Parade in N. Y.

PERSHING GIVEN MAMMOTH WELCOME HOME

Streets Flanked With Cheering Crowds; Regimental Flags Receive Tumultuous Ovation; 25,000 In Line of March.

New York, Sept. 10.—With Pershing at their head and with the cross of war twinkling on their storied banners the First Division of the Regulars marched down Fifth avenue today, the colors of three regiments of infantry were twined with the four-ranger of France, symbol of gallantry, and on the breasts of hundreds of marchers were ribbons bestowed for heroism.

Behind the stalwart doughboys, their bayonets gleaming, rumbled field artillery of every type and back of the guns came the divisional trains. In the surging, swinging, rhythmic stream which poured down the avenue were 25,000 men, the flower of the American army.

Rides At Head of Line.
At the head of the five-mile line rode the commander of all the soldiers under the Stars and Stripes. Behind him, as guard of honor swung "Pershing's Own," the composite regiment of six-foot infantrymen who had followed him through the flag-decked street of foreign capitals.

The broad avenue was banked from the far end of Central Park to Washington Square with dense masses of humanity. Myriads waited for hours under leaden skies, when they knew they had no hope of seeing the procession. Every window and every roof along the way was packed with spectators. Countless thousands stood at the Eastern edge of Central Park and at least 100,000 sat in the city's grandstand and those erected by speculators. The cheapest seats were $5 but the last of them were sold hours before the starting bugle sounded.

With the gathering of the great host, almost before daybreak, the scene was set for the most thrilling and picturesque review the city ever witnessed.

Overcome By Reception.
For General Pershing it was the culmination of a long series of scenes of adulation. He said he was overwhelmed by the reception given him when he set foot on the shores of Manhattan Monday, but even that paled into insignificance compared with the frenzied greeting that was his today.

Proud of the gallant young veterans who marched behind him, the Commander rode slowly down the avenue. The brave bronzed veterans were worthy of all the pride their chief could feel. Their regimental flags had never known defeat and under them 5,000 men had died in France. More than 1,500 fell on the field of Soissons and almost as many more on the Meuse and in the Argonne.

The grim, heartrending roll of casualties is longer than the roster of the division.
Meets Cardinal Mercier.
As the parade passed St. Patrick's Cathedral it was unexpectedly halted and General Pershing dismounted and crossed to the reviewing stand where Cardinal Mercier sat with Archbishop Hayes and a number of other church dignitaries. The cheering rose to a deafening volume as the famous soldier clasped hands with the heroic Belgian prelate.

The Cardinal was accompanied to the Pershing parade reviewing stand by Brand Whitlock, American minister to Belgium, and Mrs. Whitlock. After the parade had passed, the Belgian primat was escorted to the Pennsylvania station where he boarded a train for Baltimore at 12:23.

I see that you have at last run down that rumor about a no-headed ghost.

Oh yes! That was George Washington Jones wearing a light suit on a dark night.

Highly Successful Meeting At Plains
Rev. G. B. Starling is assisting Dr. J. T. Gibbs in a successful meeting at the Warren Plains Methodist church this week. The spiritual effect upon the entire community is being felt by the strong preaching and many are joining the church. Services at 4 and 8:30 p. m. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Organize For A Fair Price

Raleigh, N. C., Sept. 11.—With the selection of Mr. S. G. Rubinow of the Agricultural Extension Service, as campaign director for the impending drive in October for membership in the North Carolina division of the American Cotton Association, plans are now rapidly taking shape for the complete organization of the cotton farmers of North Carolina. Mr. Rubinow is rapidly working out the details for the organization, and will secure a corps of assistants for the work.

It is planned to make a house to house and a farm to farm campaign during the month of October, at which time at least 70,000 members are expected to be enrolled in the Association from the cotton growing counties of the State. The local farm demonstration agents of the Agricultural Extension Service, and several individuals and organizations have already pledged their support to the movement.

Many prominent speakers have been invited to the State during the time of the campaign, and as soon as they have given definite acceptance to these invitations, announcements of the places and dates of meetings will be made.

