EDITORIAL NOTES.

We frequently read of a man killing his sweetheart or his wife and then committing suicide. It is a great pity that the fool and criminal does not begin operations at the other end of the line.

The bimetalism-by-international-agreement dodge, which the Republicans worked in the last campaign for all it was worth, has about played out. The question is becoming simplified, and in the next contest it will be free silver and bimetalism against the single gold standard.

Upon that issue thousands of silver Republicans, who relied upon international agreement in the last campaign, will be with us.

Our Republican exchanges are still harping on the McKinley prosperity. They say that it has already come and that it is only the thick-headedness of the people which prevents their seeing it. The gold pretended Democrats started out on the same line; but, as they have not entirely lost the old-time Democratic habit of telling the truth and being candid, they soon had to draw in sail, especially when 5 cent cotton got to be a standing refutation of their position. If McKinley's prosperity consists in the present conditions, then may the good Lord deliver us from any more such prosperous times.

The Asheville Citizen says "that D. M. Luther, Esq., a member of the State Democratic committee from the 9th district, will advocate before the committee its approaching meeting the plan of making the next campaign squarely on the Chicago platform and white supremacy in North Carolina."

We are with Mr. Luther in his fight. A surrender of either of these principles of the party can but mean hopeless and shameful defeat. Neither must one of them be exalted above the other—they should be our Siamese twins, our double slogan of victory in future campaigns. No alliance with any other party or with any disgruntled element of our own party, which compromises in the least these two vital principles of the Democracy of North Carolina, should be made. The work of the committee and of the party should be to uphold the eternal principles of the party first and then to adopt such a wise party policy as to make victory for those principles certain. We may have the most beneficent set of principles ever devised for the government of men; but, unless we occasionally win a victory so that those principles can be incorporated into laws, they benefit no one. The counsels of the members of the committee who believe in all of the party's creed should prevail. A campaign run by men who are Democrats on State affairs and something else when it comes to National questions can only end in disaster. Put only "all-around" Democrats on guard.

The bankers and bond-holders, not satisfied with the present suffering and hard times caused by currency contraction, will endeavor at the approaching session of Congress to have a bill passed to still further contract the currency by the retirement of the outstanding greenbacks and Sherman law coin certificates, amounting to about $500,000,000 and which bear no interest and pass at par with gold; issue interest-bearing bonds to take their place, and allow the National banks to issue bank notes on the bonds. They are not satisfied with the present amount in interest-bearing bonds which has been needlessly saddled upon the tax-payers of the country; but they ask the country to retire a half of a million of money, which bears no interest, and issue more bonds so that they can get safe investments for their money. The bankers are not satisfied with the present advantage which is given to them to issue between $200,000,000 and $300,000,000 of paper money, which cost them nothing, to the people at the highest rates of interest known to the law, but they ask that they be allowed to issue some $700,000,000 and have a monopoly of the paper money of the government. This is the gold-bug program. It has the support of Cleveland and his few followers to a man and most of the Republicans. Opposed to the bill will be the entire Democratic and Populist representation in Congress, the silver Republicans of the West and a few regular Republicans who still have a little conscience left. The probabilities are that the opposition will be able to prevent the bill's passage in the present Congress, but the greed of the bankers and bond-holders never sleeps and the question will come up in future Congresses. The silver men in future contests must not only fight for more money but to hold what the country already has.

Low Price of Land.

Chatham Record:

The low price of land was strikingly illustrated on last Saturday, at the attempted sale of the Miss Mary Smith tract, situated in this and Orange county. There are nearly 1,500 acres in this valuable farm—as productive as any in this section of the State—and although it was offered in small lots (averaging 100 acres), yet the total sum bid was a little over $6,000. The buildings and improvements on the land alone cost nearly that sum. The bids being so low none were accepted, and so there was no sale, and another effort will be made next year, but will any higher bids be offered then?

This land was devised by its former owner about ten years ago, to the Protestant Episcopal Church in this State, and was offered for sale by commissioners, appointed by that church. Miss Smith devised another valuable tract of land, situated in this county, to the University, and most of this tract was sold several years ago.

A High Old Time in Winston.

Winston was greatly excited Wednesday night over the arrest of J. W. Bradford, 60 year old, for assaulting a lady. The police chained Bradford's wrists together and refused a cash bond for his appearance. Says the Journal: "In this horrible and revolting way they reached the jail to find a big crowd of representative citizens awaiting them. The crowd guarded the jail door, determined not to let them incarcerated the man whom they had learned to love because of his long faithful services as a public officer. The officers were thus forced to accept the bond and $40 in cash was put up as a collateral for a $25 bond. The scene at the jail was a wild one. The crowd was desperate and ready to do almost anything. The treatment of Bradford was cowardly, and there cropped out an ill-feeling toward him on the part of the officers."

An Interesting Character.

Leslie's Weekly:

Charles Broadway Rous, the blind millionaire, is known far and wide over the country as a man of sterling character and strong individuality. But comparatively few know of his intense love of music. Every Sunday evening the doors of his home are opened wide with real Southern hospitality, and there is a gathering of distinguished musical folks who take an undoubted delight in playing and singing for this brave old soldier. And his enjoyment is so heartfelt and so evident that all who take part in the evening's entertainment are unconsciously incited to do their best. Mr. Rous is especially fond of the old-time songs and of the "fiddle," and nothing stirs him to so much enthusiasm as "The Arkansas Traveler," rattled off in true country-fiddler fashion. As the old hero of '61 sits with his chair drawn near to the musician of the moment, his white head uplifted, his kindly blue eyes moistened with tears, he is a fine type of the old Southern soldier.

The diseases cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla are many, because most ailments disappear as soon as the blood is enriched and purified by it.

Right You Are, Brother Daniels.

Raleigh News and Observer: There is no half way man. There is no place for any man except in one of these two great parties. The gold Democrats, who love gold and protective tariff more than the principles of Jefferson, Jackson and Bryan must necessarily land in the Republican party. Those who are schooled in the principles of Democracy, and love the party creed more than the Republican doctrine, will come back home. They will have to choose whether they will have to render civic worship to Democracy or to Mammon.

A HEALTHY WOMAN.

A perfectly healthy woman is a rare sight. Such a woman is always beautiful. Health brings clear complexion, clear eye, steady nerve, elastic step, and graceful movements. A healthy woman is a woman with healthy mucous membranes. The mucous membranes line the whole body, every organ in the body. The slightest catarrh of one of these membranes produces languor, sallow skin, listless eye, and weakening discharges. Mrs. Alvina Hankenra, Ribb Falls, Wisconsin, in a recent letter to Dr. Hartman, says: "I was troubled for ten years with chronic catarrh. I used Pe-ru-na for about eight months, and I must say that I am perfectly cured of the disease. It will be two years next June since I was cured, and I have not been troubled with any of my old symptoms."

Dr. Hartman's latest book on chronic catarrh will be sent free to any address for a short time by The Pe-ru-na Drug Mfg. Co., Columbus, O.
