WARREN SALES OVER $173,000; MACON TEAM WINS

Postmistress Urges Continued Saving By Public; State Standing of County Not Yet Learned But Believed To Be High.

The final sale reports for War Savings Stamps during 1918 as given out today by the Warrenton postoffice for Warren county is $173,622.92. We are pleased in this connection to publish the following figures compiled by Postmistress N. McI. Moore:

Warrenton, N. C., March 10, 1919.

The following information concerning the sale of W. S. S. in the contest entered into by the Post offices of Warren County is given through the courtesy of the Warren Record. This contest began with the drive June 1st and ended December 31, 1918.

Few of the postmasters showed any lack of zeal; the greater number cooperated cheerfully in this period of war time necessity.

The effort on the part of the government to obtain help and to give help will be attended by far reaching results. To many the possession of a $5.00 stamp means the beginning of wealth. Although many are giving the 10 days notice which leads to redeeming the stamps, many others who need the cash quite as badly are doing without it. "Some other way" can usually be devised.

But we seem to be allowing the war-taught thrift to disintegrate as far as buying the new issue of stamps. To buy them one at a time is a wonderfully convenient means of providing for a time of special need.

Intelligent saving means intelligent spending. Thrift Stamps and War Savings Stamps are effective counter-acting agents against useless expenditures. Every office is supplied with them and every postmaster eager to sell. With the return of reduced postage July 1st, 1919, the Department will need more than heretofore the income from the sale of the War Savings Stamps. At least let those who pledged to buy last year and did not keep the pledge, make arrangements to redeem these obligations in stamps of the 1919 issue. There are 283 outstanding amounting to $6560.73 in the Warrenton office.

Our boys have stood a living wall, for the protection of home and honor, and are glad to have done it notwithstanding the price it has cost. Can we not stand behind them with the price of a stamp?

Mr. Mark Harris and Miss Lizzie Wright Wed.

Mr. Mark S. Harris and Miss Lizzie Wright, both of the Churchill community were united in matrimony by their pastor, Rev. J. P. Harris, at his home in Macon at three thirty o'clock on Sunday, March 9th. Their many friends wish them much happiness and success as they begin their journey together.

The Battle of September 29

It is a pleasure for the Warren Record to gain possession of the following letter. Lieut. Limer was beloved by the men of the home organization, and by a large host of friends in Warren. His death closed the earthly career of a brave soldier, a sincere friend and a christian gentleman. Lieut. Limer was a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. William Limer of Afton. The letter is as follows:

I will tell you all I can about the death of Lieut. Limer but I would much rather tell you personally about it all, for I know how hard it is to tell anything in a letter. Then, too, I write such a very poor letter.

As you no doubt know, Arch was killed on the 29th of Sept. He was then in command of the Company. I started "Over the top" just before sunrise; I was in second wave. We ran into the Germans almost as soon as we started, and had some very heavy fighting from the start, but we never stopped. Many of the boys were killed right at the start, but we knew that the Hindenburg line must be smashed; and never did my friend and commander falter, but kept on going forward. When we were right in the centre of the Hindenburg line we were told to halt to wait until our barrage again lifted. I went up to where Arch was and we both knelt down together to wait. Arch was just asking me if my wave was intact, when a shell burst right beside us. A small piece just cut my shoulder, but Arch was hit hard. He fell to the ground and I ran for the stretcher bearers. They lifted him on the stretcher and started to the rear but they hardly got started before he was dead. He did not live three minutes after he was hit: I am sure that he was knocked unconscious by the shell and never regained consciousness. As soon as the battle was over he was given a Christian burial with full military honors.

He was truly my friend and I can assure you I felt the loss very much. He was also beloved by every man in the Company, and every one of us felt the loss of a man and a soldier.