Mr. T. B. Parker, well known farmer and Director of Farmers' Institutes in the State, will handle the speaking program of the campaign, and, under the present arrangement, Mr. F. H. Jeter, Agricultural Editor of the Extension Service, will assist Mr. Rubinow with the publicity work.

It is planned to make the campaign short and intensive, with an effort being made to enroll every single cotton farmer in North Carolina as a member of the North Carolina division. The American Cotton Association, as now planned, will be a permanent organization with branch offices in all of the large cotton consuming countries of the world, and will devote its entire energies to securing fair prices for American grown cotton, both at home and abroad. It has been seen that this is the only way in which the movement for a fair price of cotton can be successful, and it is hoped by the authorities that every cotton farmer in the State will enroll himself as a member.

Detailed information in connection with the work of the Association can be had by writing to Mr. S. G. Rubinow, State Campaign Director, Raleigh, N. C.

LALLEY LIGHT'S VARIOUS USES EXEMPLIFIED AT STRICKLAND'S

Mr. H. S. Deal, district Lalley Light representative, has been spending the week in Warrenton with local dealer W. R. Strickland in reference to this compact farm lighting and power system.

In this connection we call attention to the testimonials of its worth and to the part it played during the war as evidenced by the advt. on page three. In addition to these testimonials many have come to Mr. Strickland from Warren farmers who have installed the system.

A unique array of its various uses may be seen on display at Strickland's garage. Those interested, and all should be it seems, in providing more home comforts will act wisely by investigating.

FIVE DEAD FROM CYCLONE WHICH VISITED HAVANA

Havana, Sept. 10.—Five persons are known to be dead and several others are missing as a result of the cyclone which swept over the city last night flooding the greater part of the city with huge waves from the gulf which swept over the sea wall leaving the streets strewn with fallen trees and debris. The electric lighting and telephone systems are badly crippled but it is impossible as yet to estimate the damage which is very heavy.

In Memory Miss Mary Alice Jones

Miss Mary Alice Jones lived in Warrenton practically all her life, and was pretty well known to everybody, but possibly I knew her a little better, having been close friends and near neighbors for many many years.

Were I to write all the deeds of kindness and love she rendered to those about her, they would be numberless. I have been near her in every phase of life for nearly fifty years and if she ever criticized any one unkindly I have no recollection of it. She saw the good and not the evil in people and would not harm the very least of God's creatures. A few days before her death she gave me her hymn book which she had by her side and asked me to read two hymns, then she closed her eyes, repeated the twenty-third psalm, and turned her head and fell asleep.

She had her share of life's sorrows; in her earlier years the loss of a little sister cast a shadow over her from which she never entirely recovered; after that a brother, then her mother an invalid for many years, and after all the tender watch and care, which was beautiful to see, died leaving her in a very weakened state of health. This was not all—her father lost his health, and was quite feeble a long time. Although she was in such a weak condition herself, managed some how to keep up and minister to his needs as best she could to the day of his death.

Most of us can in some way or other

Rainbow Marriage at Macon

The Macon Methodist Church, crowded with friends from the surrounding neighborhood and many interested visitors from a distance, was Wednesday at high noon the scene of a beautiful wedding when Mr. Herman Rodwell, of Oakville, led to the altar Miss Alice Britton Rodwell, daughter of Mr. John E. Rodwell, of Macon.

The church was tastefully decorated in white and green over which a soft glow of candles fell with accentuating beauty. Just before the bridal party entered the church Mr. Burton Rodwell, brother of the bride, beautifully sang "I Love You" and as the expectant hush of entrance seized those present the strains of Mendesshon's wedding march softly played by Miss Minnie Rodwell filled the church with its harmony.

The groomsmen were Messrs. Clyde E. Rodwell, Brown Coleman, Wilton Rodwell, of Norfolk, and Everett Gill, of Wake Forest. The bride's maids, Misses Bertha Morris, of Franklinton, Annie Gill, of Wake Forest, Pattie Perry, of Macon, and Myrtle Rodwell, of Floraldom, Ala., in organdy and carrying astors formed with Miss Annie Gregory, of Stovall, as maid of honor, in white georgette, a rainbow wedding group of beauty. The bride attired in a travelling suit of blue with accessories and carrying a huge bouquet of bride's roses, entered upon the arm of her father and was met by the groom with his best man, Mr. R. O. Rodwell, at the altar. Preceding the bride little Marvin Drake, Jr., bore the ring in the heart of a lilly from which it was extracted for the ring ceremony. During the impressive ring ceremony performed by Dr. J. T. Gibbs Schubert's Serenade was softly played.

