FOR GORMAN AND GRAY.

A North Carolinian's Views as to the Democratic Outlook.

Mr. J. S. Carr, president of the famous Blackwell's tobacco manufactories of Durham, N. C., is here to confer with some Philadelphia capitalists with whom he made a deal to boom the historic old place of King's Mountain. Though a solid business man, he finds time to engage in politics and has been a delegate at large to the last two Democratic national conventions. At Willard's last night he said:

"In my humble opinion the winning ticket next time is Gorman and Gray, and I trust it will read that way. I would dearly love to see Mr. Gorman head the ticket, and the mere mention of his name awakens the greatest enthusiasm in North Carolina. He can easily carry New York, New Jersey and Connecticut. I have been a strong Cleveland man, but am as much against him now as I favored him in the past."

"He needlessly interfered in the silver question, and when we were threatened with the odious force bill he had nothing to say in condemnation. I hope this matter of silver will be out of the way before the convention meets, but my people are as heartily in favor of free coinage as reform of the tariff. As for the Alliance, I have nothing but good will. Its members are good honest people—the backbone of our land. They should not go outside the Democratic party, for in it lies their hope of relief.—Washington Post.

Gossip About the Speakership.

Messrs. Mills and Crisp will do excellently well to cut each other's throat in caucus, leaving some Northerner not yet mentioned to walk away with the plum.—San Antonia Express.

William M. Springer's claims to the speakership of the House of Representatives cannot be overlooked. He is a thorough Westerner, born in Indiana and reared in Illinois, and he should receive the enthusiastic support of all Western Democratic Congressmen.—Chicago Herald.

The talk of an Alliance candidate for speaker of the next National House of Representatives does not strike us as formidable. When the time comes to elect a Speaker of the House, the Democrats will take charge of the business, and will dispatch it in their own way. They have ample votes for such an end.
—Boston Herald.

The news from Washington that Mr. Mills has developed new strength in the Speakership contest will not please those New England Democrats who have espoused the cause of Mr. Crisp. However, as both Mr.
Mills and Mr. Crisp are free coinage men and free traders, and particularly bigoted and hopeless Bourbons, the difference between them is the difference between tweedledum and tweedledee.—Boston Journal.

The candidates for Speaker of the next House of Representatives are not very boisterous, but they are supposed to be getting in their summer campaign work with a good deal of quiet persistence. Mr. By-num's friends see no reason to feel discouraged over his prospects.
There are a good many entries, but no odds are laid against his winning the race.—Evansville (Ind.) Courier.

Royalty With Simple Child- hood.

The German Empress, like the Princess of Wales, is one of those ladies whose "destiny to wear a royal crown" comes after a childhood and early youth passed in a simple, almost bourgeois home.
The three Danish Princesses, of whom the Princess of Wales was the eldest and most beautiful, were their own dressmakers in their youthful days; the father of the German Empress, Prince Frederick of Schleswig-Holstein, was too poor to keep a private carriage, and according to an article on "The Girlhood of the German Empress," in Good Words, "when a drive became a necessity it was taken in an ordinary hired equipage."—[Pall Mail Gazette.

A WONDER WORKER.

Mr. Frank Hoffman, a young man of Burlington, Ohio, states that he had been under the care of two prominent physicians, and used their treatment he was not able to get around. They pronounced his case to be Consumption and incurable. He was persuaded to try Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Cold and at that time was not able to walk across the street without resting. He found, before he had used half of a dollar bottle, that he was much better; he continued to use it and is to day enjoying good health. If you have any throat,

PEOPLE'S PARTY.

Prominent Leaders of The Alliance Protest Against The Sub-Treasury Plan.

A special from Topeka, Kan., says a sensation has been caused in Alliance circles in this State by the publication of open letters from W. A. Harris and O. W. Shum, prominent leaders in the People's Party, protesting against the sub-treasury scheme. Harris is regarded as the safest leader in the Alliance and would have been elected United States Senator in place of Peffer had he not been a Confederate Colonel. Shum was the People's Party candidate for Lieutenant Governor last fall. Sub Alliance throughout Kansas, this month, will vote on the subtreasury scheme to decide whether it shall be incorporated in the People's Party platform, and indications now are that it will be defeated.

Frank McGrath, President of the Alliance, who has been warm in its advocacy, has now come out openly against the subtreasury scheme, and a big fight is looked for when the annual meeting of the Alliance occurs in September. Col. Harris declares that "after a brilliant victory has been won, the so-called sub-treasury scheme was brought forth —a scheme in its essential model ed after all the most vicious and corrupt practices which we had condemned, pattered after the illegitimate loaning of money by the government to national banks and to railroads and the warehousing and storing of goods for importers and distillers; a scheme to take the many for the benefit of the few, and of even the most shameful benefit to those few." He says of the subtreasury, business men all over the country have unanimously protested against it, and that is certain to bring about a complete overthrow of the people's party, at one abandoned.—Star.

