INCENDIARISM.

The North Carolina Herald Building Set on Fire, and Only Saved by the Vigilance of the Police.

Friday morning, after the Southern bound train had departed, a little after one o'clock, two policemen, Barringer and Pool, came up town from the depot and in passing Buerbaum's book store stopped, not seeing the light in the store that is always lit at night. Listening at the door and windows for quite a while they noticed smoke issuing from the cellar gratings, not being able to perceive a sign of fire they ran around the block, and when within six yards of Buerbaum's cellar door, a man jumped out of the cellar and tried to escape by scaling the fence. Both policemen called halt, this not being heeded they both fired which brought the man down. Barringer with his then empty pistol, stood over the man, whom he found to be Bill Thrash, a half-witted negro, who heretofore had been considered harmless. While one watched the fire in the cellar, the other policeman raised the alarm. Soon, scores of willing hands were throwing water on the flames, which, after a hard struggle were finally gotten under control. The intense and penetrating smoke of yellow pine or pitch or tar or whatever it was, made it almost impossible to come near the fire, which was built in the corner of the cellar next to the door, immediately under the NORTH CAROLINA HERALD printing office. Fortunately there was but very little combustible matter in the cellar, and the woodwork being very heavy the fire was slow in making headway, although under the case of job type a little tongue of flame was seen licking through the flooring, and ten minutes more the fire would have undoubtedly broken through the floor. What the result would have been if the fire had had ten minutes more time, we can only imagine with a shudder. The smoke was stifling, not only filling the cellar, but oozing through every crevice, blackening everything on its way; into the printing office, into the store, where it was so dense as to obscure the light from the lamp which is left burning every night, and this darkness in the store was, as we said above, the cause of the policemen examining the store.

The smoke was so dense up stairs that when Robt. Ramsay and Carl Buerbaum, who slept in a room on the second floor, tried to come down the steps, they found it impossible to penetrate the smoke, but were driven back and had to wait until a ladder was brought. Everything about the building now looks smoked and the odor has not even now, five days after the fire, left the building. After the immediate danger had passed, threats were made of lynching, and Bill was told that he had to die, upon which he folded his arms over his breast and said that Harrison Jones, a mulatto, had given him three dollars in silver to set fire to a store, so that they could plunder during the excitement arising from a fire. Bill did not know that he was in Buerbaum's cellar but thought that he was in the cellar of Bingham's grocery store. It is said though, that since then he has told a different story. Whatever may be his story, there is no doubt in the minds of our people that Bill was instigated by others to do this, so that they might plunder.

After Policeman Pool had emptied his revolver without effect on account of the darkness of the night, Barringer reserved his fire until nearer and shot four times in about that many seconds, one ball penetrating Bill's hat, another through his coat sleeve and two took effect in the darkey's leg, breaking the thigh bone in two places. He, as well as Harrison Jones, are in jail. The citizens, and especially the writer, are to be congratulated in having two police so watchful, so discerning, so effective and so prompt.

Death of Mrs. Elizabeth Pearson. Mrs. Elizabeth Pearson, after living a pure life of seventy-three years lacking one or two days, died at her home in this city, on Saturday morning March 13th, 1886. Her career, although not an eventful one has been marked as that of a highly educated and distinguished lady. She was married to Mr. Pearson, who died some years since. He being a brother to Chief Justice Pearson. Gov. Ellis was her brother. She was buried in the English cemetery. Rev. F. J. Murdoch, pastor of the Episcopal Church, officiating. We, with many friends and acquaintances of the family bow our heads in solemn sympathy with the family, as we record the death of one that leaves not a blemish behind.

Value of Building Stone. As timber is every year becoming scarcer in some sections the value of stone increases. In some parts of New England quarries of stone once thought to be worthless have become quite valuable. Brick cannot entirely take the place of stone, and quarries where corner and foundation stones can be got are likely to increase in value. -New Age, Augusta, Me.

The above fits our county exactly, and we hope to see the day when 100 quarries work the splendid granite of our county. There is enough here to build every building in the wide, wide world.

Don't fool away your old sewing machines to travelling salesmen. They charge 33 per cent more than we do, and get your old one for nothing. Meroney & Bro. will overhaul your machines, make it work as well as when new at small cost, or make a fair exchange with you.

