BILLY WILSON'S GOAT.

A REMARKABLE QUADRUPED THAT LACKED RESPECT FOR RANK.

A Regimental Goat Whose Peculiar Talents Were Frequently Somewhat Enhanced by the Delineated Efforts of His Numerous Friends.

"I never see a goat," remarked Col. Fred Martin, of the Brooklyn elevated, the other day, but I am reminded of a beautiful animal once owned by Billy Wilson of Billy Wilson's regiment. I can't truthfully assert that Billy owned the goat; he didn't, it belonged to the regiment, but as Billy owned the regiment it's pretty much the same thing. The goat was a boy forever, and his peculiar talents were largely enhanced by the daintiest efforts of his numerous friends in Billy Wilson's command.

"I made his acquaintance while campaigning along the northern gulf shore in Fort Pickens, and the tale told all the Florida coast, so that the butternut soldiers of Fort Pickens used to amuse themselves plumping shells into the sand heap on which Pickens stood. Santa Rosa Island's name, a real pretty name for a fortification. About the only thing those shells accomplished besides scattering the sand was to irritate the goat. Every time one exploded it would blow out a hole big enough to hide four cows in, and this just worried him. Israel Vogel, who was commandant there, and his regiment's stand it any longer, and he set little men to work with shovels filling up the holes, and as there was a fresh crop every day, Billy's men got pretty tired. They weren't fond of work any way. You see, about all of them had died or been killed before they struck Pickens, but those left were game chickens, and didn't take kindly to shoveling.

"It was on Santa Rosa—just the place for Billy, I think—recalling that Vogel was the best road man in the army, and he didn't take kindly to the boys' social ways, and he took pains to keep down their ebullient spirits. One day, when a crowd of boys were sitting on a sand pit, and filling it at the rate of about one shoveful in two hours, the general rushed out from his casement, hauled the boys' detachment up in line, and gave them half an hour. He was more'n five feet tall, Israel wasn't, but as he was most as thick and as wide, he made up for it. Standing on the edge of the crater, in a costume that was mostly trousers, he lectured, speaking lower with every word he uttered.

"As it was, he made a lovely target, and that cussed goat, who was leading to the parade ground, to the range, and all of a sudden, after the boys had been ordered to march, he let himself off, and he landed like a bomb shell, and he landed just where he wanted to.

"It was an awful moment for Billy's men. There's a line to laugh, the Scripture says, and Billy's men thought it was there, but they didn't dare grasp the opportunity, and they feared for the goat, whom they loved. Vogel was awful mad. He made Billy promise to have the goat killed, but he gave the order, but it was never executed.

"It wasn't long after that when the enemy was swept from the Florida shore. Took Billy's men and the goat went to Pensacola, where they had a royal time on the fat of the land and whisky, until the general sent Neal Dow to watch over him. He stopped the fun and the grog and set them to hunting places for government purposes. Letters used to pour into headquarters at New Orleans, and the letters were stopped from them, all from the gallant soldiers pleading to be sent to perdition or anywhere away from Dow.

"It was by the way, they did escape and came marching home again. I was in New York when they tramped up Broadway and there, at the head of the column, pranced Billy Wilson's goat, for all the world like a spring bear skin, cartwheeling and walking at the head, not a hair of the wolverine having touched his commanding officer into a sand pit."—New York Post.

The Man for an Emergency.

I have noticed that about as good people think quickly, the more they think, the more they think, because the head is then the nearer to the center of vital efficiency in the heart of the father from it I know not, but the fact is, however, indeed, I have it plain as a path in my mind. For I have much mental faculty, it takes me long to get to the bottom, I have to gaze at an assemblage of facts a long time before a path appears in the tangle, either for good or for evil, and my neck is more a state than an end. But however, this difference may report in bodily shape, certainly it is an important difference, and makes one man a leader and another a laggard in an emergency.

Yet, in another kind of balance, the bag goes way more than the man who drags it along in a stress. Emergency is a sudden accession of coming forth of a state of difficulty which demands a quick accession of power to meet it, because it grows worse if tardily encountered. In such a stress, when the right word or act must be instant, one man will leap to it while another is casting about, and with others emergency questions all the time in a kind of amazement. Whether the quick thinking mind or the slow-thinking the higher may be questioned, but certainly the two are different, and each is the better in his own place.—Cur. Globe Democrat.

Antidote for a Terrible Poison.

Out of all the terrible and less incurable by the war in Malacca, the French seem to be overjoyed at having received one benefit from that disastrous source. The French doctors have discovered an antidote for the terrible tangle—the most venomous poison in the known world—wasgerin, which is actually depopulated the island, by the blood made of it by several generations of tyrant governors.

The tangle is the juice of the fruit of the tangle tree, and is peculiar in its effect, working the victim at once, throwing him into immediate convulsions, which last but a few minutes, when death releases him from the atrocious torture he has been made to suffer during that short space. Mr. Lassalle declares that in the course of a few years the tangle has destroyed more than 150,000 persons. The antidote discovered is homeopathic and is said to be the strong infusion of bitter almonds.—Brooklyn Eagle.

There are firms in New York and Philadelphia who hire out clean cuts and cables.

Rugs and Carpets from the East. Of late oriental rugs and carpets have attracted the attention of the refined, and are likely to prove lasting favorites for many reasons, among which are their general utility and beauty, richness in color, oddity and peculiarity of design, and durability.

Rugs and carpets are manufactured all over the east, even Africa comes in for her share. There are five species of rug and carpet woven in Turkey, known by the respective localities where they are produced, viz., Koola, Uskak, Oeoides, or Ghordes, Kardish, and Hrunell—Harper's Bazar.

