PRESIDENT MCKINLEY DEAD.

HIS DEATH OCCURRED AT 2:15 O'CLOCK SATURDAY MORNING

His Improvement Had Been Constant Up to Thursday Evening When a Relapse Set In

Buffalo, N. Y., Dispatch, 14th.

President McKinley died at 2:15 o'clock. He had been unconscious since 7:30 p. m. His last conscious hour on earth was spent with the wife to whom he devoted a life time of care. He died unattended by a minister of the Gospel, but his last words were a humble submission to the will of the God in whom he believed. He was reconciled to the cruel fate to which an assassin's bullet had condemned him and faced death in the same spirit of calmness and poise which has marked his long and honorable career. His last conscious words resorted to writing by Dr. Mann, who stood at his bedside when they were uttered, were as follows: "Good bye, all; good bye to God's way. His will be done."

His relatives and members of the official family were at the Milburn house. Except Secretary Wilson, who did not avail himself of the opportunity, and some of his personal and political friends, took leave of him. The painful ceremony was simple. His friends came to the door of the sick room, looked at him and turned tearfully away. He was practically unconscious during this time. But the powerful heart stimulants, including oxygen, were employed to restore him to conscious ness for his final parting with his wife. He asked for her and she sat at his side and held his hand. He consoled her and bade her good-bye. She went through the heart-breaking scene with the same bravery and fortitude with which she had borne the grief of the tragedy which had ended his life.

The immediate cause of the President's death is understood. His physicians agree and it will possibly be required an autopsy to fix the exact cause. The President's remains will be taken to Washington and there have a state funeral. Vice President Roosevelt, who now succeeds him, may take the oath of office wherever he happens to hear the news. The cabinet will, of course, resign in a body and President Roosevelt will have an opportunity of forming a new cabinet, if he so desires.

The rage of the people of Buffalo against the assassin when they learned tonight that he was dying, was boundless. Thousands surrounded the jail and the entire police of the city and two regiments of militia were utilized to insure his protection.

Before 6 o'clock it was clear to those at the President's bedside that he was dying and preparations were made for the last sad offices of farewell from those who were nearest and dearest to him. Oxygen had been administered steadily, but with little effect in keeping away death. The President came out of one period of unconsciousness only to relapse into another. But in the period, when his mind was partially clear, occurred a series of events of profoundly touching character. Down stairs, with strained and tear stained faces, members of the cabinet were grouped in anxious waiting. They knew the end was near and that the time had come when they must see him for the last time on earth. This was about 6 o'clock. One by one they ascended the stairs. Secretary Root, Secretary Hitchcock and Attorney General Knox. Secretary Wilson also was there, but he held back, not wishing to see the president in his last agony. There was only a momentary stay of the cabinet officers at the death chamber. They withdrew, the tears streaming down their faces and the words of intense grief chinking in their throats.

"NEARER MY GOD TO THEE"

After they left the sick room, the physicians rallied him to consciousness and the President asked immediate aid. He held his hand. Despite his physical weakness, she bore up bravely under the ordeal. The President in his last period of consciousness, which ended about 7:40 p. m. chanted the words of the hymn "Nearer My God to Thee," and his last audible conscious words were taken down by Dr. Mann at the bedside were: "Good-bye, all; good-bye to God's way. His will be done."

ASKED TO BE ALLOWED TO DIE

Then his mind began to wander and soon afterwards he completely lost consciousness. His life was prolonged for hours by the administration of oxygen, and the President expressed a desire to be allowed to die. About 8:30 the administration of oxygen ceased and the pulse grew fainter and fainter. He was sinking gradually like a child into the eternal slumber. By 10 o'clock the pulse could no longer be felt in his extremities and they grew cold. Below stairs the grief-stricken gathering waited sadly for the end.

ATTORNEY GENERAL KNOX ARRIVES.

All the evening those who had hastened here fast as steam and steel could carry them drove up in automobiles or were whisked up in automobiles. One of the last to arrive was Attorney General Knox, who came at 9:30. He promptly went up stairs to look for the last upon the face of his chief. Those in the house at this time were Secretaries Wilson, Root, Hitchcock; Senators Fairbanks, Hanna and Burrows; Judge Day, Colonel Herrick, Abner McKimley, the President's brother, and his wife; Dr. and Mrs. Baer, the President's niece and her husband; Mrs. Harber and Mrs. Dugan, the President's sisters; Miss Mary Barber, Mrs. Williams, Mrs. McKinley's cousin; the physicians, including

Dr. McBurney, who arrived after 8 o'clock; John G. Milburn, John N. Scattergood, Harry Hamilton, all of this city; Secretary Cortelyou, and a number of others. Rev. C. D. Wilson, a Methodist minister, of Tonawanda, N. Y., who was the President's pastor for three years at Canton, called at the residence to inquire whether his services were needed but did not enter the house. Another Methodist minister, who has a church near-by, remained at the President's residence for two hours in the belief that his services might be desired.

SECRETARY CORTELYOU'S FORMAL NOTICE.

At 9:37 Secretary Cortelyou, who had been much of the time with the President's chief, sent out formal notification that the President was dying, but the President lingered on, his pulse growing fainter and fainter. There was no need for official bulletins after this. Those who came from the house to see the President were told that the President was dying and the end might come at any time. His tremendous vitality was the only remaining factor in the result, and this gave hope only of brief postponement of the end. Dr. Myer thought the President had 2 or 3 minutes to live, and at 11 o'clock the President was still alive and probably would live an hour.

