 She: For goodness sake swallow it. You sure do need some.

THE FARMER'S MARKET
 The housewives of Chapel Hill are trying to co-operate with the farmers in establishing a curb market where fresh farm produce can pass direct from farmers to consumers. It is up to the farmers to co-operate in such an arrangement for by doing they get the whole worth of their produce, having eliminated the extra expense of distributing it. Then also the farmer will find that he merely has to bring his produce to market and there the consumer comes to purchase it. He does not have to look all over town for a purchaser. This market will save the farmer in the following ways:

1. A quick sale for his produce.
2. The farmer and purchaser save extra handling costs.
3. Larger prices for produce and smaller prices for consumers.

4. The farmers can quickly understand the needs and demands of consumers.

5. The pocket-books of Orange county get the money which otherwise goes elsewhere.

Farmers are urged to bring their produce on Wednesdays and Saturdays from 7 to 10 a. m. to the market which is the street from the bakery to the City Hall.