RAILROAD NOTES.

Through sleepers now run from Chattanooga direct to Asheville, without change, and also from Asheville to Chattanooga.

The railroad station at Hominy, on the Murphy Division, after being given the "go by" for over one year, on account of litigation, is to be opened again, the difficulty having been adjusted.

Mr. Street, an agent on the Murphy Division, is accused of impressing a stranger with his importance by saying that he was a nephew of that well known New York man "Wall Street."

Col. A. B. Andrews, President of the W. N. C. R. R. and Mr. Scott with his family, in his private car from New York, went up to the head of the road last week. Mr. Scott is the largest individual shareholder in Richmond & Danville railroad stock. He is delighted with Western North Carolina, and is doing much to promote the different resources.

One of the attractive features of the Murphy Division is the Balsam Mountain Pass. It is customary when the engine arrives at the foot of the mountain with more than three loaded cars, to leave part of the train at the foot, and after reaching the top to return for it. Sometimes an engineer, by careful calculation and skill, will succeed in crossing with three loaded cars. Last week engineer Trav. Clark, pulled four loaded over at one time. He is just the man for an engineer, and one that is careful and thoroughly competent.

Lady from Canada heaves a heavy sigh as the east bound train stops for water, and breaks the pervading silence always attending a motionless train by asking Capt. Newland "if the trains on this road always run so slow?" Capt. Ben answered "yes they did, but that preparations were being made to run so fast that it would take three men to see the train pass." Now the train had been speeding along at the rate of forty miles per hour. The coach was warm, clean, and first class in every particular. But that lady was obliged to talk about something.

While out on the Murphy Division of the W. N. C. Railroad last week, our reporter had a talk with that large and efficient mail agent, Mr. D. M. Luther, who informed us that he would take the first mail to Jarratt's on the 15th, up to this date it has only been carried as far as Charleston, in Swain county. Mr. Jarratt of Jarratt's will be still more overpowered to find himself in possession of another mail, as through the kindness of those news-imparting gentlemen, Capt's. Wynne and Frazier, he has been advertising in a Chicago matrimonial journal for a Temale helpmate.

Capt. Jack Edwards limped in on one crutch to see us Monday. It will be remembered he was on the engine that collided with the ill fated Perkins in December 1885. He says he is suffering from the effects yet, in fact his hip was knocked out of joint so that to this day he is obliged to suffer the pains of having a metal tube stuck through his flesh to the hip bone in order to allow the puss free discharge. His physicians are Drs. Whitehead & Tranham of this city, and Dr. Williams of Asheville. Edwards says they are handling him very skillfully and he hopes soon to be able to go on duty.

It behooves us to picture a little scene on the Nantahala river at mid night, where Capt. Frazier played the cook. It seems that the engine had jumped the track and that with the united efforts of all help it was impossible to get her on until after midnight. All hands clamored for food until the Capt. was obliged to break cargo and dish out some pork and meal that was on its way to the section hands at the head of the line. With the assistance of the coal shovel, in which the olla-podrida was made, and a little fire, seven hungry men were heard to declare that they were independent of any eating house, as long as they had meal, meat, shovel, and Capt. Frazier for cook.

Married. On Monday night the ticker in the Western Union telegraph office was paying merry little compliments to the operator, Mr. R. L. Gill; but Mr. Gill, did not heed them, he was in that happy state of mind, where he naught but the image of an angle haunted his vision. He bade the ticker good night and proceeded to the residence of Mr. J. J. Bruner, where he was united in the holy and binding ties of wedlock, to that bright little daughter of Mr. John McKenzie of the Vidette, Miss Mamie. The happy pair are under obligations to the Rev. Dr. Rumble who tied this everlasting bond that creates two, one, and to the parties that tendered them the midnight serenade. Mr. Gill has been operator at this office for the past seven months. He formerly resided in Petersburg, Va. The happy twain are at present boarding at Mrs. Lowery's, where the honeymoon will be spent in an imaginary paradise. THE HERALD wishes them joy, happiness.