Longfellow And His Chil- dren.

The great poet was always fond of children. He loved not only those of his own family, but all the little folks; and there were many children who visited him often, and were always entertained by Mr.
Longfellow with great kindness.
Mrs. Annie Fields gives an extract from her husband's diary, which tells how one of the poet's small friends tried to show his affection in a practical way: "I remember there was one little boy of whom he was very fond, and came often to see him. One day the child looked earnestly at the long rows of books in the library, and at length asked, "Have you Jack the Giant Killer?" Longfellow was obliged to confess that his great library did not contain that venerated volume. The little fellow looked very sorry, and presently slipped down from the poet's knee and went away; but the next morning Longfellow saw him coming up the walk with something tightly clasped in his little fists. The child had brought two cents, with which Longfellow was to buy a Jack the Giant Killer of his own."—X.

The Care Of The Eyes.

Keep a shade on your lamp or gas burner.

Avoid all sudden changes between light and darkness.

Never read or sew directly in front of the light, window or door.

It is best to let the light fall from above, obliquely over the left shoulder.

Never sleep so that on first awakening the eyes shall open on the light of a window.

Never begin to read, write or sew for several minutes after coming from darkness into light.

Never read by twilight, moon light, or any light so scant that it requires an effort to discriminate.

The moment you are instinctively prompted to rub your eyes, that moment stop using them.

If the eyelids are glued together on waking up, do not forcibly open them, but apply warm water; then warm water.—Optician Hishler.

FROM BAD TO WORSE.

The ordinary treatment of contagious blood poisoning is to drive one poison from the system by introducing another. The result, in most cases, has been that which usually follows a leap from the trying pan into the fire. To put its mildly, mercurial and other mineral poisonings have disadvantages which are hardly less serious than contagious blood poisoning. In either case the system is wrecked; and yet there is no reason why humanity should continue to suffer. It is the office of S. S. S. to cure contagious blood poisoning. For that disease the medicine is surely to specific And it is also its office to cure mercurial and other mineral poisoning. In short, S. S. S. is the great blood purifier. It destroys the germs of the contagious disease, and expels from the system all forms of mineral poisoning. It restores health and strength to the sufferer.

KANSAS KELLY.

He Accuses Southern Democrats Of Murderous Violence And Assassination.

Ex-Congressman Harrison Kelly, of the Fourth district, who succeeds Thomas Ryan when he was minister to Mexico, announces a card to day serving all relations with the Republican party and casting his future with the peoples party. In his letter he says:

I have never voted any other than the straight Republican ticket when such a ticket was in the field for national, State, or local offices; was a Republican of the strictest sect, and because it was the party of liberty, the party of progress, the party of the masses and against the classes; the party that printed in its banner and incorporated in its platform the principles of a free and fair ballot to every legal voter; the party that pledged its most sacred honor in the Obe-go platform of 1855 that if the people restored it to power in both branches of the National Government it would enact laws and enforce them that would protect the voters everywhere under the flag from the murderous violence and assassinations that had been practiced upon the Republican voters in several of the Southern States by the Democratic party until the leaders were in their bloody graves or exiled and a reign of terror suppressed.

The hope of seeing this pledge redeemed caused many Republicans in the South to hold aloft the banner of Republicanism at the cost of their lives, and many of them went down in death and others went down in banishment for the success of the cause.

The Republican party was successful and took possession of the Government in all its branches, but no law whatever was made or enacted to give protection to voters in the South; the peace of the graveyard reigns there in five States, the pledge of the Republican party is unredeemed, and in mockery and derision, it is written on the tombstones of the Republican victims by their Democratic assassins. The loud hope that this pledge would be redeemed caused by unflinching adherence to the Republican party until the adjournment of the last Congress, when the hope vanished, as the Republican opportunity to enact it into law and forever passed. I have done my best to encourage the organization of the Farmers' Alliance for the last two years, advising them to operate within the old party line as the best method of securing redress; they fought otherwise, and cut loose from the old parties. I now see their vision was clearer than mine, their wisdom greater. I have advocated in the halls of Congress and elsewhere everything embodied in the platform of the People's party, except the subtreasury and land loan schemes. These I do not indorse but believe the Government should increase by the free coinage of silver and issue of paper currency the volume of money in the country to double what it is now, gradually in the next three years.—
