HAS TYPHOID ON BIG HUMP

Vaccinated Number Citizens At Littleton, Jack Johnson's Store and Elams Thursday. All Citizens Urged To Seek Protection

The anti-typhoid campaign in Warren started with interest yesterday in Littleton, at Elam and at Jack Johnson's Store. Warrenton Boy Heads Junior Class

John H. Kerr, Jr., was elected president of the Junior class at the University of North Carolina in the recent class election. Only five votes in the entire class were cast against him. He was recently elected a member of the Tar Heel staff also. Many friends here are pleased with the honor bestowed.

CREEK ITEMS

A very heavy rain fell here last Sunday evening, but it must have been heavier below here, judging from the washed condition of the crops from Inez to Arcola. Cotton, corn and tobacco are very much damaged.

Mr. and Mrs. Geoghegan gave the young people a delightful ice cream supper last Tuesday night.

Miss Elenor Powell, of Inez, spent Sunday night with friends here.

This community was shocked to learn of the sudden death of Mrs. George Moore which occurred at her home on the Connell farm last Sunday afternoon during the rain storm. She was going about the house as usual when she fell to the floor without speaking and was dead by the time she could be put on the bed. She left seven children, the oldest being about twelve years old.

Vaccine Is Cheap Life Insurance.

Someone has said that the state of a man's civilization may be accurately judged by the foresight he displays. Insurance is an index to foresight; it means looking into the future, the consideration of probable risks, and providing against such risks.

North Carolina people, as a rule, believe in insurance. Look at the lighting rods on the homes and even the barns,—insurance against lightning. Now there are only ten or twelve deaths a year in North Carolina from lightning, so that an individual's chance of being killed in North Carolina each year is one in two hundred and forty thousand. Considering the slight risk and the expense of lighting rod insurance, the man who uses them is a powerfully strong believer in insurance.

The trouble with out people in the insurance business is their failure to recognize relative values and risks. By that we mean the size of the risk on the one hand, and the amount paid for the insurance on the other hand. To illustrate, let us return to the home with the lighting rods; cost, $100; risk to life, one in two hundred and forty thousand a year. The same country home has the most primitive, insanitary, open back closet from which droves of flies carry infectious material into the dining room and kitchen during the whole summer. Cost to make closet sanitary, $10. Now this man's danger is one in 480 of contracting typhoid fever, and one in 4,800 of dying from the disease during the year. If he has five members in his family, the risk is five times greater, and if he considers the risk of contracting other fecal-borne diseases, dysentery and diarrheal diseases of children, he must multiply the risk again by three. The man has no sense of relative values—the man with the good lighting rods and the bad privy.

Typhoid vaccination is the cheapest insurance that a man can get. It costs him absolutely nothing, his county and state are paying for it; in other words, he has paid for it already in paying for his taxes. It gives him almost absolute insurance against typhoid fever, regardless of his surroundings, for four years and some insurance against typhoid fever for his whole life time. And suppose he doesn't take it and within the next four years somebody hauls him, or hauls his child to the cemetery dead of typhoid fever, a death that he could have easily prevented—by being vaccinated, free vaccination, too. What about the question of moral responsibility? "Thou shalt not kill," the first great civil law, covers both homicide and suicide; includes killing your neighbor, killing a member of your family, or killing yourself by an act of commission, using a gun or a knife or a stick, or an act of omission, criminal carelessness, declining to be vaccinated against typhoid fever when the opportunity was presented at your very door.

Blackberries are ripening—also red bugs.

Summer School Opens Monday.

Director J. Edward Allen announces all in readiness for the opening of the Warren County Summer School here Monday morning at 8:45 in the Warrenton State High School building at the foot of Fifth avenue.

At least, twenty-five teachers are expected to take this course of training conducted under the director of Prof. Allen assisted by Mrs. D. P. Boyer, of Richmond, in charge of Primary work; Miss Mary E. Young, of Henderson, Grammar grade work; Miss Annie Lee Rankin, Home Economics, and Supt. Howard F. Jones, School Law.