Following the marriage the couple motored to Norlina where amid good wishes and abundance of rice they left for a wedding trip to western North Carolina and other points.

Miss Rodwell is the attractive daughter of Mr. John E. Rodwell, of Macon, and has a host of friends here and thruout the county. The groom is a successful business man of Warrenton.

Out of town attendants upon the marriage include Mr. and Mrs. N. M. Drake, of Weldon; Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Agelasto, of Norfolk; Mr. E. P. Rodwell, of Floraldo, Ala.; Mrs. M. W. Harrison, of Bracey, Va.; Miss Irene Rodwell, of Raleigh; Mr. and Mrs. Holt Rowan, of Hamlet; Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Harris and Miss Mary Harris, Mr. Walter and Miss Mamie Gardner, Mr. T. O. Rodwell, Mrs. W. D. Rodgers, Jr., Rev. C. A. Jones and Mrs. Howard F. Jones and W. Brodie Jones, of Warrenton.

Com'unity Chautauqua Club Hay Ride
Under direction of Playground Leader Nan Rodwell, the children of the Community Chautauqua Club, enjoyed a hay ride aboard a truck yesterday afternoon from 6:30 to 8. Before the ride much exercise and excitement was caused by notices posted in different sections of the town each directing somewhere else. Following instructions the crowd finally assembled and left in great glee for the outing. It proved enjoyable thruout despite two punctures which brought the party back late.

There are forty four members of the club with eight additions this month.

Are We League to Lose in Favor

DANGER IF PEOPLE FORGET LESSONS WAR THRIFT

Saving and Thrifty Living Alone Will Guarantee Sound Economic Future Which Must Be Basis of Progress.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 10.—"The next two months will give the answer as to whether America won a victory in the war or suffered a colossal defeat," said William Mather Lewis, Director of the Savings Division of the Treasury Department, in a message addressed to the six million members of the War Savings Societies throughout the United States today.

"The war cost many thousands of priceless American lives and billions of hard earned dollars. This treasure was spent in vain if the lessons taught by the war are not put into practice in the United States. America financed her mighty war machine and fed the starving Allies through the thrifty practices which our formerly spend-thrift people suddenly developed. Thrift will win the victory in the trying period of reconstruction.

"But thrift is not evident at this time, when, as President Wilson says, 'we are facing tasks more difficult, more complex, less easily understood, than those of war.' One of the greatest of reconstruction tasks is to reduce the cost of living. This menace will not be conquered by boosting the wages of labor. It will be handled by allowing production to catch up with consumption, and this can only be done by careful spending and elimination of wastefulness.

"The Federal Trade Commission has begun an investigation of companies promoting 'wild cat' oil stocks. Such concerns flourish only when there is 'easy money,' when the people through extravagance develop the get-rich-quick germ.

"The Savings Division of the Treasury Department is receiving reports from the field indicating that pawn shops, stock promoting concerns and a certain type of merchandizing houses are reaping a rich harvest through the fact that owners of Liberty Bonds are willing to sacrifice these securities at prices far below the market in order to satisfy the desire for luxuries or to secure stock on which they are promised an impossibly high rate of interest.

"If the people are not willing to protect their personal prosperity and the welfare of their Government at this critical time by practicing wise economy, by holding on to their Liberty Bonds and War Savings Stamps, and by waging an unceasing fight against any merchant who seeks to overcharge them—if, in other words, the thrift lessons of war are forgotten, then we are a defeated nation and not a victorious one."

ONE BLUE STAR, 198 GOLD A FORM SERVICE FLAG

Atlanta, Ga., Sept. 1.—Among all the service flags flown in America in the past two years, one flag is unique. Upon it burns a single star of blue; the others are all gold, 198 of them.

