A Bridegroom-elect Fails to Materialize on His Wedding Day.

A dispatch from Sharon, Mass., says: Considerable excitement a talk have been occasioned in this village and in the neighboring town of Foxboro, over the disappearance of Charles A. Bartley, of Orange N. J. just before his wedding day. The bans were published in the Catholic Church here three successive Sundays. The house for the occupancy of the bridal pair was hired and the rent paid in advance, and the wedding ring purchased and fitted on the finger of the expectant bride. The bride was a young Sharon girl, named Bridget Finn, and the wedding was to have taken place on Monday last at the Catholic Church in Stoughton, but up to the present time no knowledge of the whereabouts of Bartley has been learned. About a year ago the couple met. He was a native of New Jersey, by occupation a hatter, and was employed by the firm of Caton Bros. & Bixby. He told all his friends that he was to be married on July 11th. On the first day of July he bade Miss Finn good bye and went to the home of his parents at Orange, N. J. He was to return the following Thursday. He drew his pay and told the cashier that he was to be married, and he wanted what was due him and would be back to his work after his wedding. He failed to write to Miss Finn, and when the day for his return came without bringing him or any tidings of his, she began to grow anxious, and when three days went by without any word, and the morning of her wedding day came she was almost distracted. A brother and sister visited a friend of Bartley's, who went to New Jersey with him, but he could only tell them that Bartley said he was coming back on the same train that he took. Five days have passed since the wedding was to have taken place. The girl feels the situation keenly, but says she cannot believe that he has deliberately deserted her.

IN BLAZING CARS.

A Passenger Train Runs Into Freight Cars Loaded With Oil, and Catches Fire.

A dispatch from St. Thomas, Ont., says: A terrible accident occurred at the crossing of the Grand Trunk Railway and Michigan Central Railway, this city. An excursion train on the Grand Trunk from Port Stanley ran into a passing freight train on the Michigan Central Road with a number of cars loaded with oil attached. The engine crashed into one of these cars when the oil instantly took fire and burned with great fierceness communicating to the cars on both trains, and extending to griffins warehouse, coal and lime sheds adjoining the track on the west, and to John Campbell's dwelling on the east, all of which were burned to the ground with contents. Engineer Donnelly, of the excursion train, was burned in the wreck. The fireman jumped, and escaped with slight injuries. The forward car of the excursion train was filled with passengers, who made desperate efforts to escape from the burning car, but, notwithstanding hundreds of brave and willing hands were immediately at work to assist in their rescue, it is feared that a number of lives were lost, and that the bodies will be burned beyond recognition before they can be got out of the wreck. At eight o'clock, when thousands of people were waiting around the burning pile, one of the oil tanks on the cars suddenly exploded, throwing hundreds to the ground with great force and scattering the blazing oil in all directions, and severely, if not fatally, burning many. Nine bodies have already been recovered, burned to a crisp. It is almost impossible to ascertain with any certainty the names of those lost in the wreck until the arrival of the late train from Fort Stanley.

ROBBED IN HIS CAR.

A Railroad Man Surrenders His Cash and Jewelry to a Desperado.

A dispatch from St. Louis, says: On Monday evening Charles M. Hayes, the new general manager of the Wabash Western railroad, started for C. leago in his private car accompanied by General Freight Knight and Assistant General Passenger Agent Crane. The car has two state rooms, and in the open part of the car there are two berths. Mr. Hayes took one of the state rooms, Mr. Knight the other, and Mr. Crane went to bed in one of the open berths. About 3:30 in the morning Mr. Crane was suddenly aroused, and, on opening his eyes, saw a very big man standing by his berth with a long pistol cocked and the muzzle in close proximity to Mr. Crane's head. "Give me that watch and chain," said the robber, and Mr. Crane handed over the jewelry. About this time the porter, who was asleep in his berth at the end of the car, was aroused by the noise and entered. The burglar started to run but fell down, the negro falling on him. Then the robber pushed his pistol against the negro's stomach, and threatened to shoot. This frightened the negro, and he retreated. The thief got up and ran out on the platform. Some one inside just at that time pulled the bell cord. The train slowed up and the robber jumped off. By the time the train stopped the mauler had disappeared. No one knows where or when he got on the car.

DIED ON THE EXCHANGE.

Sudden Death of Vice-President A. B. Hill of the New York Stock Exchange.

A dispatch from New York says: One of the most distressing incidents that has ever occurred in the New York Stock Exchange transpired at noon Friday, and was surrounded by circumstances so peculiarly sad that the occurrence caused members to suspend all business at once without any preliminary notice from their chairman, Vice-President A. B. Hill, apparently in full health, ascended the platform to announce the death of M. E. de Rivas, and had hardly finished when he was taken with a sudden weakness. Friends assisted him to the main entrance, but he had just passed the flight leading to the floor when he expired. The announcement of his death was immediately made and a special meeting of the governing committee was called to take action. The stock exchange adjourned until the next morning on account of Mr. Hill's death, which is supposed to have been caused by apoplexy.

HAD TO SHOOT THE OLD MAN.

A Constable's Exciting Experience While Making an Arrest.

A dispatch from Carlisle, Pa., says: A serious affray occurred between a constable and a belligerent family at Mount Holly. About a week ago a number of arrests were made for postoffice and express robberies last spring at Mount Holly, Hunter's Run, York Springs and other places. Wm. Weigle, one of the young men arrested, was discharged for the want of sufficient evidence. Since then the wife of Benjamin Johnson, one of the prisoners, has made damaging revelations concerning Weigle. A warrant was again issued, and Constable McConigal went to serve it. He was met at the door by Weigle's father who barred his entrance and threatened his life. The constable left. After consultation with District Attorney Miller, he again started for the Weigle farm, accompanied by several men. This time he had a warrant for the father also. The old man and his son were found cradling in a field. When the constable tapped the old man on the shoulder he turned and fiercely attacked him with the cradle. His son also got his scythe in and they did effective work, gashing the constable with ugly wounds. It was only by a quick move that he escaped decapitation. McConigal retreated and the men followed brandishing their scythes. The constable then opened fire and shot the old man in the left arm and breast. The son then dropped his scythe and fled to the wooded mountain near and has not been arrested. The father ran into the house and up to his bed room, when he seized his musket and held the stairway against all comers. Finally his wife went up and persuaded him to capitulate. He was taken before a magistrate and held over for court. Officers are now looking for the son.

PRECOCIOUS DEPRAVITY.

A Colored Girl Twelve Years Old Sentenced to be Hanged.

A dispatch from Charleston, S. C., says: At Barnwell, Judge Hudson sentenced Axy Cherry, a colored girl twelve years old, to be hanged on the third Friday in September for the murder of the infant of Mr. Amy Williams of Allendale, in Barnwell county. The child was sent by her mother to act as nurse for the Williams baby. She peeped around the house and attended to her duties in so negligent a manner that she had to be constantly scolded. After a scolding one day she was overheard muttering to herself that she was not going to bother with that baby much more. A few days after this, concentrated lye was used in s ouring the floor, and when Mrs. Williams left the room for a few minutes she told Axy that the lye was poisonous and that she must not be constantly scolding. After a scolding one day she was overheard muttering to herself that she was not going to bother with that baby much more. A few days after this, concentrated lye was used in s ouring the floor, and when Mrs. Williams left the room for a few minutes she told Axy that the lye was poisonous and that she must not be constantly scolding.
