here. This must be the ultimate result. We have the motive power and material, the labor will come with the capital.

Railroad Notes.

Things up the Western are in good shape again and the trains are run on regular time.

Things are chaotic at the freight depot in this city, although it is expected the new offices will be ready to-day. R. J. Warren, the telegraph operator, is in a box car. Capt. Theo. Parker and Tam McNelly are in the wood-shed. Capt. Lewter is to be found anywhere between the passenger depot and where the old freight depot stood.

We are authorized to say that the Western North Carolina Railroad shops of this place will not be moved from here, rumors to the contrary notwithstanding. Instead of moving they will be enlarged. We hope our own people will stop circulating the report of removal of the shops, first, because there is no truth in it, and secondly, because such talk is bound to hurt our town.

A. Campbell, engineer of the R. & D. system, to-day opened an office at Cleveland, Tenn., and will at once put a corps of engineers in the field to survey a railroad from the present terminus of the Western North Carolina Railroad at Murphy, to Cleveland, Tenn., to connect with the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia system and thence to Dayton, Tenn., to connect with the Cincinnati Southern. The line would traverse a fertile country rich in minerals. It is thought a company has been organized to build the line. -Albion Constitution.

MINING NOTES.

Miners wishing employment should read the advertisement in another column.

Capt. B. F. Gaden, of Vein Mountain mine, made us a call on Saturday.

It is reported that Mr. Freshville has tendered his resignation as Sup't. of Hoover Hill.

Capt. Fisher, of London, England, has been doing some work on the property adjoining that of the Appalachian Company, in hopes of striking the same vein. There are hundreds of us that would like to strike that vein.

Salisbury is fast assuming prominence as a mining center. And situated as she is, it is properly and necessarily so. Within a radius of fifteen miles we can count at least twenty-five or thirty mines, while all the mines of Montgomery, Stany, Moore and Randolph counties draw supplies from this city.

Attention is called to the gold saving apparatus illustrated on our first page. It can readily be seen that the pulverized ore is brought in close contact with quicksilver whereby all the free gold must be amalgamated and saved. It is now in successful operation which speaks for itself.

The Appalachian Gold Mining Co., Montgomery County.

Few people have any idea of the value of the Montgomery county gold mines. Of course the product of the old Russell mine has for years been a wonder as a source of ore supply. The Appalachian Company owns sixty acres adjacent to the Russell on which they have opened a fifteen foot vein of auriferous quartz and slate, carrying about one per cent of Ferruginous Sulphurets

They succeeded in saving a piano. All other furniture including Mr. Stewart's watch and $35.00 in money, perished in the flames. The insurance is $700. The house and furniture were valued at $1,500. All these misfortunes seem to come at one time on Mr. Stewart. The origin of the fire is supposed to be from a stove pipe passing through the roof.

A CARD TO THE PUBLIC.

ASHVILLE, N. C., Jan. 25, 1886. On December 25th, 1885, I was in Salisbury, N. C., and J. A. Craves & Co. made a contract with them in good faith to be with them in warehouse business. When I returned I found that matters over which I had no control prevented my going. No one regrets the fact more than I, as I was anxious to get back to my old home. Then the disappointment to these gentlemen I regret, and only hope that before long may be able to be with them. Hoping the public will not blame them for any public notice of the fact, but rest it all on me, though really I am not to be blamed when the facts are known. Respectfully, J. Y. HANSEN.
