BRIEFS.

Mary Anderson is taking a rest; she will not act for one year.

The opinion of the English press is that the Canadian fishery question will be amicably settled.

Cutting is released. Mexico, being the smaller dog, has given way to the demands of our Secretary of State.

Thos. D. Johnston, the present member of Congress from the 9th District, was renominated last Monday.

The Maine campaign opened last Monday at Sebago Lake, where Blaine and Ross spoke to a large assembly.

Frederick Douglass and wife are domiciled at a Rochester (N. Y.) hotel. He has accumulated enough to view his retirement from office with philosophical indifference.

The passenger steamer, Vera, plying on the river Volga, in Russia, caught fire from a falling lamp. The steamer was run on shore, but the engines were not stopped, and the stern of the steamer remained in very deep water. Two hundred lives were lost.

Robert L. Taylor, the democratic gubernatorial candidate of Tennessee, did not attend the convention that nominated him, because he was holding a Federal office. He resigned his office before he accepted the nomination. Times change.

A Boston ex-policeman, W. J. Kendall, swam the Whirlpool and Rapids in a cork jacket; he was considerably bruised and lost consciousness while in the water, but came to before he got on shore. Another frame on the register of fools.

"Memories of Robert E. Lee" is the name of a new biography of the great Southern chieftain. It is collected, written and edited by Gen. Long, assisted by Gen. Wright. It contains the private, domestic and personal history, and is published by J. M. Stoddard & Co., Washington, D. C.

Murat Halsted, of the Cincinnati Enquirer, seems to be unable to get out of trouble. First Senator Logan read him a regular school-boy lecture, then Murat challenges John R. McLean for something McLean has not done, and now Murat challenges Richard Roe and John Doe.

Jeff Davis made a very incoherent speech in Mississippi last week. He said the country was now at peace and all should work together for the public good. At first reading this does not really sound incendiary, but Jeff Davis said it, and it must therefore be something very rebellious and treasonous indeed. — (Albany (N. Y.) Times)

All good citizens rejoice in the verdict of the jury in the anarchist case, not from a sense of revenge, but from a sense of justice and law. Our laws are not enough; every man is free here, and the attempt to overthrow this, the freest government of the world, ought to be put down. Murder and conspiracy to murder is deservedly punished with death. As a regulator of society the dynamite bomb is a complete failure.

At the late British elections, Gladstone was elected in Midlothian and Leith. Choosing to sit for Midlothian, a new election was ordered, in which the Gladstonian candidate defeated two Unionists by about two thousand votes.

COALITION IN MAINE.

Blaine's troubles in Maine seem to be endless. First, he was rebuked by the old soldier element for ignoring them, "no old soldier need apply," now the prohibitionists and Labor men have combined and are putting candidates in the field. Candidates for Congressional honors have already been selected on this coalition ticket. Truly, Mr. Blaine's path is not one of roses.

DEMOCRATIC OUTLOOK.

Republican newspapers have been preaching democratic dissensions, etc. The conventions just held have proven this a mistake. In all States where the democrats have met, harmony and good will has prevailed, strong candidates have been put in the field, and a strong aggressive campaign begun. From close observers we learn that the democrats will at least hold their own, if they should not gain.

THE BAYARD DYNASTY ROUTED.

For nearly a quarter of a century the Bayard element has governed Delaware, but last Tuesday it was completely overthrown and wiped out of existence as a political factor. The Democratic State convention nominated Benjamin T. Briggs by a vote of 101 as against 80 for Edwin R. Cochrane, the Bayard-Lore nominee. The convention heartily endorsed Cleveland. The action of the convention will strengthen the democratic party in the State.

OHIO DEMOCRACY.

The Ohio Democrats in Convention assembled, in Toledo, nominated John McBride, a Knight of Labor, as Secretary of State; M. D. Falter, Judge of the Supreme Court; J. W. Cruikshank, Clerk of the Supreme Court; L. D. Brown, Commissioner of Common Schools, and Louis Ludwig, as Member of Board of Public Works. They endorsed the President and denounced Lt.-Governor for adopting revolutionary and felonious means to make the Senate republican, and advocates a peaceful adjustment of the differences between labor and capital.

BATTENBURG DISCHARGED.

When, in 1879, Prince Alexander of Battenburg notified Bismarck of his election as hereditary prince of Bulgaria, the latter counselled him to accept, adding, however, with a peculiar smile, "Whatever happens, it will always have been a pleasant little episode in your life." From the very start he had to fight the Russian influence, and although he beat them twice at their own game, the sneaking, undermining Russians got the upper hand, and last Sunday he abdicated. The Bulgarians will have plenty of time to regret this affair. Alexander was an honest, upright, brave and talented Prince.

PENNSYLVANIA DEMOCRATS.

The Pennsylvania Democratic State Convention met at Harrisburg on August 18th. On the first ballot Chauncey E. Black received 193 votes, Wm. A. Wallace 129, Henry McCormick 12 and Robert Dickert 1. Upon the announcement of the vote, the whole convention arose; and, amid deafening cheers and the utmost enthusiasm, the nomination of Mr. Black was made unanimous. Col. Robt. Bruce Ricketts, a gallant old soldier, was nominated as Lieutenant Governor, Maxwell Stevenson was chosen as candidate for Congressman at large, J. Simpson Africa as Secretary of Internal Affairs, and W. J. Brennan as Auditor General. The convention passed resolutions endorsing Cleveland and asking for Labor protection and an equalization of taxes.

CONVICTS.