The Domestic Science course will be taken in the County Commissioners room at the Court House and will be arranged to permit ladies of the town and county to be present during classes. All other work will be conducted at the school.

The chapel exercises and general assembly which will end July 11th will be held following three periods of departmental work. The school will close each afternoon at 3:15.

Director Allen requests that all those in or near town who can offer board and lodging to the teachers let it be known.

All indications are that the Institute which will end July 11th will be a thorough success and will, in addition to academic benefit, provide enjoyment socially, the chief event of the social program being the five-day chautauqua which opens here the second day of the Institute promising entertainment of educative worth.

Put yourself in the other fellow's shoes occasionally.

"Keep your troubles to yourself; other people have enough of their own."

"As long as your conscience is your friend don't worry about your enemies."

Musical Program At Chautauqua

Music lovers are promised a rare treat at the Community Chautauqua this year, for every variety of musical entertainment is included on its program. The opening night attraction is the famous Del Mar Ladies Quartet and Singing Orchestra which with its original, attractive costumes and artistic setting forms a musical attraction of universal appeal. As each of these four artists is a specialist in her own particular line, the entertainment is of an unusual kind presented in an unusual way. The variety of the program is the greatest charm, for everything from light, popular melodies to the standard classical selections that cannot be heard too often is included. These clever artists sing as well as they play, and in addition give clever recitations and readings. It's just an old-fashioned son fest of the choicest kind that is designed to include everybody's favorite melodies.

Music Illustrated and Explained

Entirely different in its appeal is the program offered by the Misses Keller Recital Company, for these two talented artists are presenting a program of typically American music. They believe that our country possesses as fine talent as any European, and it is to encourage the development of native talent that their work is designed. They present the finest of American compositions, including some of Miss Luella Keller's own work that has won the approval of the highest American critics. In addition to their charming rendition of new and unusual compositions, Miss Keller gives a brief lecture that will be appreciated by every lover of music who has not the time to devote to lengthy study. Every one who has heard a piece of music and wondered what it was, what it meant, and why it was so appealing, will be glad to hear this simple inspiring talk on the language of music, which gives sufficient background for the appreciation of the greatest compositions.

Indian Musicians an Unusual Feature

The most striking feature of the musical program is the great Haskell Indian Orchestral Band, which is made up of the representatives of twelve different Indian tribes. The performers are under the protection of the United States Government, which has given its sanction to the tour in order that the general public may know the progress our Red Brother is making. This is the first public tour this remarkable organization has made since its spectacular appearance at the St. Louis Exposition, when it was one of the biggest sensations of the season.

Native Indian songs and dances will be presented by some of the members in the full costumes of their tribes; costumes which have been handed down from generation to generation for hundreds of years. Prominent among the performers is Joan La Mere, who with a company of dancers presents the famous Indian Sun Dance, the great war dance, and the tribal ceremonies. The soloist of this group is the famous Cherokee Soprano, Sarsa Carey, the talented

Clemenceau Against Lessening German Penalty, Over 375,000 Yanks Get Home In June

575,000 TROOPS RETURN IN JUNE

Paris, June 11.—General Pershing had advised that he proposed to transport 375,000 men homeward during the month of June. This breaks all previous records for moving troops overseas and exceeds the number Great Britain moved across the channel in any month.

STATEMENT BY P. M. GENERAL BURLESON

Washington, June 11.—Declaring the strike of wire employees, which began today, was "wholly without justification," Postmaster General Burleson said in a statement today that "no amount of pressure will avail to make the wire control board extend or go beyond rules and regulations affecting employees laid down during the war by the National War Labor Board."

Mr. Burleson said his information was that the telegraphic traffic had not and would not be delayed. Government business, which makes up the bulk of that handled by the telegraph companies here, was reported moving as usual today, and at the State Department it was said that had been no interruption of cable communication with Europe.

WILD CAT GUNNERS REACH NEWPORT NEWS

Newport News, Va., June 11.—The 318 field artillery, the last of the brigade of Wild Cat gunners, arrived here this afternoon on the transport Siboney, just eight days after they sailed from Brest for America. The regiment was in command of Col. Sharp, who relieved Col. C. B. Robinson as commanding officer a short time ago.