THE "LANDING OF COLUMBUS."

Romantic Story of the Artist Who Painted the Well-Known Picture.

The paintings which adorn the walls of the rooms of the capitol at Washington have no high artistic value, but some of them possess peculiar historical interest. The best of these paintings is "The Landing of Columbus." It has enjoyed a remarkable popularity. Countless thousands of engravings, lithographs and photographs from it have been scattered over the country and it was sought after by every good citizen when the government stamped a copy of it on the greenback fractional note.

This picture has a romance. It is said that as Aaron Burr, then at the height of his fame, was driving through the country in New Jersey one of his horses cast a shoe. While waiting at the shop of a wayside blacksmith to have the shoe replaced his attention was attracted by a rough charcoal sketch of his horse and vehicle drawn on the side of a stable. The rapidity with which it must have been executed, its faithful likeness, surprised and interested him. Besides the sketch, charcoal in hand, stood a shock-headed boy clad in home-spun.

This boy was John Vanderlyn, who afterwards became famous as the painter of the "Descent of Minerva," which hangs in the capitol, and the "Marine at Carthage," which had the distinguished honor of being exhibited at the Louvre, Paris. Burr learned from the boy that he had received an instruction in drawing and that he intended his interest in the crude genius.

Burr is said to have given him a card with his address and the words "If you want employment, and desire to see the world, put on a clean shirt and go to New York to that address." Minutes afterward Burr was interrupted at breakfast by his servant handing him a small parcel with the statement that the boy who brought it was waiting outside. The parcel, however, always contains a clean, coarse, country made shirt. Burr was mystified but ordered the servant to show the boy in. In a moment, the artist of the blacksmith shop stood before him.

Burr at once took him into his family, educated him, and assisted him to the army, where he spent five years in the study of art. He became famous, and at one time counted even the great Napoleon among his patrons. With the usual fate of the artist, however, he always remained poor and at last died in poverty near the old blacksmith shop.—Atlanta Constitution.

REAL ESTATE

—FOR—SALE.

Having determined to settle up and change my business, the following property is for sale, the greater part of which is in and near Salisbury, N. C., now one of the growing cities of the State.

1st—The house and lot where I now live; a good brick house with ten rooms 18 feet square and 10 feet hall-way; two other brick buildings 16x32, 2 rooms each; fine brick dairy, 3 wells of water, 2 good large stock and forage barns, and other out-buildings; a large garden; about 4 acres in choice fruit trees, just in good bearing. The whole lot contains 15 acres, beautifully situated, the ground slightly descending from the dwelling at all points.

2nd—50 fine building lots 50x200 or larger to suit purchasers, adjoining the residence of J. S. McCubbins and others.

3rd—45 acres of land adjoining the above, between the Charlotte and Caldwell Roads, about one-half mile from city, well suited for building, manufacturing sites or truck farming. About 6 acres of good forest timber on this tract.

4th—A house and lot just one mile from centre of city; lot contains 7 acres, house 3 rooms, well of good water; lies between the Charlotte and N. C. Railroad. This lot is well suited for manufacturing sites; fair portion is on grade with High Street.

5th—80 acres of Land on East side of N. C. R. R., within 200 yards of the corporate limits of Salisbury, with 2 common houses which rent for $6 per month; a never failing stream of water runs nearly central through this; the part near railroad well suited for building-lots or manufactories, or the whole a good stock farm.

6th—80 acres on the West side of N. C. R. R. one and one-fourth miles from the city. This tract lies near on a grade with railroad, and is well suited for truck farming, manufacturing sites, fair grounds. There is on this tract about ten acres wood land.

7th—9 building lots, 50x200 feet, on Fisher and Bank streets, in the great South Ward of Salisbury, adjoining the lots of James Lineberry, D. A. Atwell and others.

8th—26 acres of land on the Gold Hill or Stokes Ferry Road, East side, and on both sides of what is known as the Town Creek, just one mile from centre of town; about 15 acres of excellent meadow.

9th—1823 acres. A very fine farm about three miles from Salisbury on the W. N. C. R. R., with 2 farm houses and other buildings; one good well of water. This tract has about 60 acres of the best of bottom land, most of which is in cultivation and meadow; the upland is fine tobacco and cotton land.

10th—100 acres on the Bringle's Ferry road, 14 miles from Salisbury, 3 from Gold Hill. All wood land.

GOLD MINE
11th—50 acres Pacer gold mine tract, about 7 miles from Salisbury. This is valuable property. There are at least 10 acres on the place that will show gold to every shovel of surface dirt. There is also a vein of 12 or 15 inches showing gold. This property paid a Mr. Goodman about ten thousand dollars some years ago by washing the surface not more than 150 feet square to a depth of 12 inches. With proper development I have no doubt but that it would be a fine paying property.

12th—1589 Acres. I have also a one-half interest in fine properties in the above number of acres in Rowan and Moore counties, having good veins of gold, silver, copper, iron, soapstone, roofing slate; also a large vein of fine Jasper stone.

All of the above named properties are positively for sale on reasonable and easy terms. All persons who desire to invest in or purchase will please give me a call before buying.

As reference in regard to the above, see Proprietors NORTH CAROLINA HERALD, J. S. McCubbins, Sr., Luke Blackmer, Esq., Davis & Wiley, Bankers, and M. J. Holmes, of Salisbury, N. C. and S. E. Linton, Esq., of Charlotte.