Jerry Ford, a negro convict from Huntsville, Ala., while sick and suffering, was whipped by a beastly brute, C. H. Robinson, from the effects of which he died. Fortunately we have no such conditions in our State, but our convicts are hired out to railroads and other parties, thereby coming in contact with honest labor. Our authorities think they do well if they can show to the tax-payer that the expenses of our penitentiary are very low. A convict ought never be placed where he does work that ought to be done by free labor. We have in North Carolina no macadamized roads; very few of the streets in our towns are passable in continuous rainy weather. Here is where the usefulness of the convict ought to come in. Every county ought to have the right to keep her own convicts employed on her roads. Rowan has probably twenty convicts in the penitentiary. Just think, twenty men continuously at work on our public highways! In a few years we could have good roads all over our county. It would save thousands of dollars to our farmers and be an incalculable advance of his comfort.

SOLICITOR.

The office of solicitor is one of grave responsibility. He ought to be well acquainted with the people, their character, their previous history and their social and blood relations. As it is now, when one solicitor has to exercise his duties in from seven to fifteen different counties, it becomes a physical and moral impossibility to know the people and to know causes and effects of the crime, and he has to rely entirely upon such testimony as has been given to him by the grand jury, or has been fostered upon him either by friends or enemies of the defendant. In order to make the office an efficient one, every county must have its own solicitor. This can be done only by an amendment of the constitution. The counties would not be under any more expense than they are now. We wish to hear what our readers have to say on this subject.

Seven Anarchists to Hang.

"We, the jury, find the defendants, August Spies, Michael Schwab, Samuel Fielden, Albert R. Parsons, Adolph Fischer, George Engel, and Louis Lingg, guilty of murder as charged in the indictment, and fix the penalty at death. We find the defendant Oscar W. Neebe guilty of murder in manner and form as charged in the indictment, and fix the penalty at imprisonment in the penitentiary for fifteen years."

These were the words of the verdict of the jury in the celebrated anarchist trial in Chicago, brought in last Friday. Sam Fielden was entirely overcome when the above words fell from the lips of the clerk. Parsons was cheerful and courageous. Lingg seemed to acknowledge that the sentence was just. Spies was silent and meditative. Fischer commenced writing. Neebe was angry and declared the verdict unjust. "We were convicted because we were Germans," he said. An excited crowd outside the courthouse cheered loudly and lustily when the verdict became known. The friends of the anarchists say that the defendants had not been on trial, but Anarchy. Parsons, Spies and Lingg have intelligent faces and wear a mustache; Fielden has full whiskers and looks like a tradesman; Schwab has also full whiskers, wears spectacles and looks like a student; Neebe has a good face and wears mustache and goatee, while Engel sports a mustache in his brutish, fendish face. The prisoners, through their counsel, took an appeal.

Changing their Tune.

Probably no three newspapers in the country have had more to say in the way of violent denunciation of the President for vetoing undeserving pension bills than have the Washington National Republican, the Philadelphia Press, and the Providence Journal, all thick and thin Republican organs. A few days ago, however, a meeting of veterans of the United States Army in the late war was held at San Francisco at which Congressman Lovering's scheme to grant a pension to every man who served in the war was fully discussed, and was condemned by the overwhelming vote of 327 to 86. How the organs have changed their tune, since this emphatic declaration is amusing. True soldiers are all right. — (Columbia Evening Chronicle)

STATE NEWS.

Raleigh has determined to have water works.
Col. Armstrong, a New York capitalist, will establish a National bank at Newton.

The Raleigh State Fair is to eclipse all previous efforts. Six thousand dollars are offered as premiums.

Recent investigation brought out that on the coast of North Carolina, natural oyster beds exist, of such an extent as to be able to supply the world.

The commissioners of Marion have passed an ordinance fining any doctor who gives a prescription for liquor in any case except of actual necessity, $20.

Hon. J. S. Henderson, our hard-working Congressman, has secured to Geo. McCorkle, Esq., of Newton, an appointment as Chief of a Division in the Treasury department.

Rev. Dr. Talmage is lecturing west and will not return to Asheville. He appeared to admire Western North Carolina greatly, and his brief stay, of only a few days is rather odd.

Greensboro North State: Greensboro Female College begins its fall session next Wednesday, Aug. 25th. The site of the N. C. Handle Works was sold last Saturday for $3,700 and C. E. Shober became the purchaser.

A Mrs. Merrett, of Stokes county, recently gave birth to four children at one time, all of which are living and doing well. There are three boys and one girl and the boys have been named respectively Paul, Saul, and Hall, and the girl Tall. The facts are given by the Danbury Reporter.

A porpoise factory has been established at Hatteras, N. C., with the aid of the company having procured special machinery and skilled laborers from Europe, purpose to supply the market with leather, oil and fertilizers. Sometimes 80 or 90 powerful creatures about eight feet long are netted at a single haul.

Lexington Dispatch: Mr. W. H. Bailey was here Tuesday, and as attorney for Chas. L. Heitman, took possession of Heitman's papers and moved them to Charlotte. It is his intention to assort them and prepare a list for the benefit of persons claiming to have left valuable papers in Heitman's possession. Mr. Henry Smith, of Silver Hill, has a short that strayed off some time ago, and on Sunday before last, it was found at the bottom of a twelve feet hole at the Peters mine. It was alive when found, and is now recovering from its long fast. It was in the hole forty-one days—just one day longer than Dr. Tanner's celebrated fast.

Davie Times: Col. Risley, representing the South Atlantic and Northwestern railroad, held an informal meeting with our citizens Thursday. His proposition is that Davie county vote $100,000 or $150,000 to this road, that no part of the money is to be paid until the rail road is completed to Mocksville, or through the county. A committee consisting of the following gentlemen were appointed to notify the directors of the upper division of the Yadkin Railroad to meet at Salisbury, on Wednesday, September 1st; James A. Kelly, W. B. Clement and A. M. Booe. The meeting is to consider the question of consolidating with the Yadkin railroad, and to investigate the charter and financial condition of Col. Risley's road.