Almost fifty per cent of the regiment's personnel was composed of men from Tennessee, while the other half was made up of fighters from the two Carolinas. In the ranks of the regiment were a small number of replacements, who did not sail with the organization when it left New York last summer, but they took the place of men who had been taken away on account of illness or for other reasons, because the regiment did not see active fighting.

SEVERITY OF THE TERMS HAS NOT BEEN LESSENER

Hope again is expressed in Paris that the reply of the allied and associated governments to the German counter proposals to the demands made in the peace treaty soon will be in readiness for presentation to the Germans. Friday again is mentioned as the probable day.

The commissions to which were entrusted the study of various problems brought up by the German rejoinders all have about completed their work and the council of four has settled by discussion more of the important provisions of the treaty over which there had been divergences of opinion inside the council. These questions include the reparations Germany shall make and a refusal to give Germany the mandate over her former colonies.

Premier Clemenceau of France, who has contended strongly against any lessening in the severity of the terms of the treaty, apparently has won his point, for advices from Paris say that the document is to remain virtually unchanged as to text and that the main changes are explanations, rather than modifications.

A MERE ACQUAINTANCE.

The young man was calling on the daughter of the household. He stepped into the next room, where her father was seated.

"Mr. Jones—er—ah. That is, can I—er—will you?"

"Why, yes, my boy; you may have her."

"How's that? Have whom?"

"My daughter, of course. You want to marry her, don't you?"

"No, sir. I just wanted to find out if you would endorse my note for $100."

"Certainly not. Why, I hardly know you."—Exchange.

W. G. ROGERS HEADS LOCAL CHAUTAUQUA TICKET SALE

Assisted By Four Teams In Warrenton; Programs Staged On Academy Grounds At 4 and 8:30 Each Afternoon.

The chautauqua ticket committee under the chairmanship of Mr. W. G. Rogers began its campaign here Wednesday morning following a meeting of several interested people in his office. The town was divided into four sections with main street one divisional line and the street from Boyd-Gilliam Motor Company to the Opera House the central division.

Mrs. W. D. Rodgers, Jr., Mrs. J. B. Boyce and Mr. J. P. Scoggin were assigned northwest Warrenton; Mr. M. C. McGuire, Miss Edith Burwell and Mrs. M. C. McGuire were given the northeast section; Miss Mary R. Burroughs, Miss Mary Chaucey and Mr. Fred Mosley were given southwest Warrenton; W. H. Burroughs, Mrs. Mamie Burwell and Miss Mamie Williams were to canvas the southeast portion of the town. The cotton and box mills were assigned Mrs. J. E. Rooker and Mrs. Howard F. Jones. Messrs. W. G. Rogers, Miss Norma Connell, Mr. J. E. Rooker and W. Brodie Jones were to sell tickets at large. The guarantors out of town are also members of the Ticket committee and every citizen is asked by the Chautauqua association to help boost this community attraction.

A unique advertising scheme has been devised in the form of a red, white and blue Chautauqua barrel stationed Wednesday afternoon in front of Burroughs' with the purpose of moving it down the middle of the sidewalk along a 500-foot course to the ticket goal—each ticket sold entitles the barrel to take a step. The barrel is moved when definite reports are received from the Ticket committee and had already reached the 150 mark yesterday morning, halting temporarily in front of Allen & Fleming.

Many citizens leave this morning at nine o'clock from the Court House on a chautauqua boosting and advertising parade embracing surrounding towns in an effort to sell tickets and invite all of Warren to come to Warrenton for five big days of fun. Every car in town is invited to participate.

The Old Academy lot will be headquarters. The tent is especially arranged to catch every breeze and comfortable seats will be provided. The afternoon performances will begin at 4 o'clock and the night attractions at 8:30.

Miss Mary E. Chaucey in charge of the Junior chautauqua will be assisted by a playground worker from the home office. Numbers of original games will be brought to the community and the children are to have five days of real fun beginning with a Junior parade.

President Rooker, the ticket committee and those in charge are looking for a banner chautauqua.