THE MIDNIGHT SUSPENSE.

Thus minutes lengthened to hours and midnight came with the President still battling against death. At midnight hour the Milburns were in the room and the scene as estimated as though it were midnight, although a solemn hush hung over the crowd of watchers. The entire lower part of the house was aglow with light and the many attendants, absent from the city telegrams conveying the painful tidings were quickly transmitted by telegraph. The scene about the house and in the storm swept street was dramatic in its action and setting, and the spirit of the tragedy was upon those who looked upon it.

ANSWERING THE SUMMONS.

A messenger who darted out into the rain and whisked away in an electric cab gave the outside watchers the first intimation of the ill news from within. As the telegraph instruments rattled away with their frantic story, the cabinet members hastily aroused physicians began arriving. An automobile racing at top speed brought Dr. Myer first. He did not stop to speak, but rushed into the house. Dr. Mann came next and held his hand. Despite his physical weakness, she bore up bravely under the ordeal. The President in his last period of consciousness, which ended about 7:40 p. m. chanted the words of the hymn "Nearer My God to Thee," and his last audible conscious words were taken down by Dr. Mann at the bedside were: "Good-bye, all; good-bye to God's way. His will be done."

MR. BRYAN'S WORDS.

A Chicago dispatch says: When Bryan arrived here from Lincoln, he drove on to the Sherman House. He was to have addressed a Democratic meeting tomorrow, but he heard the news from Buffalo he said he would in all probability leave for Statesville tomorrow morning. While Mr. Bryan was talking his head was bowed and he appeared to be greatly dejected. Over and over again he repeated the words: "I cannot believe his life is to end this way. I have already spoken of the horror of which I regard the assassin's crime. I have already spoken of the high personal esteem in which I hold Mr. McKinley. In this moment of sorrow, I can add nothing to either."

MR. BRYAN'S WORDS.

On last Tuesday night a party of toughs visited the house of Mr. Thomas Marshall, near the Wilkes county line, and with pistols and shotguns fired several shots into the house and with rocks demolished the windows. They then went to the barn and shot the wheels of a new wagon to pieces and destroyed about an acre of growing corn. Mr. Marshall recognized two or three of the parties and next day had warrants issued for their arrest. The officer succeeded in capturing one of the parties and brought him to trial before three magistrates on Monday. His friends came and took him from the officer by force in the presence of the court, but the ropes which he was bound and turned him loose and defied any one to give evidence against him. The parties are moonshiners and they blame Marshall for having reported them to the revenue officers.

Eagle Killed in Davidson.

Last Tuesday Mr. David Berrier, a son of Mr. William Berrier, who was a mile or two from town, shot a genuine bald eagle in the woods near the seminary. The bird is a very large one, measuring 8 feet 3 inches from tip to tip, and weighing 40 pounds. It has been in the neighborhood for several days, and had carried off chickens and guineas. The eagle was purchased by Mr. N. H. Slaghter, and is being mounted by Mr. Gould Waldron. When finished, it will be given a conspicuous place in the office of Hotel March, and will make a handsome ornament.

There is reward of some $800 for Lowery and a telegram stating that a negro supposed to be the one wanted had been killed while resisting arrest, was sent to the Shelby authorities, asking what steps should be taken. The reply was that the body should be shipped to Shelby by express, and if the remains proved to be those of Jim Lowery the reward would be paid. It is likely that the body will be shipped to Shelby tomorrow.

HOWSON DISQUALIFIED TO SERVE ON THE SHELBY CASE.

Washington Dispatch, 15th. Within three hours of the time of the conveying of the Shelby case of inquiry to day it was announced that Rear Admiral Howson was disqualified from serving as a member of the court and was excused from further duty. This brought proceedings to an abrupt termination and caused a temporary adjournment of the court in order to permit the Navy Department to designate an officer to succeed Admiral Howson. No further session is probable until the early part of next week. It had been expected that little business could be accomplished on the opening day, and the prompt decision as to Admiral Howson came quite as a surprise.

REAR ADMIRAL RAMSEY SUCCEEDS HOWSON.

The Navy Department has appointed Rear Admiral Francis M. Ramsey as the third member of the Shelby Court of inquiry to succeed Rear Admiral Howson. Admiral Ramsey retired April 5th, 1877. His home is in Washington. It is understood that the court will resume the hearing Monday.

Jim Lowery, the Shelby Murderer, Supposed to Have Been Killed.

A negro, supposed to be Jim Lowery, the murderer of Chief of Police Jones at Shelby, some weeks ago, was killed by officers at Murphy today, while resisting arrest. The news which reaches here is to the effect that the officers, believing that the negro was the man wanted by the Shelby authorities, endeavored to effect his capture. The supposed murderer resisted, and the officers fired upon him with fatal result. The names of the officers who killed the negro are not obtainable tonight, but it is supposed that they are Cherokee officials.

He says that a party of from 25 to 50 persons went to Tom Marshall's house, shot the windows and doors full of holes, cut up a buggy and did other depredations. Mr. Bryan says it is thought to be the work of blockaders who thought Marshall had "turned state's evidence" and reported on them.