State Speaker To Be Here Saturday

The farmers of Warren county as well as the large number of business men interested in the Campaign for decreased acreage by a third and to hold all the staple on hand for thirty cents, will have the pleasure of hearing the situation discussed Saturday morning at 11 o'clock in the Court House here by Mr. T. P. Parker, of Raleigh, so wires the Cotton Association to this paper Thursday. It is expected that farmers and business men from all sections will attend and that the campaign over Warren will receive a big boost under the inspiration and information contained in the speakers' message.

And What Did Charlie Do?

"What a beautiful dog, Miss Ethel!" exclaimed her bashful admirer. "Is he affectionate?" "Is he affectionate?" she asked archly. "Indeed he is. Here, Bruno! Come, good doggie, and show Charlie Smith how to kiss me."—Answers.

1—Belgian workmen beginning to restore the entrance and subway connections of the great railway station in Ghent, destroyed by the Germans. 2—Scene at Hendon aerodrome, England, when Lord Londonderry for the government presented to the Canadian government fifteen airplanes. 3—Col. F. M. Wise, commander of the Second Battalion, Fifth Marines, in the battle of Chateau Thierry, and Mrs. Wise photographed on the colonel's arrival in New York.

America's Basis of Reconstruction

(Barnes R. Harris, in Merchant's Journal and Commerce.)

No American can appreciate today the greatness of the country which he lives in without letting his gaze go back over the pages of history and chronicling the progress of the nations from ancient times to the present glorious dawn of a new era of peace which will soon usher in new hope and new happiness for all mankind everywhere.

Lest we forget our fortunate position, let us go back and trace the progress of different civilizations step by step up to the present hour. It begins with the city of Tyre that flourished in David and Solomon's time on a small island in the Mediterranean. With only 25,000 inhabitants peopling its historic houses, Tyre was the financial and commercial capital of the ancient world. Phoenician ships dropped their silver anchors in every bay, pouring into the arteries of trade her famous purple fabrics, her amber, the copper of Cyprus, and also gold and silver work, and carrying her commerce to the Atlantic coast of Europe and the furthestmost end of Africa. This was the first merchant marine, the marine which transported the troops of Xerxes and Alexander the Great. As the financial center of that time, she dictated the commercial destinies of colonies and debtor nations at the hand of her exporters.

Time changed. All that is left of this famous city is the little village of Sur on the Syrian Coast. For she yielded her commercial crown during the march of the centuries on their westward way, successively to Carthage, then to Italy, then to Hamburg then to the Haseatic League of the Baltic, then to Portugal, then to Spain, then to Holland and finally to Britain.

Secures Valuable Automobile Patent

The friends of Mr. Howard F. Jones will be pleased to know that he has received United States Patent on his Ford Oil gage and gasoline gage.

Mr. Jones has had models made and has been demonstrating the value of the little invention on the truck of the American Tobacco Co. since last Fall. It has given splendid results. The field for this invention is almost unlimited. There are nearly two million Ford cards and trucks in actual use of 1917-18 and 1919 models, and the promise of the Ford Motor Company that its output for 1919-20 will exceed that of any year makes the field for this little invention a very large one. In addition to its value for measuring the oil in the Ford crank case, it is the only gasoline gage which shows the quantity of gasoline in the tank and at the same time automatically removes dirt, sediment and water from the gasoline.

The Ford oil gage can be carried in the vest pocket and attached to the Ford car by a ten year old boy in five minutes by removing the bottom petcock on crank case and replace with the "Sosomeple," as Mr. Jones designates the gage. We understand that the oil gage will be put upon the market in a short time by Mr. Jones and that it will be sold at $1.25 on your "money-back" plan after ten days trial, if not satisfactory. It is the little device of this character sold in large quantities at small profit that bring large fortunes to successful inventors.

News Items From Creek Community

Spring is here! The farmers are very busy with their crops. We are glad to see such beautiful weather.

The influenza situation is much better in our community now. Misses Eula B. Paschall and Ruth Lambert spent the week-end in Henderson last week.

Miss Eula B. Paschall received a letter from her brother Millard who is now stationed in Germany, saying he would be home by the 15th of March.

