GOING TO SCHOOL.

There's an army that masters it's legion, and marches to roll-call each day. And happy and blest are the regions which lie in the bright army's way. They troop over hill and hollow, they spring across brook and pool, and gaily and cheerily follow the summons which calls them to school.

By themselves they're a numbers, but together they're a host; they're not to be counted or numbered, not to be counted or numbered.

At school sometimes they stumbl'd, and sometimes by verbs are perplexed; and the proudest grows addend and humbled when a question is asked.

When a question is asked the next. But forgot at the briefest variation are problems and puzzles and prose. The great of the stars constellation, that late was a fountain of woes.

And the army goes back to its duty, so singing and eager and sweet. Their cheeks are as red as a cherry, their eyes are as pure as the day.

And the sound of their marching is merry. Whenever they pass on their way.

There are people forever a-sighing, and saying the world is all wrong; but somehow their doubts take to flying. At the sight of this wonderful throng. Of trouble and toil may be full, but at least there is hope where the cherry.

Items of Interest from State Immigration Department.

Quite a number of Pennsylvaniae visited our State during last week, a part of whom will probably start small businesses in N. C.

L. W. Collins, of Pennsylvania, desires to secure a farm in North Carolina; good parties having good lands would do well to correspond with him at once.

Chas. S. Perkins, of Pulaski, Oswego Co., N. Y., desires to secure some good farming land near some prosperous town or village. He seems to be a practical farmer, and would aid us considerably.

W. Hunt of 35, Church St., North Ormsby, Yorkshire, Eng., has been corresponding with Commissioner Patrick with a view of locating and starting a business. It is very likely he will locate in N. C. and buy a quantity of farming lands. He can also influence quite a number of good English farmers.

J. H. Metzler, of Lancaster, Pa., will bring out a number of capitalists and farming people during the last weeks of October to attend the North Western Convention and the State Fair, the prospects of which are very encouraging.

Jaz. A. Elting, of Hudson, N. Y., desires to secure North Carolina lands and will visit N. C. in a short while.

Georgia Sick of Prohibition.

ATLANTA, Sept. 28th.—In the Prohibition primaries the prohibitionists were defeated, the highest majority against them being 1,500 and the lowest 800 votes. Mr. Clark Howell, upon whom a bitter personal attack was made by the prohibitionists last night, led his ticket by 300 and defeated the highest Prohibitionist by 1,100 votes. It became evident early in the day that the dry men were doomed to defeat, and then they began to hedge by declaring that the vote was no test. The wet ticket was run under the name of the "Citizens' Democratic Ticket" and the dry people voted the "Law and Order ticket." An interesting incident of the day was the casting of his vote by United States Senator Jas. E. Brown. The vote today shows Atlanta only wants the opportunity to overturn the Prohibition law.

Cluverius to Hang.

STATION, Va., Sept. 30.—This morning the Supreme Court of Virginia, sitting here, handed down papers in the case of T. J. Cluverius, who stands convicted of the murder of Lillian Madison at the old reservoir in Richmond, Va., with the endorsement that the petition for rehearing is denied. This reminds the case to the Hearings Court of Richmond, by which the time will be fixed for the death penalty by hanging, unless executive clemency interposes.

The Vote in Maine.

The total vote for Governor of Maine two years ago was 141,113, of which Hollis (rep.) received 75,318; Redman (dem.) 65,595. This year the total vote was 138,918, of which Bodvall (rep.) received 68,870; Edwards (dem.) 69,158. This shows a total falling off of 9 per cent, the republican vote being reduced 13 per cent, and the democratic 4 per cent. Considering the tremendous efforts made by Blaine and his followers, this looks very much like a Pyrrhic victory. "Another such victory and I am lost."

The next Maine Legislature will be made up of 27 republicans and 4 democrats in the Senate, and 118 republicans and 33 democrats in the House. —[Lewiston Journal.]

And yet the republicans cast but 68,870 votes, while the opposition cast 69,018. Divided party-wise according to the popular vote, the republicans would have but 80 members to 71 for the opposition. By the iniquitous apportionment law of 1883, the truly good republicans stole 38 members from the wicked democrats. —[New Age.]

CLEVELAND HAS ONLY TWO COMPETITORS.—Mr. Hendricks is dead. Mr. McDonald is shelled. Mr. Thurman is far advanced in years, and Mr. Bayard's popularity has waned. If Mr. Cleveland seeks the re-nomination he has nobody to fear but Carlisle and Hill, and probably the latter may be out of the way. Mr. Blaine, on the other side, seems to be equally fortunate. Of his old opponents, Arthur is not likely to be alive two years hence, and John Sherman's friends admit that his own State is immensely divided against him. Mr. Edmunds certainly will not be in the next Presidential election. —[Providence.]