This flag hangs in the marble building of the American Red Cross national headquarters in Washington. The single blue star represents the 19,877 Red Cross nurses in active duty with the army and navy corps and the Red Cross during the war. The gold stars represent the Red Cross dead.

The first two were sewn on the flag in memory of Mrs. Edith B. Ayres and Miss Helen Burnett Wood, of Chicago, both of whom were killed by the explosion of a defective shell on the Steamship Mongolia in May, 1917, while on their way to France.

The last star on the flag is for Jane A. Delano, the "Florence Nightingale of the war," who directed the American Red Cross Nursing Service and sleeps today with the American dead in the military cemetery at Savenay, France.

The other 195 stand for nurses who rest today in the soils of many lands America, England, Belgium, France, even Germany, where a white cross marks the grave of Jesse Baldwin, Summerville, Pa., who was cited for extraordinary heroism when her hospital was shelled and later, going with the Army of Occupation, died at Coblenz.

WILSON ON TOUR STATES TO WESTERN AUDIENCE

While World Waits For Leadership In Business and a Quick Readjustment American Senate Fritters Time Away.

On Board President Wilson's Special Train, Sept. 10.—To a crowd which surrounded his private car today at Mandan, N. D., President Wilson declared a week of travel in the heart of the country had convinced him that the nation stands together for an international guarantee of peace.

"I am glad to get out to see the real folks," he said. "To feel the touch of their hands and know as I have come to know, how the nation stands together in the common purpose to complete what the boys did who carried their guns with them over the sea.

"We may think that they finished that job, but they will tell you they did not; that unless we see to it that peace is made secure they will have the job to do over again, and we, in the meantime, will rest under a constant apprehension that we may have to sacrifice the flower of our youth again.

Address Is Cheered.
"The whole country has made up its mind that that shall not happen; and presently, after a reasonable time is allowed for unnecessary debate, we will get out of this period of doubt and unite the whole force and influence of the United States to steady the world in the lines of peace. And it will be the proudest thing and the finest thing that America ever did. She was born to do these things, and now she is going to do them."

The speech was cheered by the crowd, which included many Indians. Then a woman called out, "Where is Mrs. Wilson?" and the others took up the cry persistently until the first lady of the land appeared. There were cheers for her and the President as the train pulled out.

At a number of other short stops during the day Mr. Wilson came out on the rear platform to shake hands, but on the whole it was a day of rest while his train sped westward, across the North Dakota plains. The only set speech during the day was at Bismarck, the State capital, during a two-hour noon-day stop, and for the first time since he left Washington a week ago there was no night address. The Presidential special picked up a second engine late today as it began to climb into the Rockies on one of the longest continuous pulls of its ten thousand mile journey. The next schedule stop after Bismarck was at Billings, Montana, where the President will speak tomorrow morning.

RESOLUTION OF RESPECT

We, the members of the Woman's Auxiliary of Emmanuel church, Warrenton, N. C., desire to place on record our sense of loss and bereavement in the passing away of our beloved fellow member, Miss Mary Alice Jones, who was called to rest in Paradise on the evening of Sept. 4th, 1919.

We wish to record our love and admiration for her and our appreciation of her generous and untiring labor of love in our midst. The influence of her sweet and gentle personality has been a benediction and blessing to our Auxiliary and the entire community. She was most zealous and faithful in all church work, and especially so in her choir duties. She was an indispensable member of the choir and her fine soprano voice for many, many years, rang out in strong, clear tones in praise and exaltation to her maker.

In her spiritual life she was an humble and consecrated Christian, "looking unto Jesus, the author and finisher of our faith."

While we mourn with sorrow her loss, we bow in submission to the all-wise Father's will; but rejoice that for her

"The strife is o'er, the battle done, The victory of life is won."

Resolved, That a copy of these minutes be sent to the bereaved family, be spread upon the records of our Auxiliary, and be published in the Carolina Churchman and the Warren Record.

MRS. S. P. ARRINGTON,
MRS. H. L. FALKENER,
MISS L. N. HAWKINS,
Committee.