Mr. B. P. Lambert made a business trip to Smilax, Va. Tuesday.

Mr. J. C. Cooper will make an interesting talk Sunday afternoon at the Presbyterian church at three o'clock. The public is cordially invited.

Mrs. B. P. Lambert received a card from her son Lewis, who is now stationed at Port Montcalm, France. He is well and getting on nicely, but will spend most of this year in France.

We extend our heartiest congratulation and best wishes to Mr. A. P. Watkins who was married recently.

Sgt. Henry Horne Back From France

Many friends of Sergt. Henry Horne, of Rocky Mount, but a member of H. Company, 30th Old Hickory Division, are pleased to welcome him here where he has often visited at the home of his grandfather Prof. John Graham and where he attended school.

Mr. Horne was a member of the local organization for sometime, having joined under Captain W. A. Graham. He was on the Mexican Border with the Company. He went to France in May as a Bugler but discarded his position for one more active. He was in the battle of the 29th in which the supposedly impregnable Hindenburg line was smashed by the dash and cold nerve of America's valiants.

Mr. Horne wears a gold chevron for six months Over There; a red chevron of honorable discharge obtained the latter part of February, and the insignia of his division—an O surrounding and H—for old Hickory, which division has sustained every principle of bravery and courage of its namesake "Red Hot" Andy Jackson and has written upon foreign fields the undying bravery of Americanism.

Mr. Horne is accompanied by his mother. They are the guests of Prof. and Mrs. John Graham and family.

COLORED SOLDIER RETURNS FROM OVER SEAS WEDNESDAY

Sergt. Ed Hendrick, son of Aaron Hendrick of this city, reached home Wednesday after almost a year's absence in the army. Sergt. Hendrick went over in June and with his detachment was assigned duty in a gun repair shop near the front where everything from a three inch gun to a pistol was repaired. He speaks highly of the manner in which the soldiers were treated on the other side, but is glad to get home.

CHML URGED TO ACTION

LESS THAN HALF ARMENIAN-SYRIAN RELIEF FUND

Raised By Warren; Time Extended Thru March To Guarantee Oversubscription of the County Quota of $1200.

The country is far short of its Armenian and Syrian Relief Drive quota of $1200.00, we learn today from Treasurer J. E. Rooker. Less than half of the amount has been raised for these destitute people. The following letter from State Headquarters gives an extension of time and it is expected the following gentlemen as township chairmen will make the canvass and place Warren's record beside that made by every previous relief drive: Six Pound—J. M. Coleman; River—R. D. Fleming; Hawtree—Coley Perkinson; Smith Creek—Bob White; Nutbush—J. A. Kimball; Sandy Creek—Wm. Stewart; Shocco—J. W. Burroughs; Fishing Creek—D. L. Robertson; Judkins—Fletcher Bobbitt; Warrenton—R. B. Boyd; Fork—R. E. Williams; Roanoke—H. L. Wall.

Raleigh, N. C., March 12—State Chairman J. Y. Joyner, of the Armenian-Syrian Relief Campaign, has announced that the campaign will continue throughout the present month to give several counties in the State opportunity to reach their quotas. Dr. Joyner realizes that conditions following the armistice tended to upset plans for the campaign, and that the people are slow to recognize the urgency of the appeal of the starving people of the Near East; but he is certain that when they know just how desperate the situation in Armenia is, how many lives are in jeopardy, they will respond to the call.

Secretary of War Baker said in a cablegram:

"The need of the people whom your committee is striving to serve is so grievous and appealing that the department desires to do everything within its power to cooperate in relieving the condition of these people as far as this may be possible."

President Wilson has issued three proclamations urging the people of the United States to give liberally to this cause. He is willing to ask America to give because he knows there is no other hope of saving the lives of the four millions of people who are starving. Among these suffers are 400,000 helpless little children who have lost their parents either by starvation or at the hands of the Turkish murderers. North Carolina cannot afford to fail in doing her share in this worthy cause.