To a Man Who Would Marry.

Select the girl. Agree with the girl's father in politics and the mother in religion. If you have a rival keep an eye on him; if he is a widower keep his eyes on him.

Don't marry the girl that you have no habits. It will be your duty to say that you never marry a girl unless you are sure of yourself and your sleep.

Don't put a sweet stuff on paper. If you do you will hear it read in after years when your wife has some other purpose in indicating upon you the severest punishment known to a married man.

Go home at a reasonable hour in the evening. Don't wait for the girl to throw her whole heart into a yawn that she can't cover with both hands. A little thing like that may cause a coolness at the beginning of the game.

If you sit down on some molasses candy that little Willis has left on the chair, while wearing your new summer trousers for the first time, smile sweetly and remark that you don't mind sitting on molasses candy at all, and that "boys will be boys." Reserve your true feelings for future reference.

If on the occasion of your first call the girl upon whom you have placed your young affections looks like an iceberg and acts like a cold wave, take your leave early and stay away. Woman in her hours of freeze is uncertain, coy, and hard to please.

In cold weather, finish saying good-night in the house. Don't stretch it all the way to the front gate, and thus lay the foundation for future rheumatism, neuritis, neuralgia and chronic catarrh to help you carry the girl to death after she has married you.

Don't lie about your financial condition. It is very unbecoming to a man who has just started for himself a life of luxury in her ancestral halls to learn too late that you expect her to ask a bald-headed parent who has been uniformly kind to her to take you in out of the cold.

Don't be too soft. Don't say, "These little hands shall never do a stroke of work when they are mine," and "you shall have nothing to do in our home but to sit all day long and chirp to the canaries;" as if any sensible woman could be happy fooling away time in that sort of style, and a girl has a fine retentive memory for the soft things and silly promises of courtship, and occasionally, in after years, when she is washing the dinner dishes or patching the west end of your trousers, she will remind you of them in a cold, sarcastic tone of voice.

A Blind Man's Cutting Rebuke.

Mr. R. B. Stewart said: "There was a friend of mine preaching on Glasgow Green a few years ago, when some one from the crowd called out: 'May I speak?' After getting permission, he pushed his way through the crowd, until he was standing on the platform beside my friend. 'Friends,' he exclaimed, 'I do not believe that this man has been talking about, I do not believe in a hell, I do not believe in a judgment, I do not believe in a God, for I never saw one of them.' He continued talking in this way for awhile, when another voice was heard from the crowd: 'May I speak?' The infidel sat down, and the next man began. 'Friends, you say there is a river running not far from this place, the River Clyde. There is no such thing; it is not true. You tell me that there are grass and trees growing around me where I now stand; there is no such thing that also is untrue. You tell me that there are a great many people standing here. Again I say, that is not true; there is no person standing here save myself. I suppose you wonder what I am talking about; but, friends, I was born blind. I never saw any one of you, and while I talk, it shows that I am blind, or I would not say such things. And, you see, he said, turning to the infidel, the more you talk, the more it exposes your own ignorance, because you are virtually blind, and cannot see. Dear friends, try the life that Christ lived. There you will find life and love and everlasting joy."

The number of Jews in the world at present is but 5,300,000, whereas 5,400,000 are in Europe. There are 280,000 Jews in the United States, 2,332,600 in Russia, 1,000,000 in Austria-Hungary, 600,000 in Galicia, 630,000 in Germany, 350,000 in Germany and 80,000 in France.

John C. Fremont, who is now writing his memoirs, lives with a family in a comfortable house in Washington. The house is the property of the General and his wife, and their daughter, Mrs. Fremont, who is married, lives with the family. The General's memoirs are now being written by Mrs. Fremont, and she is now in the city of Washington.

Rev. Elias Dodson.

From the Lookoutville News.

late Rev. Elias Dodson was one of the best men the country produced, and certainly the most eccentric.

He was traveling once in Stoney county and stopped with a well-known brother in Christ. He was put to sleep in a room with a young man. Having to start early next morning, he dressed hurriedly, and by mistake put on the young man's coat. Three or four days thereafter he missed his pocket book, which he carried in his coat. He was suspected that the young man had stolen it. So down he got with his horse, and on the following day he was in the city of Stoney.

He was in that city for some time, and he was in the city of Stoney. He was in the city of Stoney, and he was in the city of Stoney.