The Growth of Life Insurance. New York, March 3.—Evidence of added public confidence in life insurance appears in the fact that the Travelers Insurance Company wrote within a small fraction of $1,000,000 of new life insurance in February, and has written since December 1st last, more than double the amount for the corresponding period of 1884.—Courier Journal.

MINING NOTES.

Tom H. Moyle has left the Holtshouser mine in Rowan county and gone to the Russell in Montgomery county.

Ten tons of corundum is being shipped from Sylva Station, in Jackson county, to Massachusetts every week. The Weekly Herald, published at Webster, says about 30 wagons passed through town one day last week, and that reports from the mines say they are all doing well.

Messrs J Cecil Peters and Richard Booke, of London, England, arrived at the Central yesterday. They are gold mine prospecting and have gone down to inspect the Haile mine.

The above is from the Charlotte Observer. At present we have a great many English parties engaged in mining in this State.

Steel Gold Mine. John T. Cramer, Esq., one of the proprietors, was in the city on Saturday for the purpose of drawing money for his monthly payments at the mine. They employ about 100 hands; have sunk a new shaft 300 feet beyond the old one that is at present about 75 feet deep, and in good ore. The 20 stamp mill is nearing completion. This mine has in former days produced richly, and we are anxious to hear of results from the new management.

Personal. Miss Anna Holmes is visiting in Asheville. Mr F H Cushing left for a short stay in Knoxville, Tenn, on Monday. Mr. Percy Eubanks will preach at Statesville next Sunday, but returns next Monday. Miss Leary, who has been the guest of Miss Nelly Holmes, has returned to Charlotte. Miss Lou E. Baity, of Statesville, N. C. is visiting friends and relatives at Watsonville.

Mr. Geo. Scott, with his two daughters from New York, were here in their private car on Tuesday.

Miss Hattie Mebane of Mebaneville, who has been on an extended visit to her brother, Geo. Mebane of this city, returned home Monday.

Miss Florence Scott, daughter of F. W. Scott, formerly of this city, now of Greensboro, is to be married soon to Mr. Frank Fay of Boston, Mass.

Our friend J. H. Ramsay has gone into the tobacco business with Mr. Eugene Johnston. Mr. Ramsay is now in Alabama in the interests of the business.

We are pleased to note that the favorite H. M. Jones has accepted a position with Meroney Bros., having resigned his office in the Internal Revenue.

Death of an Old Citizen. Just as we go to press we are shocked to learn of the death on Wednesday morning March 17th, 1886, of that aged and respected citizen, Benj. F. Fraley. He was born in Rowan county, and has been a resident of Salisbury for 23 years. His age was seventy-eight years, in which time his life was marked by deeds of charity due to a truly Christian way. To his memory remains the blessing of many a family who in distress received help from him. He was a devoted member of the Lutheran Church. The funeral services will take place from the Lutheran Church on Thursday evening at three o'clock.

Tribute of Respect. Whereas, God in His allwise, but inscrutable providence, has called from the labors of the earth to the rest of heaven, our friend and fellow countryman, Capt. Samuel A. Sloan. Therefore, Resolved, 1st, That we have lost a warm, cheerful and affectionate friend; a wise, consistent and successful school matter; a devoted and working member of our committee, and also an efficient and faithful officer. 2nd, That we bow in humble submission to the will of our Father, rejoicing that we "sorrow not even as others who have no hope," and with filial confidence saying, "Even so, Father, for so it seemeth good in Thy sight." 3rd, That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon our minutes; that a copy be sent to the family as expression of our affection and Christian sympathy; and also to the NORTH CAROLINA HERALD and Carolina Watchman with request to publish. By order of Com. Thyatira Academy. J. ALSTON RAMSAY, Sec'y. Mill Bridge, N. C., March 10, '86.

A CARD. We herewith tender our most heartfelt thanks to the citizens of Salisbury for their effective assistance in saving our office and store from being burned. We especially thank Policemen Barringer and Pool, whose vigilance discovered the fire. BUEBAUM & EAMES, THEO. BUEBAUM.

Lost—Last Sunday morning a gold scarf-pin, a little bunch of flowers engraved on it. The finder will be rewarded by leaving it at this office.
